DYNAMITE SQUAD ON FIEND'S TRAIL

BRITISH ARE WINNING IN FIGHTING AT POZIERES

Guillemont Is Scene of Terrific Engagement —Each Side Holding Half of Little Village

TEUTONS CLAIM THAT ENGLISH DISLODGED

Paris Reports Great Air Activity Is Marking Fighting on Both of Its Big Battle Fronts

LONDON, July 24.—British troops have captured a large part of the village of Pozieres, says the official British statement issued this afternoon. They also gained some ground near High Wood in the direction of Guillemont.

The night, the statement adds, was comparatively calm.

"We secured important advantages in spite of the enemy's stubborn defense," General Haig stated. "A large portion of the village is now ours. We took two guns and sixty more prisoners.

General Haig said that repeated German attacks made yesterday between High Wood and Guillemont had been without success and that British artillery and machine guns had inflicted heavy casualties.

Despite Haig's statement that the night was "comparatively calm," special despatches from Paris today declared that the battle along the Guillemont-Pozieres line was continuous and at midnight the British held the advantage.

HARD FIGHTING REPORTED.

Special despatches emphasized the terrific hand-to-hand fighting raging around Guillemont. Half of the village is in British hands, but in the other half the Teutons are strongly dug in and fighting desperately to hold their ground.

From the German statement it is evident that the Teutons are hurling masses of men in violent efforts to dislodge the British from the points at which Haig reported an advance.

From the German version this afternoon it is apparent that a desperate struggle is in progress south of the dent made in the German line around Bazentin and Longueval. The Teutonic statements claim a repulse of the British by the Brandenburg Grenadiers in a hot counter-attack and the dislodging of a British detachment from sand pits southwest of Guillemont, where the allies are striving to push through to Coumbles.

CHAPUT GETS EIGHTH.

PARIS, July 24.—Extraordinary aerial activity on both sides of the French-German battle line was reported in the official communique today. Luneville was the object of a German air raid.

A French aerial raider on Sunday dropped eight bombs on Conflas station and a number of others on buildings at Dieuse and Vigneulles.

Aviator Chaput brought down on Sunday his eighth German aeroplane in a combat near Fresnes. One other German machine was destroyed near Vaux on the same day.

On the right bank of the Meuse, in the course of a detached attack on St. Fine Chapel, French forces captured thirty German prisoners. During the last ten days in this section 800 captives have been taken. North of the Aisne, the communique declared, a trench was cleared. In the Somme region bad weather is interfering with operations.

Asquith Asks Probe of Two Campaigns

LONDON, July 24.—Premier Asquith today introduced in the House of Commons a bill for investigation of the Mesopotamian and Dardanelles campaigns. It was in answer to numerous criticisms which have been evoked since abandonment of the Gallipoli offensive and the lack of support tendered the British at Kut-el-Amara.

British Are Defeated by Turks Near Suez

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 24.—A defeat of British cavalry detachments by Turkish forces east of Suez, near the canal, is announced by army headquarters in today's official statement. The British fled towards the canal pursued by the Turks.

British detachments advancing west of Katia, thirty miles from the canal, were driven off by Turkish skirmishers.

Kaiser Anxious To Lead Troops

Address to Wounded Causes Interest

LONDON, July 24.—Emperor William, on his recent trip to a point somewhere in the rear of Peronne on the Somme front, says a despatch to the wireless press from Berne, made a speech to the German wounded soldiers which is attracting great attention in Germany. The German Emperor is quoted as saying:

"It is the most poignant grief of my life that I am unable to take a more active part in this war. It is my earnest desire to take my place in the trenches and to deal such blows at our enemies as my age and strength would permit.

"I could take my place with the youngest of you and I promise that I would leave my mark on the enemy. But the inscrutable Almighty has willed otherwise. Into my care has been committed by divine destiny the leadership of our country, its armies and its forces on land and sea.

"The burden of thinking, deciding a leading has been hard upon me and realizing this, I know my life must not be risked in the foremost line of battle, where my feelings, if you unrestrained, would carry me swiftly.

"My life must be conserved carefully for the welfare of Germany, in order to carry out the duties assigned to me by divine appointment."

GERMANS LOSE IN SEA BATTLE AGAINST BRITISH

Attempted Raid on England Is Repulsed, But Attackers Reach Safety.

LONDON, July 24.—Six German destroyers, attempting either a raid or a reconnaissance on the British coast, were put to flight by a British sea force in a running fight off Shouwen Bank Saturday night and early Sunday, an admiralty statement announced today. The German ships, it was said, were repeatedly hit. One British vessel was struck once, but the total British casualties were two wounded. The German destroyers succeeded in reaching a base on the Belgian coast.

The British patrol vessels, characterized as "light forces" in the statement, sighted three enemy destroyers Saturday at midnight near the North Hinder lightship. The squadron retired before the British cruisers were able to inflict any damage on them.

Subsequently, the admiralty said, six enemy destroyers approached and were engaged by the British sea forces in a running fight off Shouwen Bank.

"One of our vessels was hit once," the statement concluded, "and two of our men were slightly wounded."

The North Hinder lightship is located off the Belgian coast between Ostend and the mouth of the Scheldt river. Shouwen Bank is in the same neighborhood. The action which the admiralty described, therefore, took place off the Belgian coast. The German vessels engaged presumably came from Zeebrugge, where there is a German destroyer base.

Heavy firing was heard off the Dutch coast all day Sunday, says a despatch from The Hague to the Exchange Telegraph Co. Five German destroyers were observed returning toward Zeebrugge. Two of them had a heavy list.

BERLIN, July 24.—German torpedo boats in their raid from Flanders on the night of July 22-23 went up to the mouth of the Thames without sighting any British naval forces, says an official statement issued today by the German admiralty. Later they encountered several small British cruisers, but returned to their base undamaged.

Deutschland Not Ready to Depart

BALTIMORE, Md., July 24.—The diver boat Deutschland was still in this port today. The Deutschland's sister ship, the Bremen, is due, it is said, "at any time."

Whether clearance has actually been granted to the Deutschland is a carefully guarded secret. If it has the Deutschland must clear out for the capes by night or reclear, and in any case she must submit to sealing of her wireless if she stays longer in port.

Persistent reports say the Deutschland will carry from $100,000 to $4,000,000 worth in gold, if insurance is obtainable. This bullion is reported stored in the company offices or on board, but Manager Hilken only answers his invariable and non-communicative: "It is possible."

The story goes that the money was taken from the interned German liner Prinzessin Cecile at Boston and, significantly, Hilken recently made a secret journey to that city.

Twenty Drowned When Ferry Boats Crash

COPENHAGEN, July 24.—Twenty persons were drowned when two ferry boats collided with each other on the Spree near Berlin on Sunday, according to the Politiken. One of the boats was sunk.

PRIVATE SLEUTHS AT WORK ON CASE

ROLPH ASSURES REWARD OF $5000

Victim's Brother Asks Subpoenas for Emma Goldman, Sprecklels and Fremont Older

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—To run down the dynamiter whose handdealt death Saturday to six persons and injured thirty-six when a bomb exploded on Market street during the preparedness parade, all the energies of the city of San Francisco were called into action today. Following the announcement by Mayor Rolph that he would personally guarantee a reward of $5000 for the apprehension of the criminal, Chief of Police David White established a separate and exclusive bureau in the detective department devoted wholly to this case.

The new bureau will continue to exist "as long as the dynamiter is at large." The aid of Oakland and other large cities whose police departments have anarchist experts has been asked and it is expected that their detectives best informed on anarchist groups will co-operate with the local men.

Chief of Police White held a conference with Mayor Rolph lasting for over an hour. The chief explained the arrangements he had made for running down the miscreants, and the city's chief executive advised with him and made many suggestions.

At the suggestion of Captain Matheson, District Attorney Fickert detailed Assistant District Attorney Charles H. Brennan to assist in the investigation. William A. Mundell, of the Mundell detective agency, arrived in San Francisco this morning and immediately tendered to Chief of Police White free of charge the services of three of his men who from time to time have been detailed in a search for anarchists.

ASKS SUBPENAS.

B. F. Lamborn of 1428 Morton street, Alameda, who offered $1000 reward for the capture of the bomb-thrower, and whose brother, Lee H. Lamborn, was one of the first victims to succumb, called at the coroner's office this morning and requested that subpenas be issued for Emma Goldman, known familiarly as the "Queen of the Reds"; Fremont Older and Rudolph Spreckels.

The coroner's jury was assembled at noon and was specially selected from among the business men of the community. The jurors viewed the bodies of the Arthur Nelson and Lee H. Lamborn, still remaining in the municipal mortuary, and were then taken to the parlors of N. Gray & Company where lie the bodies of Dr. George L. Painter of Berkeley, Mrs. H. E. Knapp of 1436 Sixth street, Alameda, and George Lawlor of Mill Valley.

To Lieutenant of Police Duncan Matheson is directly delegated the arrangements for the special bureau of investigation which will devote its entire energies to running down the culprits.

TO HIRE EXPERTS.

In addition to selecting Captain Matheson and giving him full sway, Chief of Police White has been given funds to hire private detectives. It is believed that some of the most efficient private sleuths in all the West will be retained. The stars of the Pinkerton, Burns and Mundell detective agencies, it is expected, will be retained, although it is understood that no details of this investigation or of the men engaged in it will be made public.

Lieutenant Duncan Matheson, who has been acting captain of the Harbor district for more than a year and who was within fifty feet of the spot where the bomb was placed, has an enviable record in the department. He was for years a detective-sergeant when ranking only as a patrolman, and during his tenure of office made more captures for each crime investigated than any sleuth since assigned to the upper office. It was only when he had successively passed through the grades of corporal and sergeant to a lieutenancy that he was withdrawn from the bureau and placed in charge of the traffic squad.

LITTLE FAMILY IS DESTITUTE WHEN BOMB DOES ITS WORK

MRS. GEORGE G. LAWLOR AND TWO CHILDREN OF ALAMEDA, WIDOWED AND ORPHANED BY PREPAREDNESS PARADE BOMB.

POVERTY IS NEW HORROR TO MOURNERS

When death, blindly striking out from the bomb that killed and mangled spectators of the preparedness parade in San Francisco, smote as one of its chance victims George Garrettson Lawlor of Alameda, it left a widow and two children destitute and overwhelmed with grief.

Dazed by the suddenness of the catastrophe, penniless, and deprived of the loving husband who had been her sole protection from the hardships of life, Mrs. Lawlor sits in her bungalow home at 3006 Van Euren street, and tries to understand the puzzle of it all as she comforts her baby boy, Billikin, and her 7-year-old daughter, Katherine.

"I have no money," she said simply this morning, as the tears welled steadily from her eyes, "and I don't know how I am going to bury the body of my husband. I can scarcely realize yet that he is dead; it seems as though I were in a horrible nightmare and that if I could scream aloud I would awake.

"I cannot understand it—the blind fatality that reached out and took George when he was standing to watch the flag he loved carried past him in honor by the people in the parade. He was guiltless of any wrong to anybody; why should he have been killed? Oh, I cannot understand.

"I have no money in the house even to buy food for myself and the children and I don't know what I am going to do. I suppose life will go on some way, if it were not for my children I would not care what happened."

Lawlor was a lumber salesman and was employed in Mill Valley. He was talking with Howard E. Knapp at Steuart and Market streets when the fatal explosion took place and was instantly killed.

Casement Deprived of One More Chance

LONDON, July 24.—Sir Frederick E. Smith, the attorney-general, has intimated to Roger Casement's solicitor that he is unable to grant his fiat which would enable Casement's appeal against the death sentence passed on him for high treason in connection with the Dublin rebellion to be carried to the House of Lords.

Five Drowned When Cloudburst Hits Auto

SUNRISE, Wyo., July 24.—Five were drowned near here last night when an automobile was swept away by a wall of water resulting from a cloudburst. The party was returning from a picnic in the mountains. The bodies were recovered today.

SUPERVISORS VOTE TO OFFER REWARD

County May Add $1000 to Purse for Capture of Bomb Culprit

Alameda county will offer a reward of $1000 for the apprehension of the person or persons who committed the infernal machine outrage in San Francisco last Saturday if the District Attorney can determine upon any legal proceedings under which the offer can be made.

Supervisor John F. Mullins introduced a motion before the Supervisors today in the following language:

"While parading the streets of San Francisco last Saturday citizens of Alameda county were murdered by some beast who placed a bomb in their midst. I would offer as a motion that the District Attorney investigate to ascertain if there is not some law which will enable this board to offer a large reward in behalf of Alameda county toward assisting in the apprehension of the person or persons who committed that dastardly crime, taking the lives of our citizens who were manifesting their approval of the right of liberty and the protection of their property through the preparedness parade."

The motion was unanimously adopted by the board. Supervisor Mullins said that if possible the sum of $1000 will be posted.

State Offer of Reward Urged

SACRAMENTO, July 24.—A reward for the capture and conviction of the bomb planters responsible for the fatal explosion in San Francisco on Saturday may be offered by the state, according to John Francis Neylan, chairman of the State Board of Control. I am giving this matter careful consideration," he said this morning, "although I have not heard from Governor Johnson.

"A precedent was established in the McNamara case, when a reward of $10,000 was offered and paid to Detective William J. Burns. There was no money available for the purpose then, but the claim was included in the state budget and allowed by the next legislature."

Piercey's One-hit Game Beats Beavers

SALT LAKE, July 24. — Bill Piercey covered himself with glory here this morning by holding the Portland baseball team to one hit, while his fellow Salt Lakers were touching Houck for seven safeties and three runs. The only hit made off Piercey was a single by Guisto in the first inning. After that it was just a one-two-three proposition with Portland batters.

The Bees took a lead in the second inning, when Houck allowed the first two men to walk and then fell for a single and two sacrifice hits. The Bees added one in the seventh, when Houck again became shaky. The score:

	R.	H.	E.
Portland	0	1	0
Salt Lake	3	7	0

Thirty-one More Die in Paralysis Epidemic

NEW YORK, July 24.—Another gain in the number of fatalities and decrease in the number of new cases was reported by the health department when the epidemic of infantile paralysis entered its fifth week.

During the twenty-four hours ending at 10 a. m. today there were thirty-one deaths and eighty-nine new cases reported in the greater city, as against twenty-three deaths and 115 new cases during the corresponding period yesterday.

Reward for Arrest Offered

ALAMEDA, July 24.—Former City Clerk Ben F. Lamborn has offered a reward of $1000 for the capture of the person or persons responsible for the bomb outrage in which his brother, L. H. Lamborn lost his life, Saturday afternoon. The two brothers are the last members of the Lamborn family, old-time Californians. Harvey Lamborn, the dead man, was a charter member of Mission Parlor, N. S. G. W. The Native Sons will take official part in the funeral to be held from an Alameda undertaking establishment, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The body will not be brought to this city until tonight or tomorrow morning, as the authorities will retain the bodies in San Francisco until after the inquest is closed.

Vague apprehension was felt at the Lamborn home early yesterday afternoon when Lamborn seemed to be delayed in reaching home. He had promised to come home immediately after quitting work at noon to help his daughter, Miss Gladys Lamborn, make final preparations for a trip to Tahoe. Miss Lamborn was to have left Alameda Saturday night at 7 o'clock for the mountains. The funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. L. F. Russell, pastor of the First Baptist Church. Miss Nellie Higby will sing.

Friends of the Lamborn brothers are apprehensive that the active steps being taken by Ben F. Lamborn to discover the perpetrator of the outrage may make him a marked man for the bomb throwers to operate against.

Mrs. Henry Claussen, wife of one of the most seriously injured victims, said today that she had received considerable encouragement from the hospital physicians regarding her husband's chances of recovery. Claussen was formerly in the liquor business, but recently engaged in insurance work.

At the Knapp home at 1416 Sixth street today the doors were still locked and the curtains drawn, as the husband and son are still in the hospital, while Mrs. Knapp's mangled body is at the San Francisco morgue. As far as known here, the funeral arrangements for Mrs. Knapp have not been made. Neighbors say that Mrs. Knapp objected to going to San Francisco to attend the parade, and changed her mind only at the solicitation of her husband and child. It was principally on the boy's behalf that Mrs. Knapp finally consented to go. An hour later she was dead.

CLEWS HINT WHOLESALE CONSPIRACY TO MURDER

Program to Poison Soup Uncovered in Search for Ring Suspected of Vile Death Program

COMMUNITY TO HUNT FOR GUILTY

Police Commissioner and Officials Receive Notes Hinting at Plot Against Good Citizens

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—The discovery today that Police Commissioner James Woods, manager of the St. Francis hotel, had received one of the threatening postal cards last week and that his head waiter, M. Lea, had been instructed in a message that it might be a good idea for him to slip poison in the soup of some of the hostelry's distinguished guests, were among the startling developments of the morning in the investigation of Saturday's bomb outrage.

Evidently the writer of the cards hoped that some of the advocates of preparedness might fall victims to poison administered similarly to that given an assemblage of clergymen at a banquet several months ago in Chicago. The cards and the exact wording of the writing thereon are being kept secret by the police and no further details were available. They have been given into the hands of detectives, who will run down that clew alone for the present.

POISON IN SOUP.

It was learned that the card to Woods had warned him that he was too active in the preparedness campaign and if he did not look out he might find some poison in his soup. The message to Lea was a suggestion that there was too much talk about getting ready for war and that it might be a good idea for him to drop some poison in the soup and serve it where it would do the most good.

Lea immediately communicated with Woods, and it was then discovered that both postals had been received the same day.

Captain Duncan Matheson began the organization of his bureau today and immediately gave his men the opportunity of carefully examining the pieces of the bomb and the bullets it contained, which were picked up near the scene. Several explosive experts were also summoned to headquarters and busied themselves with a minute investigation with the aid of microscopes and magnifying glasses.

Chief of Police White summoned the ten company commanders to headquarters and, with Captain of Detectives Patrick Shea, held a conference as to ways and means for pursuing the inquiry. Suggestions were received by the chief and were made to the captains. It was suggested that it might be well for each captain to pick out a detail of his own men and start them on an independent inquiry for clews in the separate districts.

Just before the conference Chief White announced that Lieutenant Lackman would be acting captain of the Harbor district by reason of the withdrawal of Matheson and Lieutenant Stephen Bunner, who both come from that company.

LETTERS TO POLICE.

The police denied today a rumor that they were placing a guard on one of the victims of the explosion. It was admitted at headquarters that several of the victims were still to be questioned, but not at present does a taint of suspicion attach to any of them.

Chief of Police White also declared today that he had been for weeks investigating the receipt of threatening postcards. He had heard of one or two of them only a day or so before the start of the preparedness parade and the matter had been assigned to the detectives on the post-office detail.

The detectives are working on several clews and are still holding Frank Josefson, who was detained Saturday night because of remarks he was heard to make after the explosion. The most promising clew was furnished by William Taylor, an aged peddler, who said he saw a man leave a suitcase on the spot where the bomb exploded, at 1:30 o'clock, half an hour before the explosion. He remarked to the man, he said, tha it was a poor place to leave his grip, but the stranger walked hurriedly away. Taylor was able to give only a meager description of him.

THREE MORE BOMB VICTIMS AT DOOR OF DEATH

ANARCHIST'S ADDRESS TO BE OPPOSED

Mayor Wants Emma Goldman Not to Give Her Talk

Says Berkeley Residents Object to Her Appearance

BERKELEY, July 24. — Every effort will be made by Mayor Samuel C. Irving to prevent a scheduled meeting to be addressed by Emma Goldman at Wilkins hall tonight.

Mayor Irving issued orders to Chief of Police August Vollmer to utilize every means in his power to prevent the meeting. The mayor and Councilmen Hoff, Harms and Robson held a conference with Ben Reitman, business manager for Miss Goldman, at the city hall this morning and at its conclusion Reitman said that Miss Goldman would talk, while the mayor said she would not.

Chief of Police Volmer said that he thought Miss Goldman would accede to the wishes of the city authorities and not attempt to talk.

Mrs. May Wilkins, who owns the hall in which the meeting was scheduled to be held, attempted to refund the deposit paid on the place by the anarchists but this was refused by Reitman.

"There will be trouble, I am sure, if Miss Goldman attempts to speak tonight," said Mayor Irving. "I have received dozens of protests against the meeting. The phone is kept hot with those who oppose the meeting. Most of them are friends of those who were injured or killed in the horrible affair of Saturday in San Francisco.

"It is to keep some over-excited person from doing something rash that I want the meeting stopped. The situation is unusual, following so closely the catastrophe of Saturday and I am sure that the best interests of everybody can best be served by calling off the meeting."

Miss Goldman is billed to deliver a peaceful speech on educational matters that surely have a place in Berkeley," says Reitman. "She has spent her money here in arranging the meeting. Her friends are coming from Oakland and San Francisco to hear her. She will speak in Berkeley tonight. If the doors of the hall are closed against her, she will speak elsewhere.

"It may be that she will have to speak in a vacant lot or in the street, but she will speak, quietly and inoffensively and, having delivered her message, will be on her way. I do not think that Berkeley will go down among the cities which do not allow free speech."

Summer Session Students Injured

BERKELEY, July 24.—Two students in the summer school of the University of California, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Terry of Ely, Nevada, are among those who were injured by the explosion of the bomb in San Francisco Saturday. They both received painful contusions and bruises and are recovering in St. Francis hospital.

"The proportions of the outrage of Saturday are so great that the situation is by no means a local one. It is really national in its scope. As it happens, this city is at present infested with a number of wild-eyed rabid propagandists, whose operations are not confined to San Francisco, or to California, but extend over the entire United States. They have selected San Francisco for the time being in order to give expression to their hatred of government and their defiance of all institutions. As one of the city and county officials I can say that this nest of agitators and lawless persons will be stamped out.

"We expect the co-operation of all of the federal authorities and feel certain that they will work with us untiringly in our efforts to ferret out the persons responsible for the murders of Saturday. I am satisfied that there were not one or two or three persons involved in the plot, but that there were quite a number, members of one of the several secret organizations that have for their purpose the destruction of all forms of government establishments.

"The task that is set before the police department and my office is one so large that for my part I very eagerly request the aid of all citizens. I now call upon all persons in this city or elsewhere who may possess any information of whatever character to communicate it without delay to my office or to the bureau created in the police department by Chief White.

"I have been working steadily on the case since Saturday afternoon and some of the developments have encouraged me greatly. I must confess that just at present we are confronted with several obstacles that make it impossible to get any immediate results, but by carefully working out all of the details no matter how small, we expect progress that will bring us nearer to the perpetrators of the crime."

Pulpit Scores Bomb Outrage

Drastic condemnation of the perpetrators of the bomb outrage in San Francisco on Preparedness Day was voiced by a number of east bay ministers in their pulpit utterances yesterday. In nearly every church prayer was offered for the dead and wounded and the catastrophe was referred to as "detestable and horrible."

At St. Paul's Episcopal church, Rev. Alexander Allen preached a special sermon on the subject, declaring that the American people have been taught the value of preparedness through this fiendish act. "We do not need a better lesson in the necessity for preparedness," he said. "We are dealing with a live danger to our country and are in need of vigorous Christian Americans. We need to realize that there are foes to our patriotism where we least expecte them. Public dangers threaten our people.

"Patriotism is a department of Christianity. St. Paul, when in danger, appealed to his Roman citizenship. Americans should be able to glory in their citizenship. Our flag must be our protection, and our citizenship should be an equal shield. We should not have to appeal to the flag of another country when in peril. There is need for a preparedness that will be a guarantee of peace. The ultra-pacifist would get us into war."

Rev. William Day Simonds, past or of the First Unitarian church, said that the outrage was "a sad and cheap protest against preparedness" and that the man who was responsible for it was certainly crazed.

Rev. Josiah Sibley, pastor of Calvary Presbyterian church, San Francisco, characterized the tragedy as "a sad testimony to the price of liberty gone to license." He said: "The perpetrators of this crime were either insane or misguided dupes or wilful criminals.

"There is no security for life and liberty save in the liberty that comes with the recognition of constituted authority. The only alternative is the law of the jungle. Persons not approving of the preparedness idea were at perfect liberty to argue their side of the case or to have an anti-preparedness parade. The bomb-throwers assassinate the very freedom they claim for themselves."

DISGRACEFUL OUTRAGE.

The Rev. John M. Jackson, pastor of the Eighth avenue Methodist church of Oakland, who spoke against preparedness at Idora Park on July 16, declaring that it was only a cloak for militarism, was vehement in his denunciation of the outrage. "As law-abiding citizens," he said, "we all feel the disgrace of this outrage keenly. Action should be taken at once by the whole community to express its abhorrence of such a deed."

The Rev. Paul Smith of Central Methodist church, San Francisco, delivered a sermon last night in which he declared the tragedy an outrage unequaled in modern times. He said:

"Christian people throughout San Francisco should be zealous in an effort to crush all such sentiment that tends to fan the imaginings of those who can deliberately plan such a dastardly deed. It is pitiable. If we have a duty to perform as church-going people it is to lend our assistance to those who are taking precautions to prevent a repetition of Saturday's horrible tragedy."

AGAINST SPEAKING.

The Rev. John F. Wilson of the First Methodist church, San Francisco, condemned street corner speeches by anarchists and radicals, branding them a menace to the community. He said:

"Such stret speaking as I heard Saturday evening when I passed the corner of Fillmore and Sutter streets should be stopped. Not only did the speaker add fuel to the bomb throwing of Saturday, but grew more vicious in his talk, and stated that the mayor and city officials should have been among the victims of the horrible plot."

Dr. John Davidson of Los Angeles, who is temporarily filling the pulpit of the Rev. F. W. Clampett in Trinity church, San Francisco, called the attention of the congregation to the tragedy, and urged sympathy for the families of the victims. He asked his hearers to make special supplance for the suppression of anything that might lead to a repetition of Saturday's deed.

Chicago Police Watch Radicals

CHICAGO, July 24.—Chief of Police Healy, in an attempt to discover whether the plan for the anarchist explosion at San Francisco during the preparedness parade was conceived here, issued a special order today that all anarchists and persons seen lately at anarchist meetings be kept under surveillance. For a week or more police sergeants have been attending anarchist meetings, taking down what the speakers say. These utterances, shown to Chief Healy, brought today's order.

DREADFUL COUGH CURED.
Following an attack of pneumonia I had four years ago, I had a dreadful cough that hung on for months," writes Mrs. Owen Caruthers, Wabash, Ind. "I lost in weight and became alarmed about my condition. I doctored with a number of remedies without benefit until taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It helped me almost immediately and by taking one bottle of it I was cured." For sale by Osgood Bros. Drug Stores.—Advertisement.

Close to Bomb; Escape Injury

With his sister-in-law, Miss Pearl Seeman of San Jose, probably fatally injured and his six-year-old son George painfully hurt by his side, Captain T. C. Kennedy, master of a Standard Oil tank steamer, living at 619 Forty-fifth street, Oakland, escaped unhurt as did his wife who was holding his arm when the fatal bomb explosion took place in San Francisco Saturday.

"The explosion sounded like a giant rocket," declares the captain. "As the smoke cleared away after the deafening detonation, I first noticed my boy limping down the street crying piteously for his mother. Then I noticed that Pearl lay at my feet with both her legs frightfully mangled. It looked as though one of them had been severed from her body.

"All around me were dead and dying people. My wife, whose skirt had been torn by flying fragments of metal, was unhurt and assisted me in caring for her sister and our boy. We had chosen that corner from which to watch the parade, because the crowd was thinner at that point. We had walked up Market street and arrived only a few minutes before the explosion."

Chance Saved Babes

Because they were held above the sidewalk in the arms of their parents, William and Virginia Wymore, aged 2 and 4 years, escaped injury in the fatal bomb explosion in San Francisco Saturday. Had they been standing on the sidewalk level with the main force of the explosion they would undoubtedly have been killed or crippled for life.

Mrs. L. C. Wymore of 1338 Fifty-third avenue, Oakland, was holding her baby William in her arms and did not loosen her hold even when she was hurled to the pavement. Both of her legs were mangled and she may not recover from the injury. Virginia was in her father's arms and also was preserved from harm, although her father was knocked down by the force of the blow.

Sister Hurries to Woman's Bedside

FRESNO, July 24.—Mrs. Kinsley Van Loo, one of the injured victims of the bomb explosion in San Francisco Saturday, as a resident of this section, living on a ranch near Malaga, five miles south of this city. She has been in the habit of spending her summers in Oakland with her husband, who is employed by Griffin-Skelly. She has two sisters living here.

DEATH TO CALL OTHER VICTIMS

Two More Certain to Die and Passing of Third Is Probable.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—Three victims of Saturday's infernal machine are lying at death's door at three San Francisco hospitals this morning and two of them are expected to succumb at any moment. Mrs. Kingsley Van Loo, of 354 Clark street, Alameda, is slowly sinking at Adler's sanitarium with all hope passed and with her family waiting silently for the end. Her husband, a brother and four sisters are at her bedside, while a few feet away, still suffering from grievous injuries, two little children moan and cry for their mother in their own pain and distress.

Little Marie's leg is broken and lacerated, and Richard, her 9-year-old brother, is suffering from internal hurts and bruises which developed more seriously than was anticipated at the time of the explosion.

Thomas H. Turnbull, former manager of the Family Club, of 1656 California street, is at the Central Emergency Hospital. Chief Surgeon Alanson Weeks said this morning that it was only a question of hours before Turnbull must succumb. His head was terribly smashed by a piece of the bomb casing and an operation upon his skull disclosed such a dreadful injury as to preclude the possibility of recovery. Out at the San Francisco hospital Miss Pearl Seemann, 19 years old, of 619 Forty-fifth avenue, weakened from loss of blood and apparently scarcely more than breathing, was placed on the operating table at 9 o'clock for a reamputation of a portion of her right leg. With a section of the limb blown off by the bomb a hasty amputation was made at the Central Emergency Hospital on Saturday.

This morning an examination disclosed the fact that an insufficient portion of the jagged flesh had been cut off and the hemorrhage was so intense that it was necessary to operate a second time. It is not thought that Miss Seeman can survive, but the surgeons are taking a long chance to save her.

Howard E. Knapp, salesman of 1446 Sixth street, Alameda, is at Mt. Zion Hospital under the care of Dr. Howard Brunn. The physician said today that his patient had taken a turn for the better. Last night Knapp looked to be in a serious state, but much encouragement has come from the fact that his brain has cleared, and unless blood poisoning should develop it is believed that the injuries to both legs will get well. His legs were pierced by shots and nails from the bomb.

Mrs. Lloyd C. Wymore of 1238 Forty-third avenue, Oakland, is at Fabiola Hospital. Rumor had it yesterday that she could not recover, but was without foundation. The attending surgeons this morning asserted that while her left leg was crushed and torn and she had suffered severely from shock, her chances to get well were more than ordinarily well.

It developed this morning that only five persons were killed in Saturday's outrage. Adam Fox, the G. A. R veteran, of 3227 Sacramento street, was seized with a heart attack while parading ten minutes before the explosion of the bomb. It developed through an autopsy by Dr. David Stafford today that he had succumbed to heart failure.

Fox was seized with a spasm on Market street near Steuart. Dr. D. Brandly Plymire, who was standing in the crowd, attended him at the scene and, according to witnesses who have made themselves known to Acting Coroner Conlon, the ambulance had been summoned for him and was actually on hand to take him away when the bomb exploded. These facts were not made known until this morning, when Dr. Plymire offered to sign the death certificate when a protest was entered against the performance of an autopsy. Autopsy Surgeon Stafford insisted on performing the autopsy, however, and the true nature of the death was disclosed.

THREAT WRITERS SOUGHT 6 WEEKS

S. F. Police and Postal Authorities on Trail of Note Senders.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—Chief of Police White let it be known today that for more than six weeks he has been engaged in a search for persons who sent threats by letter and postcard to newspapers and to those who promoted the preparedness parade. Postal inspectors have been associated with him in this work, but their combined effects have failed so far.

The threats began to come as soon as the first plans for the parade were announced. They were all printed out and it is believed were the work of the same person, although many believe more than one person was concerned in Saturday's outrage. Most of the postcards were signed "The Employes' Liberty League," and denounced those behind the parade plan. One letter, sent to several newspapers, was signed "The Determined Exiles from Militaristic Governments, Italy, Germany, Holland, U. S."

The wording was also practically the same in each, and while the police now believe that more than one person was involved in the outrage, it is evident that the warnings came from the same man.

TYPE OF LETTER.

A type of the letters sent the leaders of the parade shows that the writer was directing his menace against the so-called militaristic spirit. It reads:

Your extreme activity in promoting and glorifying militarism marks you as a dangerous and vicious "jingo," and the immediate "exterminatine" of you and your brutal, greedy, parasitic, thieving and war-making class is going to be the sole "patriotic" duty of

THE EMPLOYES' LIBERTY LEAGUE.

The letter sent the newspapers, while of the same tenor, goes into more detail. The writer decries what he terms false patriotism as it is developed in the militaristic governments of Europe, and then threatens to use direct action on the day of the parade.

SUSPECTS WATCHED.

As quickly as these letters were received they found their way to Chief White, who was not slow to realize the gravity of their import. Every haunt of the fanatics and cranks was carefully watched for weeks in advance of the parade and every suspicious character was kept under surveillance.

"When I received the letters," says White, "I consulted with the post-office authorities in the expectation that they might be able to throw some light on their origin. The inspectors have worked conscientiously with my men, but we were unable to unearth a single tangible clew.

"I was taking no chances, but the threats were so indefinite that it was almost impossible to tell how and when the outbreak would come."

Police Work on Three Theories

Watch Foreign Group in Potrero

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—Hope of apprehending the bomb planter, who took a toll of six lives during the preparedness parade Saturday, centered today on three theories:

One—That the maker of the infernal machine was a member of an organized ring and will be betrayed by a fellow-conspirator seeking reward money; or, if he worked out the plan alone, that the fanatic will become emboldened and betray himself.

Two—That, with virtually every San Franciscan aiding the police, some individual will come upon a valuable clew.

Three—That the drag-net set out by the specially-appointed bomb squad will obtain information through one of the many avenues open to the police.

A group of foreigners who gather in the Potrero district are being closely watched. This group has already produced one character who recently shot one policeman and then gave battle while barricaded in a cabin.

Mass Meeting Called in S. F.

A mass meeting of citizens has been called for Wednesday evening by the law and order committee of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce for the consideration of the measures which shuld be taken for the apprehension of the criminals responsible for the bomb outrage and the protection of the community from similar lawless acts. No formal statement has been issued by the committee following a meeting held last night, but Chairman Frederick J. Koster declared that the community should be awakened to the cancerous conditions existing in the body politic.

Members of the committee state today that local conditions prevail which threaten further tragedy and disaster unless they are immediately checked. All men and women who stand for law and order, whatever their affiliations, are urged to attend the mass meeting, which will probably be held in the Civic Auditorium. "These dastardly murderers must be tracked down," said Koster, "and the citizens should express in concerted resolutions their determination to see this accomplished. The city must be purged of its lawless element and conditions established which will prevent such abhorrent crimes."

SUSPECTS SOUGHT.

Tony Ranisio and Louis Parenti, two members of a radical Italian organization, are being sought by the police in connection with the bomb outrage. They were arrested on Friday morning for tacking and pasting handbills, printed in a foreign language, protesting against the preparedness parade in inflammatory phrases. They were later released on bail.

PICKED OFFICERS SEEK DYNAMITER

Police Commissioner and Chief Instruct Men in Their Work.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—"The State relies upon you men to capture the perpetrators of this outrage. It demands that they be captured and puts this tremendous responsibility upon you."

In these words Chief of Police White and Commissioner Cook put to work this morning the special detail of bomb outrage investigators which is headed by Lieutenant Duncan Matheson, Lieutenant Stephen Bunner and Sergeant Charles Gough and includes the following in addition:

Detective-Sergeant William Froull. Detectives Barney Riehl, George Richards, Henry Kalmbach, Ernest Gable and William Maguire, and Patrolmen Peter J. Hughes, Michael Desmond, E. J. Wiscatchil, Albert S. Harlow, Draper H. Hand, George E. Bailey and Arthur Bigelow.

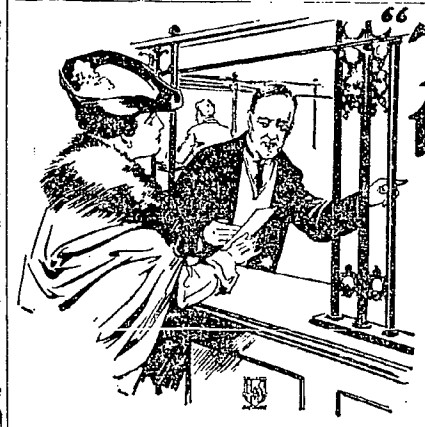

Captain Matheson, given carte blanche in his picking of a special investigating bureau has chosen only four men at present on duty in the upper office. His chief assistant, Lieutenant Stephen Bunner, of the Harbor District, earned fame in the department during ten years in the upper office by original, novel and ingenius crime detecting methods. The mails, the newspapers and other decoys were successfully used by Bunner, and a local business house presented him with a gold star for unraveling a mystery.

Sergeant Charles Goff, in charge of the traffic squad, has been Mathewson's chief lieutenant on several occasions, and is considered a shrewd officer. He was one of those detailed to the district attorney's office at the time of the graft prosecution.

Chief of Police White and Commissioner Cook visited the detective assembly room for roll call at 9:30 o'clock this morning, each making an address to the detectives. The upper office men were told that each of them was to consider himself constituted as specially detailed to arrest the persons who conceived Saturday's bomb plot, and that every scrap of information should be immediately communicated to the special bureau. The addresses were short and to the point.

Daniel Edwards, the suspect arrested yesterday for making inflammatory speeches and who has been closely interrogated by the police, was possessed of a four-edged dagger of the sort dropped from aeroplanes during the present war. The fact that he had such a weapon on his person combined with the nature of his talk on the street, led the police today to decline to turn him loose until his record can be further looked into.

False Economy Often Misleads Piano Purchasers
There is a low-priced limit beyond which it is unsafe to go in the purchase of your Piano if you would expect satisfaction and real musical service.
Characteristically all Pianos appear to be much alike, but can you, who are unskilled in Piano buying, separate the good from the bad and be sure that you have purchased wisely?
It is not necessary to be extravagant in the selection of your instrument, yet it is wise to be prudent and to expend enough in your purchase to insure the safety of the future. False economy leads surely to after disappointments and regret.
Our Pianos are the creations of factories whose works have proven their quality. They are standard in manufacture, in quality and in durability and each carries an honest and comprehensive guarantee.
Here you may buy economically, safely and satisfactorily and your instrument will always prove the wisdom of your choice. Terms and prices are just right.

TWO ENLIST BECAUSE OF EXPLOSION

Oakland Man Is First Monterey Recruit After Outrage

By C. H. BAILY.

U. S. MILITARY TRAINING CAMP, Monterey, July 24. — The man who exploded the dynamite bomb during the preparedness parade in San Francisco Saturday reckoned without his host if he thought that it was going to intimidate any of the exponents of military preparedness, and particularly if he believed it would injure the training camp for civilians here, for its first effects on this camp were to bring two new recruits into the ranks of the citizen soldiers the first thing yesterday morning.

Recruit No. 1 was Wallace M. Hussey of Oakland, a member of the California Grays and one of the eye witnesses to the explosion at Market and Steuart streets. He was less than 100 feet away from the bomb when it exploded, and saw men, women and children mangled, thereupon making up his mind that he would hereafter be a far more active worker for preparedness than he has been. He took the first train to Monterey yesterday morning, reported here and was assigned to Company D, the camp's crack company.

Charles Musselman, of Roseville, Cal., was the second belated recruit. He was assigned to Company C. He said today that he has all along wanted to attend this camp, but postponed doing so until he heard of the San Francisco outrage when he, too, took the first available train for "the front."

"A few more such outrages as that in San Francisco and every American who calls himself a man will be taking military training," said Musselman. "The bomb throwing of Saturday merely shows that trained men are needed, not only to protect the people against outside nations but against enemies right within its borders."

1800 IN CAMP.

Fifty-seven army officers and 1800 regulars and citizen-soldiers are under canvas here today, according to the returns, which make a good-sized camp.

Two weeks of hustle is the program that began when reveille sounded at 5:15 o'clock this morning, and the men went to it with a will after two days without military duty, if the trip to San Francisco can be construed as non-military work. The third battalion of the training regiment is today on the rifle range at the Presidio of Monterey, the first and second battalions, which already have had one full day on the range, working with company drills and attack and defense principles in the Del Monte hills. Tomorrow the engineering work starts, and the men will begin to learn how to handle a pick and shovel in trench building, how to lay mines and how to explode them; how to build bridges and how to demolish with high explosives trenches and mines presumably built by an enemy.

FLIERS BUSY.

Over in the aviation field at the Del Monte racetrack the hum of motors "tuning up" for trial flights, and their roar while trial flights are being made, is constantly heard all day. All the spectacular work the camp is to afford comes during its last half and the work promises to be mighty interesting.

Due to officers being promoted or sent away from here since camp opened, there are a number of changes in the commissioned personnel of the army officers stationed here announced today. Captain L. P. Horsfall is assigned to command the Thirty-second company of coast artillery and is detailed as police officer at camp. He previously has commanded the Twenty-seventh company. Captain Henry R. Casey, ordnance, signal and police officer, goes to the Mexican border as quartermaster of the Fifth Provisional coast artillery regiment, Captain W. A. Covington being detained as ordnance and signal officer in addition to his other duties as camp quartermaster. Major C. B. Blethen, National Guard of Washington, editor of the Seattle Times, has reported here and has been detailed as assistant to the camp inspector, holding the honor of being the only militia officer on the job here.

"Safety First" for News Sellers

Dillon and King Will Entertain

DILLON and KING, who will cut up capers for Tribune's newsies.

The TRIBUNE'S large force of newsies, the busy little merchants of the thoroughfares, will shout their "extras" with a smile tomorrow, for upon that evening they are to attend the Macdonough theater in a body as the guests of Dillon and King and the theater management.

The event will be special party night for the newsboys. Dillon and King, better known as Mike and Ike to the boys and girls of Oakland, have prepared a series of special fun-making episodes for the entertainment of their youthful friends. The principals of the company, too, will welcome the boys in royal fashion and as a result many enjoyable surprises are in store for them.

Jack Wise, undoubtedly the newsboys' most popular singer, has promised to sing a song or two for their special benefit. Vilma Steeh, who has been out of the cast for a week or more on account of sickness, has fully recovered, and is back again and busily preparing something that will please The TRIBUNE lads next Tuesday night.

"Safety First," one of Dillon and King's most novel stage offerings, will be the comedy that will be presented on newsboys' night. The play is replete with side-splitting complications and many whistleable song selections. It is just the sort of a skit to gladden youthful hearts and contains enough clean, wholesome comedy to last the boys a month.

The affair is being arranged under the direction of Circulation Manager Harry Paratt and Route Manager Rossi of The Oakland TRIBUNE. Arrangements have been made with the theater management whereby The TRIBUNE newsies will attend the 7:15 o'clock performance.

FRANKLIN

Douglas Fairbanks is at the Franklin in "Flirting With Fate," an entertaining comedy-drama. He plays the part of an artist who, in common with many motion picture artists, has no money. He loves a girl, Gladys. But things go wrong. Getting in t rim for a proposal, he practises on Glady's friend. Gladys thinks him false, so hopelessly in love and penniless, he hires an assassin to take his life as soon as possible. Then things change. Fairbanks interits a million, Gladys finds out that she loves him after all, but Fairbanks is constantly haunted by the thought of the assassin. This person has repented and joined the Salvation Army and finally, after Fairbanks has been frightened out of his wits many times, he learns of the reformation and all is well.

The treatment accorded this story by the Triangle director is exceptional. The scenes are handled with an intelligent appreciation of their humorous possibilities with the result that the laughs are abundant. With the quantity of vim and zest he puts into the picture, Fairbanks makes the central idea of the story very funny. He possesses so much color and dash that he makes his remarkable personality felt all the time he is on the screen. "Flirting With Fate" is splendid entertainment, mostly because of "Doug" Fairbanks.

Chester Conklin in "His First False Step" and Fay Tincher in "Love's Getaway," Keystone comedies, complete the bill which will be shown again today and tomorrow.

IDORA PARK

Last evening, on the Inland Beach at Idora was staged the prettiest bit of Polynesian scenery which has ever been given to the public in this part of the country. The atmosphere was perfect for an outdoor production, the sky was a clear deep blue and the music and voices were perfect. All of this placed in a diadem of Hawaiian amber lanterns made a most beautiful effect.

This Hawaiian pageant is to be continued every evening throughout the week. Dining tables have been placed around the water's edge so one wishing to dine and hear the strains of the Hawaiian music will be able to do so. This pageant will in no way interfere with the bathing in the tank.

Another interesting and new feature which will be introduced tonight and will also run all week, will be the interpretations of the new dances on skates. Such steps as Walking the Dog, Skinning the Cat and the Charlie Chaplin are to be given in exhibition skating every evening. Miss Bobbie Dean, who is considered one of the cleverest skaters in the United States, is the leader of the cabaret of skaters. Miss Dean also holds many records for high diving and will be seen in her high diving feats on the Inland Beach.

PANTAGES

Monkeys, human and otherwise, vie with each other in Simian divertisement; Charles Semon appears that audiences may laugh at his shape, if they will, or at his comedy, if they won't; the "Petticoat Minstrels" emulate George Primrose and also themselves, and motion pictures showing the "Iron Claw's" explosions, rivaled by the remarkable Photograph taken on the scene of the preparedness parade disaster Saturday. These are the high spots in the show at the Pantages this week.

The show begins with the three Rianos. These are the human monkeys. Attired in fur and Simian masks, they perform remarkable gymnastic feats in a comedy setting. Thalero's circus closes the bill. Here are real monkeys, and the two can be compared. However, in both cases, the audience is too busy laughing to compare monkeys. Thalero's animals are remarkable. He has the only pony in the world that can sit up like a dog, he claims. No one seems to contradict him. Charles Boyer's "Petticoat Minstrels" offer an old-time minstrel show, with pretty girls doing black-face comedy hits. They offer a little Primrose soft-shoe dancing and a few other specialties.

Charles F. Semon is known to vaudeville fans many years as a guy. He has a line that he plays like a flute, a bassoon that he plays like a virtuoso and a pair of legs that audiences laugh at. Also he has a clever line of comedy patter and a trick hat. There are few stage celebrities so comical as he.

Adolpho, the accordionist, is an expert on his instrument, but cannot whistle. His singing is fair. His best success was when he played the accordion alone. Elwell and Kenyon are two singers who offer a bit of high-class music. "The Iron Claw" and "The Secret of the Submarine" are the film features.

OAKLAND PHOTO

Who would ever think that Wallace Reid almost failed on a contract of construction on a big railroad job? And who would think that it was a pretty little woman who almost caused his downfall? But why didn't he fail? How did he fool his opponents? The truth of the whole matter is that he refused a soft job and a big inheritance, along with a high position in society, for a very hard job of constructing a railroad. Because of his refusing this offer from his father he was disinherited by that paternal power and thus gained a stubborn enemy, as well as having his newly-acquired wife side with his father, both working against him to ruin him and the company he is working for.

Not many young men with only grit alone can withstand the powerful money kings and great odds conteracting his efforts. Who it was who really saved him is wonderfully brought out in this picturization by Hector Turnbull. In short, it is an intense melodrama of domestic strife with a background of real men and women.

As the other feature on this program for today and tomorrow, Alice Brady is starred in "La Boheme," a story of the life of the Bohemians. It is a photoplay adaptation of Henry Murger's wonderful book, "La Vie de Boheme."

How Mimi remains loyal to Rudolphe through poverty and trials and misunderstandings on the part of both is well brought out in this emotional play of interest and education.

MACDONOUGH

"Safety First" has been everything, from a railroad motto to a trademark for canned salmon. Now it is a musical comedy. Ben T. Dillon and Will King, adepts at fitting names to comedies, juggled together a combination of the name and a mass of material for laughs. It should be "Laughter First." There is more laughter to it than safety, but anyhow, poetic license only makes a comedy more comic. So says Ben Dillon.

Vilma Steeh returned last night with the new show at the Macdonough. Miss Steeh, seized with ptomaine poisoning last week, had been seriously ill. She was given a lively reception last night on her return. Teddy La Due, who has played a number of character parts exceedingly well, made a hit in burnt cork, enacting a colored girl cleverly. Reece Gardner and Will Hayer had character parts instead of their usual "straight" delineations. And Mike and Ike, of course, were Mike and Ike. That's what they're there for.

Vilma Steeh scored a decided hit with her song, "Tootsie," and "upside down dance" by the Ginger Girls added to the laughter. Clarence Wurdig sang "I'm a Lonesome Melody," assisted by the Rialto Quartet, and Martin Hobbs, who played a striking 'cello obligato to the air. Hazel Wainwright sang the "Gypsy Love Song," and Jack Wise rendered "They Called it Dixie Land." Several special scenic effects were introduced during the musical numbers.

ORPHEUM---'TIS TO LAUGH, THIS WEEK

Program Full of Comedy and Cleverness at Local Vaudeville House.

He who laughs last at the Orpheum this week is not in the minority. They have comedy, comedy and some more comedy there. Indeed, it would not be out of the way to say that laughter reigns supreme—reigns from balcony to box, from stage to lobby. With one exception, every act on the bill was built for purposes of giggle only. The one exception is Claire Rochester. She is a girl with a dual voice and a personal magnetism as big as the audience itself. There is no resisting her. She carries the headline honor right away with her.

Claire's voice is strong but of excellent tone. It is much more baritonish than soprano, but even the higher voice is excellently attuned to appreciation and applause. She follows the present mode and starts with a patriotic song right off the bat. Then she does something that sounds dangerously like grand opera. But the audience stood for it and, wonder of wonders, applauded to the echo, after which the old reliable ballad was in order. What would we do without our ballad? For an encore Miss Rochester gives a talk about herself, which could very well be eliminated. The talk is the only hitch in her whole repertoire.

As applause-getters, Kramer and Morton, known to us all as the Two Black Dots, gather in second honors. But boys, boys, boys, get some new stuff! Oakland audiences have been listening to that same patter for three years now, and they have been listening politely, if not enthusiastically. Don't stretch out that patience to the bursting point. On analysis, the patter of these two blackface excellences doesn't stand a show. It's pretty thin stuff, but the manner in which they get it over to the other side of the footlights is the explanation of the applause. Their humor is rough and ready; it even recalls the gentle slapstick. On analysis, as was said before, the act doesn't stand a chance. But, who in Oakland wants analysis at a vaudeville show? The general ensemble is the thing, and the whole thing.

Talking of general ensembles reminds us that the Imperial Chinese Trio is strong on the get-together stuff. These young men from the land of tea, rice and cabaret—New York, most likely—have something new to offer and the novelty is thankfully received. That novelty consists of a Chinese baritone who IS a baritone; a raggedy pianist who IS a raggedy pianist and another performer who plays the violin pretty good, indeed.

Tang Cheong, the baritone, has an excellent voice. It is not too strong, but is very sweet. We lose sight of his racial element when he sings selections from opera, and know only that he is a singer of songs. He does very well, vocally, but the sons of old Erin must have had a peculiar feeling when the celestial warbled "How Ireland Got its Name"; and the funny part of it all is this, few Irishmen could sing it better.

Consul and his daughter Betty have a good time at the audience's expense, and the audience reciprocates. Both of the Simians perform well. Consul is getting to be an old man now, and deserves a pension. Betty is a lively youngster who should develop into a lovely young woman Simian before long.

And the Orpheum players in "Alma, Where Do You Live?" Alma is of perennial youth. She crops up again and again when we think she is gone from us. Alma retains the old charm plus spice. Rena Vivienne, specially engaged for the part, did not disappoint. Rena Vivienne, specially engaged for the part, did not disappoint. She is good to look at and good to listen to. She sings the two songs demanded of her with a very good grace. John Sheehan as Pierre played a good opposite. The rest of the company answered all the requirements necessary. George B. Howard, F. Keenan Wallace and Mina Gleason also deserve special mention. Alma is still funny, still full of spice, still snappy.

ATTEMPT AT JAIL-BREAKING FAILS

San Francisco Prisoners Foiled When Guard Puts Up Fight.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—Led by Phil Martin, an ex-convict serving six months for carrying concealed weapons, five of the most desperate prisoners at County Jail No. 2, at Ingleside, attempted to escape last night just before lockup time a 7 o'clock.

The prisoners cut a hole in the roof and slid down from the cell house into the jail on a rope made out of bed ticking. They attempted to fell Guard Harry Hood, the only man on duty in the yard at the time, with an iron bar taken from one of the cells, but he quelled them and drove them into a corner by firing five shots.

No one of the prisoners was shot, but the sounds attracted four other guards who came to Reed's assistance. The five men were locked up again. They were Martin, Ed Terry, a drug peddler serving six months; Dan Burns and George Schilling, holdup men serving six months, and Otto Heler, a burglar serving a one-year term.

Buy an OWL anywhere

NO matter where you find it, the OWL is always a free-drawing, even-burning smoke. That's because it is time-cured, long leaf filler, shaped by hand.

But even more. You can be sure that the OWL will always be mellow in flavor. That's because a million dollar reserve supply of slowly curing leaf makes it unnecessary ever to put a poorly-cured leaf in any OWL.

From the first step on, the OWL is a better-made, better-smoking and better-tasting nickel cigar.

CONFERENCE TO PICK ONE CANDIDATE

State and County Committees to Join Deliberations

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24. — As the result of the senatorial tangle, it is probable that a statewide conference will shortly be called by the chairman of the Republican State Central Committee. At this gathering one Republican candidate will be agreed upon for senator. The conference will be composed of members of the Republican State Central Committee and members of the Republican county committees representing the 58 counties of California.

That such a gathering will be representative of real Republican sentiment is apparent when it is recalled that all members of the various county committees were elected at primaries by the votes of registered Republicans.

These Republicans will meet as individuals and not in their capacity as committeemen. The personnel of the proposed conference will be identical with that constituting the convention which named the Republican ticket of national delegates triumphantly elected at the May primaries.

Willis H. Booth, one of the senatorial candidates from Southern California, in a statement issued Saturday night, expressed himself in favor of such a conference. While Judge Walter Bordwell, the other Southern California candidate, has so far failed to express himself, it is not thought likely that he will refuse to endorse the plan. A refusal would eliminate him from the race and be a substantiation of the charge that he had been put into the race for a purpose, a charge that is not in keeping with the high position Judge Bordwell has heretofore occupied in the state.

DISCUSS SPEECH.

The speech made by Republican National Committeeman William H. Crocker at the Republican banquet at the Palace hotel Saturday night in which he freely discussed the senatorial situation, has caused much discussion. Among Republicans generally it meets with strong approval. In this statement Crocker directly contradicts the claim made by Chester Rowell, a member of the Hughes campaign committee for California, who recently declared, over his own signature, that eastern Republicans were for Johnson for senator, intimating that an agreement had been entered into along these lines.

The salient points in Crocker's statement follow:

"In accordance with precedence, the Republicans of the State conceded that at this time their candidate for senator should be taken from Southern California. Willis H. Booth, whose candidacy was announced six months ago, is opposed by Judge Walter Bordwell, also from Southern California, who announced himself a candidate on July 13.

"UNFORTUNATE LAW."

"It is now announced that Governor Johnson, who states that he will vote for Mr. Hughes in this election and who is not a Republican but the vigorous enemy of the Republican party and its interests, is to compete for the Republican senatorial nomination, as the law unfortunately permits him to do. It has been asserted that with a view to securing the support of former Progressives for Mr. Hughes, the Republican party leaders in the East favored Governor Johnson for the Republican senatorial nomination in California.

"I have made careful inquiry and am in a position to say positively that there is no ground whatever for statements to this effect. I know that it is the intention of the Republican party leaders to take no part in this purely California question. All they ask is that the Republican party shall do everything in its power to elect a Republican to the United States Senate and to secure the electoral vote of California for Hughes."

Several weeks ago the Progressive-Republican faction met at the Palace Hotel and endorsed Governor Johnson for Senator. This action established the precedent which Republicans propose to follow.

'CYCLONE' DAVIS IS TO GO BACK HOME

Texan Defeated in Contest for Congressman-at-Large.

DALLAS, Tex., July 24.—J. T. ("Cyclone") Davis, 6-foot poet and congressman, whose temporary residence in the effete East resulted in his donning a collar for the first time in twenty years, probably will discard that collar.

Latest returns from the Democratic primaries today show that Cyclone is defeated for renomination as congressman-at-large. He polled 49,824 votes, in complete and partial returns from 221 of the 253 counties. Jeff McLemore was renominated with a vote of 68,266. Daniel E. Garrett, former congressman, was assured the place with 72,506 votes.

Another famous figure who will not return to Washington was "Uncle Charley" Culberson, United States senator for four successive terms. In the race for renomination he polled 60,481 against 82,593 for O. B. Colquit, former governor. S. P. Brooks, former president of Baylor University, was a close third, with 60,184. Colquit and either Culberson or Brooks will be the starters in the "run off" senatorial primary August 28.

Governor James E. Ferguson was assured renomination by 160,717 to 114,818 for Charles H. Morris.

Submission of statewide prohibition at a special election, to be held after the next legislature is convened, was leading, 113,397 to 107,758.

Hughes Itinerary Virtually Decided

NEW YORK, July 24.—Chairman William R. Willcox of the Republican National campaign committee on his return from Bridgehampton today, said that the itinerary of Hughes' approaching western trip has virtually been determined, but the announcement would be delayed until it could be so arranged that in going to the Rock Mountains for a week's recreation the candidate would not have been completed to deviate to any extent from his speaking route. There will be at least twelve and possibly fifteen speeches, said Willcox.

Child Labor Bill Is Left to Senate

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Child labor legislation, which President Wilson desires enacted at this session of Congress, was discussed by him today with Senator Simmons, Senator Hoke Smith and other members of Congress. His callers left with the impression that while the President was very anxious to have the bill passed, he would leave the decision to the Senate Democratic caucus which meets later this week to discuss the legislative program.

Caperton on Way to Relieve Winslow

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Rear Admiral Caperton, recently relieved of command of the cruiser squadron in Haitien and Santo Domingo waters, reached Washington today and after a brief conference with navy department officials, left for San Diego, Cal., to relieve Rear Admiral Winslow as commander of the Pacific fleet. He predicted there would be no further revolutionary troubles in the near future in Haiti and Santo Domingo.

British Blacklist Worries President

WASHINGTON, July 24.—President Wilson told callers today that the British blacklist against some American firms was causing him a great deal of concern, but indicated that details of the plan of the American government to meet the situation had not been decided upon. Senator Hoke Smith, who said he spoke only for himself, declared after seeing the president that he thought the issue would be settled by withdrawal or modification of the blacklist.

Clarke Nomination Is Recommended

WASHINGTON, July 24. — The Senate judiciary committee by unanimous vote today recommended confirmation of the nomination of John H. Clarke of Cleveland, O., as associate justice of the Supreme Court to succeed former Justice Hughes.

Animate Divers Disturb Cabinet

Unique Subject Taken Up by Officials

WASHINGTON, July 24.—President's cabinets have during the country's history been called upon to consider varied subjects dealing with statecraft and politics. Even submarines have, within recent times, been the cause of some cogitation as President Wilson's advisors gathered about the spacious cabinet table in the west wing of the White House. Inanimate, man-killing submarines the learned gentleman had dealt with, but live man-eaters were a new type.

The influx of sharks on the Atlantic coast and the serious havoc they have wrought was taken up by the cabinet recently —a subject rather unique to be considered by an administration. At the conclusion of the meeting Secretary McAdoo announced that the coast guard would be ordered to do what it could toward clearing the coast of the dangerous fish and preventing further loss of life.

Instructions were sent by the treasury department both to the coast guard cutters and life saving stations. No definite plan of action has been worked out, but the idea is to have the service aid in locating and killing sharks and when possible warn resorts of their proximity.

Secretary Redfield told the cabinet that the bureau of fisheries had been unable to offer any scientific explanation of the unprecedented attacks upon human beings.

A formal statement made public by Acting Commissioner Moore of the fisheries bureau said the bureau experts reluctantly had been compelled to come to the conclusion that no certainly effective preventative measures could be recommended, but advised a shark catching campaign and warned bathers to stay in shallow water.

NATIONAL DEFENSE KEEPS SENATE BUSY

WASHINGTON, July 24.—The National defense program will occupy the Senate most of this week. Debate on the army bill, resumed today, is expected to last several days and before the week is over Senate and House conferees will meet in a struggle over a building program for the navy. The conference likely will prepare the Senate's eight capital ship plan for next year.

Efforts will be made to get final action on both army and navy conference reports early in August. Adjournment is set for August 19, but insistence on child labor legislation may alter the plan.

Board Appointments May Soon Be Made

Appointments to the library board and the recreation commission will probably be announced by Mayor John L. Davie early this week. There is one vacancy on each board, due to the expiration of the terms of appointment of Library Director Cary Howard and Playground Commissioner Arthur G. Tashiera.

Mayor Davie has been taking council with several friends as to whom he shall appoint in each instance. The mayor declined today to make known his choice, but intimated that he had about decided upon the two appointees.

The name of Daniel La Fortune has been prominently mentioned as a possibility for the library board, and is said to be under serious consideration by the mayor. La Fortune, who is connected with the Laymance Realty Company, has made a study of the subject of libraries and has been a critic of local conditions. The mayor has been desirous of having some "new blood" in the library department, and it is generally understood that he will not re-appoint Director Howard, who was an appointee of former Mayor Mott. Howard's term expired July 1. The new appointment will be for a term of six years.

Tashiera's term expired on the same date as that of Howard. Tashiera was also appointed by Mott. An effort was made, it is understood, to have his appointment renewed, but Mayor Davie declined to consider this plan.

It is understood that John Fechter, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., is being given especially favorable consideration by the mayor, and that Fechter is the most probable man for the place.

Women Republicans Talk Over Campaign

Mrs. R. W. Richardson, president of the Women's Republican Club of Los Angeles and second vice-president of the League of California Republican Clubs, was the guest of honor yesterday at an informal luncheon in the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, at which Mrs. Abbie E. Krebs, campaign manager of the Republican women, was the hostess. Details of the campaign work which is to be undertaken by the women this fall were discussed by Mrs. Ella M. Sexton, Mrs. George D. Shadburne Jr., Dr. Sophie B. Hewitt, Mrs. Richardson and Mrs. Krebs.

The methods of securing registrations in Los Angeles were described by Mrs. Richardson. In that city, she said, registrars are taken by automobile to the homes and women who could not find the time to visit the regular registration offices are enrolled as voters. All women voters are being urged to register immediately so that success of the Republican party at the November election may be made doubly certain in California.

Lewis Declares His Political Pledges

E. D. Lewis, candidate for commissioner in the coming recall election, has issued the following statement in regard to his platform:

"As my platform has been presented to the citizens of Oakland, if elected, I promise them, as an independent candidate, that I will do all in my power to enforce the issues mentioned therein. I am not running a vaudeville show, nor am I going through a moving picture stunt for the purpose of gaining a reputation. Some time ago, I issued through the press, a challenge to Mr. Meese and Dr. Higgins, asking them to declare what their policy would be, if elected. Up to the present time they have not answered my challenge through the press or otherwise.

Our city sorely needs convenience places in the public parks and also many other important improvements, and if elected, I will pledge myself to do all in my power to install these necessities.

I will repeat that I am an independent candidate and my platform calls for a liberal business administration. If elected, I will endeavor to carry out the the principles of my platform conscientiously and fulfill my obligations to the citizens of Oakland, and if I do not keep my promise I will not wait for a recall, but voluntarily resign my office."

DUTY CUT HURTS BUTTON PROFITS

Democratic Tariff Deals Hard Blow to Interesting Industry.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—The Republican Publicity Association, through its president, Hon. Jonathan Bourne Jr., today gave out the following statement at its Washington headquarters:

"The pearl button industry furnishes a typical illustration of the constructive effect of a protective tariff in establishing and maintaining thousands of small enterprises which are essential to a true 'made in America' policy.

"Twenty-two thousand operatives are directly employed in the manufacture of pearl buttons in Alabama, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Ohio, Michigan, New York, New Jersey, Kentucky, Tennessee and Missouri. The capital ninvested in buildings and eqipment aggregate $3,000,000.

INDUSTRY GREW.

"Prior to 1890 there was no pearl button industry in the United States, because the low rate of duty, which was 25 per cent ad valorem, did not permit us to compete with imported buttons. The industry had its birth from the date of the passage of the McKinley bill. Improved methods and the introduction of machinery gave the industry a solid foundation, and it was getting along swimmingly until President Wilson's band of tariff wreckers cut the import rates to the quick.

"The Democrats did this on the theory that lower duties would increase imports to such a point that far greater revenues would be derived from pearl buttons, utterly oblivious to the effect on the home industry. The Underwood law changed the duties from specific to ad valorem rates which carried a decided reduction. During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1913, under Republican law, we imported pearl buttons to the value of $91,280, on which revenue was realized in the sum of $70,454, and our mills and laborers were protected from foreign competitors with their pauper-paid labor. Yet the duty was not prohibitive.

REVENUE FALLS OFF.

"The Underwood law took effect October 3, 1913, and from that date to the end of the fiscal year 1914, nine months, we imported $170,439 worth of pearl buttons, and but $61,833 of revenue was paid into the treasury on those imports. In nine months, our imports increased 87 per cent over the full fiscal year of 1913, and the revenue fell off nearly $9,000.

"We have five competitors in this industry: England, Germany, Austria, Italy and Japan. Four of them are actively engaged in the war, while Japan is reaping a harvest of prosperity from the same source as the United States. Nevertheless, the imports of pearl buttons during the fiscal year 1915, a war period, amounted to $212,369 on which duty was collected in the sum of $91,814—an increase of 133 per cent in our imports, over the 1913 record, but revenues increased only 30 per cent.

"The rate of wages paid to pearl-button operatives in the United States is, for cutters, $15 to $20 per week; in Bohemia, $4.85 to $7; in Austria, $4.87 to $9.74; in England, $6 to $8; while the Japanese receive from $1.50 to $3. Japan is rapidly becoming our most dangerous competitor. There are 60 factories in Osaka alone, and probably over 100 in the Empire. Their material comes from India and the South Sea Islands. Labor unions made a plea to the Democrats not to reduce the duties, which plea was disregarded."

Say People Desire Ownership of Water

Urging that all actions of the body be open to the public, a special committee of the Public Utilities District Committee has submitted a report to that organization, declaring that 99 per cent of the people of the east bay communities favored the public ownership of the water supply.

The report was adopted by the main body, of which E. H. Pendleton is the chairman. C. C. Poynton is chairman of the special committee. The meeting was held in the chambers of Police Judge George E. Samuels in the city office.

Wilson Criticised by Wisconsin Society

MARSHFIELD, Wis., July 24.—Resolutions criticising the Wilson administration as being partial to the allies in the matter of permitting munitions shipments, favoring "sufficient protection of our country against possible attacks by an enemy" and pledging the support of the German American citizens to the defense of the United States were adopted by the Wisconsin branch of the National German American Alliance in session here.

FORETHOUGHT.

People are learning that a little forethought often saves them a big expense. Here is an instance: E. W. Archer, Caldwell, Ohio, writes: "I do not believe that our family has been without Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy since we commenced keeping house years ago. When we go on an extended visit we take it with us."—For sale by Osgood Bros. Drug Stores.—Advertisement.

BRITISH REPLY IS NOT SATISFACTORY

U. S. Will Request Full Statement of Mail Seizure Principles.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—The State Department will acknowledge immediately to Ambassador Page at London receipt of the mail reply from Great Britain and inform him that it is not considered a response to the American note. A request for an early reply on the principles involved will be repeated.

This was the official declaration at the State Department today. The British reply received yesterday will be given out for publication soon.

The Netherlands minister called at the State Department to see Acting Secretary of State Polk today regarding a rumor that the United States might send warships as convoys to American mail-carrying ships. The Netherlands diplomat was told the rumor was without any foundation.

Direct relation between the British mail seizures and blacklisting of American firms was pointed out by the State Department officials today. The extreme irritation which the administration sees in England's delay in answering the mail note is partially because it was through the alleged illegal practice of opening mail of American firms that she obtained much of the information on which the blacklist was compiled.

The preliminary mail reply received is altogether unsatisfactory, because it ignores the contention of principle expounded in the American note and deals only with specific cases, which have no immediate bearing on the demand for a reform in British practices.

Elston Provision in Naval Bill Adopted

WASHINGTON, July 24.—The naval bill which passed the Senate Saturday retains the House provision inserted by Congressman Elston providing for the appointment of five naval officers to report upon the advisability of establishing a new naval base on the Pacific Coast. It is understood that the chief localities offering sites will be San Francisco bay cities, San Pedro San Diego and Puget Sound.

The bill also contains the following paragraph in relation to a new naval academy site:

"Said commission shall also report on the advisability of establishing one or more additional naval academies and where the same should be located and the probable cost thereof, and whether the present academy should be enlarged."

Knott Gets Case to Courts on Demurrer

MARTINEZ, July 24.—A demurrer to the grand jury indictment charging Supervisor Zeb Knott with having accepted a bribe from the proprietors of the Panama-Pacific Cafe at Stege for securing a saloon license was filed today by the attorneys for the accused official. Judge A. B. Mackenzie set August 14 at 1 o'clock as the hour for hearing on the arguments for and against the demurrer. Attorneys W. S. Tinning, T. H. Delap, C. S. Hammun and J. D. Rogers have been retained by Knott in his defense proceedings.

SLAVS KEEP SMASHING TWO FRONTS

Von Hindenburg's Line Pierced; Austrians Desperate

PETROGRAD, July 24.—Russian armies have blasted and battered their way through the German line below Riga and have shattered temporarily the Austrian resistance to further Russian advance toward Northeastern Galicia and Hungary. Violent German counter-attacks northeast of Kovel have been repulsed. Today a violent artillery duel was in progress between the forces of Generals Kuropatkin and Von Hindenburg along the northeastern-most point of the battle front. So far the censors have veiled the exact details of General Kuropatkin's recent coup, but the fact that the czar's troops have been able successfully to pierce Von Hindenburg's line—considered the strongest to which the Russians are opposed—was hailed here as one of the striking achievements of the war.

Further details today served to accentuate the extent of the victories of General Sakharoff along the rivers Lipa and Styr. Apparently his forces have almost encircled the Teutonic commands of Generals Boehm-Ermolli and Bothmer, forcing their retirement. Russian troops now dominate both banks of the Lipa from the Styr to near Mirkow and in some parts of the line have thrust forward eight or ten miles beyond the river. Brody is menaced with an enveloping movement.

Southward Russian forces control many of the approaches to Jablonitza Pass and have forced retirement of the Austrians to crests of the hills beyond. Probably the conflict today is in the pass itself. Considerable booty has fallen into the Russians' hands.

To emphasize Russian successes came full report today of more advances of the Grand Duke Nicholas' army in the Caucasus. The Turks are in full retreat along the full line toward Erzingan.

Became Linguist to Converse With Dogs

Some are linguists by nature, some by cultivation, some have the knowledge of languages bred in them, and some have it thrust upon them.

Professor Thalero, trainer of dogs, is one of the last-named class. He had to learn almost every language on the face of the earth just to live up to his dogs.

"Some people say dogs do not understand what is said to them, but that is wrong," declares Thalero. "For instance, you can talk to Fritz—he's from Berlin—all day and he will never know what you mean. But say 'wurst' to him, and note the difference. He understands every word of German, and nothing in any other language. Lizzie here, from Stockholm, is the same way. She understands Swedish. You see, they were all full grown dogs when I got them, for among fox terriers I find that grown dogs learn best, and so they were used to the language they had heard. Anyway, my dogs prove once and for all that dogs do actually understand when spoken to."

Among other big features on the bill is Charles F. Semen, famed as "The Narrow Feller," who makes comedy out of a pair of long legs, a piccolo and divers other instruments. He is one of the biggest attractions over the Pantages circuit this year. The "Petticoat Minstrels" are another big feature of the week's bill.

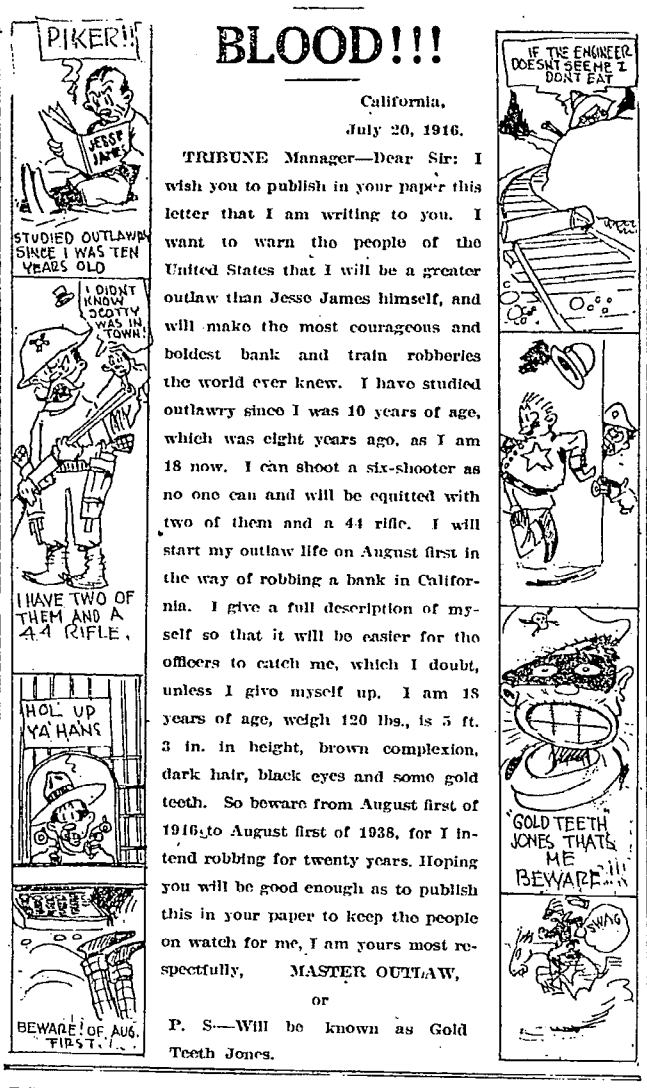

One of the film scoops of the year is seen in the exhibition of the motion pictures of the preparedness parade in San Francisco, and the explosion in which six were killed and many hurt. The camera man happened to be right at the spot, and had his machine filming the details even before the crowd realized what had happened.

Sixty-five on Roll of New Hughes Club

At an enthusiastic meeting the Hughes Republican Club had the club roll signed by about sixty-five new members. The meeting was addressed by William Brackett, who was to have been a candidate for the assembly from this district. Brackett said it was impossible for him to make the campaign because of press of business and that he had withdrawn in favor of Robert Callaghan.

The meeting was addressed by a number of other speakers, and a committee was appointed to secure larger quarters for the club.

BLOOD!!!

California,
July 20, 1916.

TRIBUNE Manager—Dear Sir: I wish you to publish in your paper this letter that I am writing to you. I want to warn the people of the United States that I will be a greater outlaw than Jesse James himself, and will make the most courageous and boldest bank and train robberies the world ever knew. I have studied outlawry since I was 10 years of age, which was eight years ago, as I am 18 now. I can shoot a six-shooter as no one can and will be equitted with two of them and a 44 rifle. I will start my outlaw life on August first in the way of robbing a bank in California. I give a full description of myself so that it will be easier for the officers to catch me, which I doubt, unless I give myself up. I am 18 years of age, weigh 120 lbs., is 5 ft. 3 in. in height, brown complexion, dark hair, black eyes and some gold teeth. So beware from August first of 1916 to August first of 1938, for I intend robbing for twenty years. Hoping you will be good enough as to publish this in your paper to keep the people on watch for me, I am yours most respectfully, MASTER OUTLAW, or

P. S.—Will be known as Gold Teeth Jones.

Veteran Officers Bid Farewell to Men
Col. Hunt and Major Kay Take Leave

Colonel Edwin G. Hunt, of the Fifth Regiment, National Guard of California, retired, is on his way back to his home in Oakland today. While his regiment turned out for parade in his honor, Hunt yesterday on the border brought to an end twenty years of service, when he said farewell to the forces he brought from the bay region to the Mexican line.

Two officers retired yesterday, Colonel Hunt and Major Samuel W. Kay leaving the service.

The regiment presented arms as Colonel Hunt passed, after reviewing the guardsmen for the last time. Eyes filled with tears as the veteran of twenty years turned his command over to his successor and walked between the lines of men, standing at attention with arms presented, to the automobile waiting to whirl him away, out of military life.

Just before leaving Colonel Hunt spoke briefly to the officers and men, thanking them for their support and for their co-operation, and urging them to treat his successor as they had treated him. While the band played "Auld Lang Syne" the auto vanished in a cloud of dust.

Colonel Hunt was invalided on account of failing health. He is one of the best known National Guard officers in California. The First squadron of cavalry turned out yesterday to bid farewell to Major Kay, also retired from active service on account of illness.

Trustee for Capitalist Brings Suit for $10,000

Two suits to recover $10,000 in cash and bonds seized from safe deposit boxes by Burton B. Brace, trustee in bankruptcy for William A. Wallace, 320 Magnolia avenue, Piedmont, a former Chicago capitalist, and a piece of property in Piedmont, were commenced in the Superior Court today by Jennie V. Wallace, wife of the bankrupt. Mrs. Wallace claims the property as her separate holding. The trustee is seeking to have it included in the inventory of the assets of the bankrupt.

Attorney Charles Kramer, representing Chicago clients, is here fighting the bankruptcy proceedings before Referee William J. Hayes. Wallace claims that the Chicago people are endeavoring to hold him responsible for debt contracted by a firm of which he was formerly a stockholder.

SEEKS NEW TRIAL.

When R. G. Peeples, who was convicted last week of the theft of an automobile, appeared for sentence before Superior Judge Trabucco today, Attorney W. F. Herron made a motion for a new trial, reciting statutory grounds. The matter was continued until next Friday for hearing.

Body of Poet Riley Will Lie in State

INDIANAPOLIS, July 24.—The body of James Whitcomb Riley, the Indiana poet, who died unexpectedly Saturday night at his home here, will lie in state at the Indiana State capitol from 3 o'clock this afternoon until 9 o'clock tonight. The hours were fixed especially with the view of providing a time when the working people and children, accompanied by parents, might view the body. Governor Samuel M. Ralston, in a letter to Henry Eitel, of this city, brother-in-law of the poet, asked that the body lie in state in the capitol.

Present arrangements are for the funeral services to be held at the home tomorrow morning. These will be private and simple in accordance with the wishes of the poet. Thousands of persons passed silently the Riley home here, while many close friends of the poet entered the home to view the body.

England Asking for Biggest War Credit

LONDON, July 24.—Premier Asquith today asked the House of Commons for a vote of credit of £450,000,000. This vote is the largest asked by the government since the beginning of the war and will bring the total voted this year to £1,050,000,000, and the total since the beginning of the war to £2,832,000,000 (approximately $14,160,000,000).

Asquith said that the navy, army and munitions cost £379,000,000, the loans of Great Britain's allies £157,000,000, and food, supplies, railways, etc., £23,000,000.

The average daily expenditure on the war, he said, was £4,950,000.

AUSTRALIANS WIN LAURELS AT SOMME

Persistent Hammering of the British Causes Germans Big Surprise.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN THE FIELD, July 23, via London, July 24.—To the Australians is the glory of today's action, which takes the British offensive to the end of its third week and what might be called the third phase. Not once in the three weeks have the guns been silent. All the while the fighting has continued until the spectator has become numbed with this superhuman struggle.

Mud-covered men return from the trenches and rested battalions go in. Prisoners taken in each fresh attack express the same wonder at the persistent hammering of the British. It has become twenty-four hours a day the army fighting night as well as day.

The attack on June 21, initiating the offensive, began at 7:30 in the morning; that of July 14 began at 3 o'clock in the morning of that day; that of today began about 1 o'clock in the morning. While resisting many counter attacks through the week, the Delville wood has become a shambles, the British have been creeping forward. More little round spots of new advanced posts and penciled lines of maps and trenches extended as the human moles dug their way forward.

More German artillery and more troops have been massed to meet the increasing numbers of the British while the British guns kept moving nearer and practicing shots at targets for future concentration of fire.

More important than ever to either side are those points of high ground on the front of the British pressure. Both straining combatants strive for the positions, saying, "I must have that."

All last week the Associated Press correspondent kept his eye on some black, stick-like points resembling broken telegraph poles, which were once shade trees in Pozieres. Villages like La Boiselle have become so unrecognizable from shell fire that one does not know where the village begins or ends. But the sticks of trees are whittled and whittled by the shell bursts until a direct hit at the base levels them.

BRITISH YELL THANKS.

Pozieres was under the same British shell fire as the other villages suffered before the Germans were forced out. Not a human being was seen in the neighborhood except near a communication trench, in front of which a few British were making a shell crater into field fortress. Across the way the Germans were engaged in the same business, both having sneaked out of their positions in the night. The British yelled satirical thanks to the Germans for timbers for their trenches, which were being made into British trenches.

By the location of the shell bursts in the morning it could be seen how far the British had worked their way up over night. Through all the army there is a sense of exultation which seems to allow no one to become tired—exultation over an army's first offensive. The death of comrades, officer or man, is accepted as something inevitable and there is a strange absence on the part of the British of any grimness. They go at it as part of the day's work.

One of the humors of the week to the army is the German gas shells. At first such numbers of them were astounding, especially those which do not explode, but emit a volume of gas. One British soldier called out: "If you expect to kill us with them you have to come over and hold them up to our noses."

Another called to the Germans: "They aren't as sweet as eau de cologne, but we like them better than your shrapnel and high explosives."

Montgomery Deplores Waterfront Election

Attorney James P. Montgomery, in a letter today, admonished the City Council to reconsider the recent action in calling a special election to permit the voters to pass upon the proposed lease of submerged city lands in the Key Route basin to F. M. Smith. The peroration is as follows:

"Let not your tender hearts, nor the gentleness of your natures, nor your supineness, nor your indifference to the public weal, cause you to neglect your duty to the present and future generations of Oakland.

"Gentlemen, there may yet be time to rectify your error before the people arise in condemnation of the proposed sacrifice of the last real remnant which she has of her western waterfront."

The letter was placed on file.

Summer Heat Record for Chicago Broken

CHICAGO, July 24.—All heat records for the summer were shattered here today when the thermometer registered 93 degrees at 11:30 a. m.

STRICTLY PERSONAL

When a man's name runs into four or five syllables he should have a rubber stamp.

So declared L. Montedonico, St. Louis capitalist, and member of one of the oldest French families in that city, today, as he "registered" at the Hotel Oakland with a neat rubber stamp.

"If I signed my name I would have it mispronounced and misspelled by everyone," he remarked.

J. F. Norton, for many years a resident of Manila, where he has wide business interests, arrived in Oakland today, and is registered at the Hotel Oakland while planning to purchase a home. He plans to retire from the Philippines, and make his home in future in California, where he has been, for some months past, visiting different cities. He will make his home in Oakland.

J. L. Boyd of St. Helena, who recently fell heir to the large Boyd estate, is registered at the Hotel Oakland. He will spend several days here.

F. W. Clampett and R. C. Clampett, Los Angeles businessmen, arrived at the Hotel Oakland today and will be in the bay region several days on business.

Charles F. Horton, San Diego attorney, is registered at the Touraine. He will be in Oakland several days and will also visit Oregon and Washington before returning to his home in the south.

John Kelly Jr. of Bakersfield, an oil operator, is registered at the Oakland.

A. M. Bergevin, who made his home in Oakland for some time several months ago, has returned after an extensive trip about the United States. He will make his home at the Oakland.

Charles E. Pantch of Fresno, a rancher, is at the Hotel Touraine. He plans to spend several days in Oakland, visiting friends.

OAKLAND CANNOT AID MILITIAMEN

City Attorney Rules Guardsmen May Not Get City Salaries.

There is no legal way in which the city can provide pay for city employes absent on duty with the National Guard, or can contribute to the relief fund for the families of men called to border duty, according to a formal opinion rendered to the city council today by City Attorney Paul C. Morf. The opinion was placed on file and the matter is apparently a closed issue so far as the city commissioners are concerned.

Only three city employes are on duty with the militia, and of these only one is married. He has been given the privilege of returning to Oakland and resuming his work in the city service.

Morf held that there is no charter or constitutional power given the council to compensate its employes, as such, when absent on military duty and rendering no service to the city in return for the compensation.

The question as to whether the city has the right to provide for the families of absent employes by way of a gift, gratuity or other aid was also considered by Morf. After the search through the legal decisions on the matter, Morf held that neither the charter nor the state legislature has conferred such a power upon the council.

Property Exemptions Total Millions

Real property exempted from taxation in the city of Oakland is valued at more than $4,000,000, according to a report filed with the city council today by City Assessor I. H. Clay. In addition to this, the commissioners, sitting as a board of equalization, are considering the practical exemption of a large number of charitable institutions from taxation.

The exemptions listed by Clay are as follows:

Military exemption by reason of service in the United States army, $633,100.00; churches, not including personal property, $1,207,600.00; colleges, $193,500.00; property in the name of the regents of the University of California, $308,800.00. In addition to this, operative property of public service corporations in annex 1909, $1,811,155.00.

Plan Effort to Revive Water Issue

Open discussion of the water district plan will be held in the council chamber of the city hall August 3, if the recommendation of C. C. Boynton, chairman of a sub-committee of the public utilities district committee, is carried into effect. The plan to call simultaneous elections in adjoining communities for the creation of a public utilities district was temporarily abandoned some months ago when a committee of mayors of the cities involved recommended against calling such an election on the ground that the public demand for action was not sufficiently widespread and earnest to justify action by the various city councils. An effort is being made to revive the issue.

French Aviator Astounds Berlin
Airman Drops Proclamation in Long Flight

PARIS, July 24.—A French aviator, Antoine Marchal, who started from Nancy on an aeroplane trip to Russia via Berlin, failed in his aerial race by a bare sixty miles, according to word received here today. He was captured by the Germans at Cholm, in Poland, after having dropped proclamations on Berlin.

Nancy lies on the French Alsace-Lorraine frontier. Cholm is in Russian Poland, fifty miles north of the Austrian frontier. Marchal must have flown nearly 1200 miles to have covered the distance between these two points, including Berlin in between. This in itself is a remarkable exploit. Even more astonishing was his feat of flying over Berlin, dropping proclamations on the city and making good his escape.

The proclamations dropped by Lieutenant Marchal on Berlin stated that though it was possible, the aviator refrained from bombarding the open town and "thus kill the women and innocent children."

Woman to Tell of Community Publicity

The first Advertising Bureau luncheon to be presided over by the newly elected chairman, George W. Fitch, will be held in the Chamber of Commerce grill room on the seventh floor of the Hotel Oakland tomorrow morning at 12:15 p. m.

The guest of honor and principal speaker will be Miss Bessie Abbot Howland, in charge of the course in pageantry now being given during the special summer session at the University of California. Miss Howland will speak upon a subject with which she is infinitely familiar, "Community Advertising by Means of Pageantry."

The classes formed this summer at the university for the study of the art of pageantry under the tutorage of Miss Howland are unusually large and both students and faculty are enthusiastic over the progress that has already been made.

Pageantry has been employed in community advertising in several eastern cities with much success. The "Aksarben" celebration in Omaha and the "Pageant of St. Louis" have brought forth wonderful results for the communities in which they were staged.

Man Tells Police He Murdered His Bride

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—Steadfastly declaring that he murdered his bride of a month as she lay asleep in a St. Louis hotel two weeks ago, D. H. Dirgen, 41, a chauffeur is being held by police here today. An effort is being made to verify the story through St. Louis police officials. Dirgen walked into central station here yesterday and asked that he be punished for the crime.

Dirgen says that the hotel is on Market street near Eighteenth, that he arose in the middle of the night, when his head "went bad," and sent a bullet into her temple. He fled to Indianapolis, he says, and from there to Denver and from Denver to Los Angeles.

BANDIT AND OFFICER HAVE DEATH FIGHT

Man Shoots at Trainmen and Will Die From Wounds

SPOKANE, Wash., July 24.—Nick Turner, a suspected bandit, was fatally wounded today and one policeman was seriously hurt in a running fight which raged for blocks through the Spokane streets near the Union station.

Floyd Gelvin, the officer, was shot several times. Sheriff Hodge of Seattle, who happened to be near when the firing began, chased Turner down Trent avenue and captured him as he fell with five bullets in his head and body.

The battle started when Turner had words with the crew of a Milwaukee train on the elevated tracks. Suddenly, the police charge, Turner began shooting.

Flourishing the revolver while men and women scattered right and left, Turner then fled along Trent avenue, pursued by Sheriff Hodge and Patrolmen Fuller and Gelvin.

Turner was gaining and seemed on the point of escaping when a police patrol carrying several officers took up the chase. The fugitive was cornered and made a last desperate stand, receiving a bullet in the back and one in the head from Fuller's revolver and three bullets from Gelvin's weapon. Gelvin dropped from his wounds and the desperado staggered on a few more steps before being seized by Hodge.

He was taken to a hospital, where his death is momentarily expected.

Patrolman Gelvin's jaw is shattered by one of the desperado's bullets, fired at close range. Surgeons said he would recover. Gelvin received the first wound when he approached Turner to arrest him while he was firing at the engineer of the Milwaukee train. In spite of his injury he continued fighting until he dropped from loss of blood.

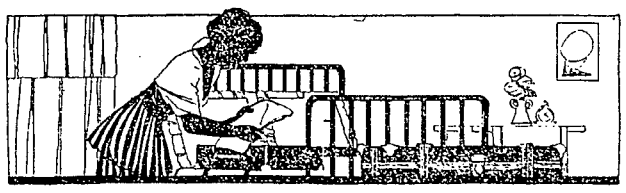

Turner said he did not know why he shot at the trainmen.

Over 300 Take Part in Excursion on Bay

The bay excursion held under the auspices of the Richmond-Oakland District Committee, Young Ladies' Institute and Young Men's Institute, yesterday, was a big success, over 300 participating. The day was replete with games, races and amusements.

The races, for which good prizes were offered, brought forth some excellent talent and keen competition resulted. The committee on sports consisted of Miss Anna C. May, district deputy, Y. L. I., and Thomas O'Brien. P. J. Bryan was in charge of the committee to secure prizes.

Plans are being arranged for the joint district initiations at Richmond next Sunday. The affair of July 30 will close a most successful term of the district deputies, Miss Anna C. May and George V. Nolan. They have had the loyal and enthusiastic support of the district committee, consisting of representatives of the various institutes and councils.

Physicians Recommend Castoria

CASTORIA has met with pronounced favor on the part of physicians, pharmaceutical societies and medical authorities. It is used by physicians with results most gratifying. The extended use of Castoria is unquestionably the result of three facts: First—The indisputable evidence that it is harmless: Second—That it not only allays stomach pains and quiets the nerves, but assimilates the food: Third—It is an agreeable and perfect substitute for Castor Oil. It is absolutely safe. It does not contain any Opium, Morphine, or other narcotic and does not stupefy. It is unlike Soothing Syrups, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, etc. This is a good deal for a Medical Journal to say. Our duty, however, is to expose danger and record the means of advancing health. The day for poisoning innocent children through greed or ignorance ought to end. To our knowledge, Castoria is a remedy which produces composure and health, by regulating the system—not by stupefying it—and our readers are entitled to the information.—Hall's Journal of Health.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. B. Halstead Scott, of Chicago, Ills., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria often for infants during my practice, and find it very satisfactory."

Dr. William Belmont, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "Your Castoria stands first in its class. In my thirty years of practice I can say I never have found anything that so filled the place."

Dr. J. H. Taft, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria and found it an excellent remedy in my household and private practice for many years. The formula is excellent."

Dr. R. J. Hamlen, of Detroit, Mich., says: "I prescribe your Castoria extensively, as I have never found anything to equal it for children's troubles. I am aware that there are imitations in the field, but I always see that my patients get Fletcher's."

Dr. Wm. J McCrann, of Omaha, Neb., says: "As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine, and aside from my own family experience I have in my years of practice found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."

Dr. J. R. Clausen, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "The name that your Castoria has made for itself in the tens of thousands of homes blessed by the presence of children, scarcely needs to be supplemented by the endorsement of the medical profession, but I, for one, most heartily endorse it and believe it an excellent remedy."

Dr. R. M. Ward, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Physicians generally do not prescribe proprietary preparations, but in the case of Castoria my experience, like that of many other physicians, has taught me to make an exception. I prescribe your Castoria in my practice because I have found it to be a thoroughly reliable remedy for children's complaints. Any physician who has raised a family, as I have, will join me in heartiest recommendation of Castoria."

Uncle Wiggily Cuts up for Kiddies

Social Whirlpool

AN EPISODE of Saturday's peace demonstration that shall live in the virile history of the West, was the superb courage of the leader of the hosts of marching women, Mrs. William Hinckley Taylor of Piedmont.

It is now a matter of historic record that she was warned, at the beginning of the parade, that "if she marched, a bomb would blow her to hell."

And, quietly, calmly, she communicated the written message to the police corporal near her—the messenger having gotten away in the crowd—and the officer, aware of the tragedy at the Ferry, advised her "to keep her brigade out. Things look bad."

And then he told her about the awful thing that had happened a few moments before.

Without trepidation, she replied, "We are going to march. We have assembled for that purpose. But I must ask of you protection for the venerable leader of our column, Mrs. Hearst."

And as the trumpet blew, and the hosts of women wheeled into line, unafraid, and marched to the end.

But in that leader's heart there must have dwelt a prayer to the God on High to guard her women who were marching in the name of the Prince of Peace.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel O. Lively, who came to us with the exposition, have joined the growing number of the city people who are yielding to the "back-to-the-country" call. They have purchased a farm, part of the Leland Stanford estate adjoining the Stanford University. They will begin the building of a roomy colonial home under the oaks that have made the estate famous. Mrs. Lively is an enthusiastic advocate of the preparedness policy and was among the captains who marched under the flag.

Dr. Millicent Cosgrave has returned from a six weeks' visit to New York. On her way east she stopped in Arizona and New Orleans. In New York she was the guest of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John O'Hara Cosgrave, San Franciscans, who have adopted New York as home, because of the lure of opportunity in the metropolis.

Mr. Cosgrave has gone from one editorship to another since leaving the Golden Gate, always one step higher. Of such are the men and women who have the courage to "break into" the vortex of New York.

Mrs. Winfield Scott Davis of Ross had a group of friends in during the week to meet the charming new daughter-in-law, Mrs. Kenneth Davis (Cornelia MacDonald) of Louisville.

The bride is a sister of Mrs. Wallace Irwin, whom San Francisco always claims as her very own.

Likewise is the bride related to Kenneth and Allan MacDonald, the latter of Ross—first cousins, or somnething equally interesting.

Then again, Kenneth MacDonald is married to Anita Davis, so there is kinship on both sides of the family.

Last Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Henshaw were hosts at a gay dinner party and an aftermath of bridge. Honors will be shared at a luncheon to be given next Thursday afternoon by Mrs. A. H. Hill by Miss Katherine Piercy Hall and the members of the bridal party at her wedding on Wednesday evening, August 16, to Dr. Lloyd E. Kindall.

The Hall-Piercy wedding will be solemnized in St. Mark's church and will be a large affair with four hundred or more in attendance. Afterward there is to be a small informal reception for half a hundred relatives and friends at the residence of the bride's parents.

Miss Gladys Coil will be the maid of honor and the trio of bridesmaids includes Miss Helen Hambly, Miss Mary Bennett and Miss Lucille Nichols. There will also be two small flower girls, Mary Hall, a sister of the bride-elect, and little Marion Lydon.

Mrs. Philip Bliss (Janet Painter) is one of a congenial group that is touring Yosemite Valley daily in a motor car. Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Davis and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Elliott, all of San Francisco are the other in the party. They plan to be gone several weeks.

✡ ✡ ✡

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bishop have been entertaining numbers of guests every week-end at their attractive country home in Ben Lomond, where their daughter, Mrs. Harry D. Alderson (Cordelia Bishop) is spending the summer with them.

Dr. Harry Alderson joins them there every week-end also for these house parties.

Mrs. William Morris, who has been enjoying the hospitality of the Bishops, has returned to town.

✡ ✡ ✡

Rev. and Mrs. Bernard C. Ruggles are entertaining as their house guests Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Kendall of Pasadena who are en route to Portland, Ore., via motor. Mr. and Mrs. Kendall are prominent in musical circles of the southern city, and sang for Dr. Ruggles at his church services yesterday at Hotel Oakland.

Cordial greetings are being extended to Mrs. William E. Nichols of White Plains, N. Y., who is visiting her mother, Mrs. C. A. Farnham at the Farnham home in Linden stret. Mrs. Nichols was formerly Miss Grace Watson of this city. With her are her two little daughters, Grace and Elizabeth Nichols.

✡ ✡ ✡

Instead of occupying their home in the Yosemite this summer, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Jorgensen and their daughter, Miss Aimee Jorgensen are in the east for the remainder of the year and are enjoying long, interesting motor trips. At present they are touring the Maine woods. During their absence the Jorgensen place in the valley is occupied by Mrs. Hugh Craig and her daughter, Jessie Craig.

On their return the Jorgensens will will build another place in Piedmont.

✡ ✡ ✡

For a fortnight or so longer, Mrs. John Francis Smith and her young daughter, Miss Alice Claire Smith, will remain at Santa Monica. Earlier in the season the Smiths enjoyed an outing at Boulder Creek where scores of the local smart set are spending July and August in their summer homes.

✡ ✡ ✡

The congenial group of players in the Adams Point bridge club will open their season quite early—on the afternon of August 7 at the home of Mrs. George Morrow. This card club is almost an institution—having been in existence for several years. The members meet twice a month, each taking turn in being hostess.

Another club that has decided upon resuming meetings early is the Monday Reading Club, which enrolls in its ranks many of the very prominent matrons of Piedmont and the Lakeside district. Mrs. E. C. Bradley will be the hostess at the first session, on August 14, at her home in East Oakland.

Normal School Will End Summer Session

CHICO, July 24.—The closing week of the summer session of the Chico State Normal school began this morning. The session has been open six weeks with a large attendance.

At the same time that the summer session of the Normal comes to a close, the summer session of the Chico Training school, which also has been open, will close, too.

Married in Rome

ROME, July 24.—On behalf of Count Boni de Castellane his attorney in the suit before the Holy See for the annulment of his marriage with Anna Gould has presented to the Pope new evidence which, according to the attorney, will prove that Miss Gould married Count de Castellane with the intention of divorcing him later if she became dissatisfied with the marriage bond. This, according to canonical law, is sufficient to annul a Catholic marriage, the attorney says.

As matrimonial cases before the Holy See can always be resumed if fresh facts are brought forward, the Pope has decided to submit the case in its new aspects to the same commission of cardinals that examined into it previously and decided against an annulment. The commission comprised Cardinals de Lai, Bisletti and Van Rossum.

BOYS LEAD GIRLS IN CANADA BIRTH RECORD.

WINNIPEG, Man., July 24.—More Canadian male babies have been born than ever before since Canada went to war and illegitimacy has greatly decreased during the war period.

Vital statistics available today show that in twenty-three months 11,794 babies were born. Of these 6170 were boys and 5624 girls. During the preceding twenty-three months 5710 boys and 5384 girl babies were born.

During the war period 561 illegitimate babies have been born, while the highest of any preceding twenty-three months show 726 babies born out of wedlock. All figures are based on reports from the city of Winnipeg.

WOMAN IN FIGHT WITH ANGRY COW.

PORTLAND, Ore., July 24.—Mrs. Sadie Gill of this city was the victor in a spectacular fight with an enraged young cow which had attacked her. The tussle continued over a space of half an hour, during which time Mrs. Gill was gored and downed several times.

Mrs. Gill had left her home Friday morning to gather wild ferns along a creek near her residence. On her return with her arms laden with the ferns the heifer charged her with stampede rage. The suddenness of the attack threw Mrs. Gill off her feet. She arose and seized a club, but was repeatedly knocked down. Finally Mrs. Gill succeeded in grabbing the horns of the animal and held on until the heifer broke away and ran.

Griffin yesterday claimed as his bride Miss Esther M. Jacobs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Jacobs of 861 Sutter street.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of less than a score of close friends and relatives at St. Mary's Cathedral at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Rev. J. J. Cantwell, vicar-general of the diocese.

The couple left immediately for a honeymoon trip of ten days through Southern California.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—Olive Granger, aged 26, attempted to take her life yesterday by drinking poison at her room, 1280 Golden Gate avenue. She was given treatment by Dr. Henry Beck, 1016 Fillmore street, who reported that the girl would recover. She had been melancholy.

She came to California in 1851 and was married to William Fonda at Marysville two years later. She had lived in San Francisco continuously since that time.

She was well known for her charities. She was a member of the California Pioneers and for twenty-five years served on the board of managers of the Children's Hospital.

DOG ATTACKS AND ROUTS BURGLAR.

SAN MATEO, July 24.—An attempt was made to enter the country residence of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, wife of the late Ambassador to Great Britain. The robber tried to enter through a window, but was attacked by a collie dog belonging to William Gore, an engineer, who lives near here. The man beat the dog off and escaped.

LEARNS HUSBAND IS REALLY BROTHER.

GLOBE, Ariz., July 24.—Mrs. Roger W. Newton fainted when she saw the evidence that seemed to prove that the man she had married nine years ago is her full brother, older by two years than herself.

The discovery came through the husband finding in an old trunk a locket containing a tintype of his parents, recognized by his wife as a photograph of her own father and mother, the tintype being the same as the one she had once possessed.

The locket was the only connection with the past left by Newton in 1880, when, a child of 3 years, he was placed in an orphanage in Spokane, Wash. He was adopted by a couple who gave him their name and who moved to Wisconsin.

After leaving college Newton's business took him to Portland, Ore., where he met Miss Elizabeth Porter, attending a seminary. They were married.

The couple came to Globe four months ago. They have started for Eugene, Ore., there to meet, they believe, their mutual parents.

Cardinal in Favor of Military Training

BALTIMORE, July 24.—Cardinal Gibbons marked his eighty-second birthday, which was passed at Union Mills, Carroll county, by declaring for universal military training as the best possible thing for America.

He was in fine spirits and excellent health and expressed the opinion that military training would safeguard the nation, keep it at peace with the world, upbuild its manhood and fuse its many foreign strains into one patriotic people.

"Order is the first law of heaven," he said, "and order comes from authority and obedience."

The CONFESSIONS of ROXANE

by FRANCES WALTER.

I found myself trying to imagine what sort of a young woman Miss Reginer was.

How empty the house seemed without Arthur! He left the day after the receipt of the letter, as there was an urgent situation in New Orleans requiring his immediate presence. He took time merely to throw a few necessary articles of dress into his grips and he was off.

As I saw his train pull out of the station all the fears, which before had entered my heart, were redoubled and made more acute. I had heard much of the gayety of social life in New Orleans, and I wondered what might happen if Arthur became acquainted with a fast set there before I could be with him. After all, he was nothing but a boy with an overly developed business brain. Such a delicately poised machine as he might easily be thrown out of balance and become wrecked. I determined to make all the haste I possibly could and be with him at the earliest moment. But there were details which delayed me. Our landlord declined at first to cancel our lease and only after days of argument would he compromise at a figure which I considered most unreasonable, yet was compelled to accept. Then, too, there were the customary delays on the part of the packers, whose principle seemed always to put off until tomorrow what they did not want to do today.

But at last the day of my departure came. Only a few hours remained before I was to leave. I had abandoned my empty rooms and taken quarters at the Navarre pending the complete demolition of our cozy little place. It was in my room at the Navarre that I waited impatiently for train time. A few of my friends had dropped in to tell me good-by, and on my dressing table was a huge bouquet of roses which Arthur had ordered by wire. In another hour two or three of the closest acquaintances I had in town were to arrive and accompany me to the station. When the telephone rang, therefore, I was not surprised to hear the operator say that there was a visitor for me and I told her to tell the caller to come to my room. Presently I heard footsteps on the carpet-clad corridor and a timid knock at my door. In response to my "Come in," the door opened and there stood Dicky, pale and haggard. An involuntary exclamation escaped me, and I stepped back in alarm.

"You?" I cried.

He closed the door and advanced into the sitting-room.

"Yes, I," he said sadly. "I have come to say good-by, Roxane."

I sank into a seat and motioned him to another, but he remained standing.

"I heard only today," he explained, "that you were leaving the city. I could not let you go without seeing you once more."

He seemed a wreck of his former self. His face had thinned and I noticed that his clothes sagged on him. He appeared not so much like one recovering from a long illness as one who was in the grip of a chronic malady. His eyes shone, but it was the luster of nervousness and not the brightness of care-free, sparkling boyhood. His hands opened and closed incessantly, as though he was seeking to grasp something which continually evaded his clutch. His voice sounded hollow, and as he spoke it seemed that his tones were either those of a helpless man or one who was pleading for something which he knew he could not obtain.

An infinitely keen pain was in my heart as I watched him. When I could bear it no longer, I went to him and took him by his cold, thin hands, and led him to a seat.

"Oh, Dicky," I said, "tell me what is the matter? Are you ill? Can I do anything for you?"

He cast his hopeless eyes upon me and slowly shook his head. Even then I did not realize that I had played any part in bringing him to this condition. It merely seemed to me that he was ill.

"Where have you been, and what has been the matter with you?" I asked.

Again that hopeless look. This time his eyes gazed longer into mine and a tinge of color crept into his cheeks. He moved uneasily in his seat. He started to speak, but stopped, and turned away from me.

"Tell me, Dickie, what is it?"

"Don't you know?" he asked huskily.

There was something in his voice that startled me; something that reminded me of the night that he and I dined alone in the hotel, which now sheltered us.

All at once I knew. I knew that his infatuation had wrought this change in him, and with the knowledge my heart first stood still and then sank within me. It was possible that I had wrecked this boy's life.

My hand stole to his. It was impossible for me to speak. Indeed, I knew that it was the fateful invitation which I gave him that night that had finally worked its destruction. To an older man such an incident would soon have been forgotten. Even had he considered it a flirtation, my subsequent attitude would have been sufficient to repel him. But with Dickey, how different! Inexperienced as he was, that evening with him had evidently marked an epoch in his life. Probably he had never looked upon a woman seriously before. Certainly he had never known what love was in the sense of man passionately yearning for a woman. That evening he had awakened from boyhood to manhood!

Uncle Wiggily Goes to Boston

"Here is something for your farm, Uncle Wiggily," said Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, the muskrat lady housekeeper, as she came out, one morning, on the front porch of the hollow stump house, where the rabbit gentleman was looking up at the sky to see if it might shed tears of rain.

"Something for my farm? That is very nice," Uncle Wiggily answered with a smile that made his whiskers look as curly as a carpenter's shaving. "What is it?"

"A rubber plant," answered Nurse Jane.

"A rubber plant!" cried Uncle Wiggily. "How nice! I suppose it has rubber balls growing on it instead of peaches or pears."

"No," spoke Nurse Jane. "It hasn't."

"Then does it grow stretcher rubber bands, that play nice, jolly tunes?" asked the bunny gentleman. "Come to think of it, I'd rather have a rubber plant that grew rubber bands than anything else. I am so fond of music!"

"I am sorry to disappoint you," said the muskrat lady, "but as a matter of fact," and she spoke just like a school teacher on her vacation, "as a matter of fact the rubber plant I am going to give you for your farm doesn't grow rubber bands."

"Then what does grow on it, or come off it?" the bunny uncle wanted to know.

"Just rubber leaves," answered Nurse Jane. "Nice, big, glossy, green leaves grow on the rubber plant, and make it pretty to look at. That is all. It is good to see."

Uncle Wiggily scratched his chin with his left hind foot, and looked as though he was thinking very hard.

"To tell you the truth, Nurse Jane," he said, "I haven't much room on my farm for anything that just looks nice. I must raise things that are good to eat—such as corn and peas and beans, or potatoes, or carrots."

"I see," spoke Nurse Jane, sort of sad like. "Then you don't want my nice, pretty rubber plant, that I bought at the five and six cent store?"

"Oh, of course I want it!" cried Mr. Longears, seeing that Nurse Jane would feel badly if he did not take her present. "Only if it doesn't grow rubber balls or gumdrops or—Oh, well, never mind. I guess it's time I had something on my farm that is nice to look at, even if you can't eat it," he said. "Thank you very much, Nurse Jane. I'll plant it over in the meadow, where the cows can see it. They like green things."

"So Uncle Wiggily set out the rubber plant and then, as he was very busy about his farm, hoeing the corn, pulling the weeds out of the onion bed and sprinkling paris green on the potatoes, for a time he forgot all about Nurse Jane's present.

But the rubber plant did not forget about itself. It grew and grew and grew until it was large and strong, with big, stretchy, glossy, green leaves on it.

One day Uncle Wiggily was riding around his farm in his automobile, watching things grow. He saw the cabbages getting nice big heads on them, the peas and beans were filling out, and the eyes of the potatoes were playing tag with the ears of corn, to see which would be ripe first.

"Everything seems to be coming along all right," said Uncle Wiggily, as he started his auto again. "I guess I'll go back to my hollow stump house and have supper." So back he started, but he had not gone far before all of a sudden he heard a sound like: "Hiss-s-s-s-s-s!"

"Oh, dear," cried the bunny uncle. "One of my auto tires has a hole in it and the air is hissing out!"

And, surely enough, that was what happened. A sharp stone had made a hole in the bologna sausage tire on one of the wheels of the rabbit gentleman's auto and he had to stop.

"Well, well!" he cried, as he got out to look at it. "This is too bad! I can't run my automobile with a hole in the tire, and yet I must get home before——"

And just then there was a rustling in the bushes, and out jumped a bad old fox.

"Ah, ha! This time I have you!" he cried to the bunny gentleman. "You can't get away from me now with your burst tire. I have you!"

"So you have!" said Uncle Wiggily. And the fox was just going to grab him when another voice suddenly spoke and said:

"Quick, Uncle Wiggily! Take some of my leaves and some sticky gum from the pine tree near you, and mend the hole in your tire. Then it will hold air and you can ride home and get away from the fox. Quick! Paste one of my leaves over the hole in the tire!"

"Who are you?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Nurse Jane's rubber plant," was the answer. Then the bunny gentleman took some of the stretchy, rubbery leaves and plastered them over the hole in the auto tire with some pine tree sticky gum. Next he blew some air in the mended tire, and before the fox could grab him away went Mr. Longears in his auto as nicely as you please, and the fox couldn't get him.

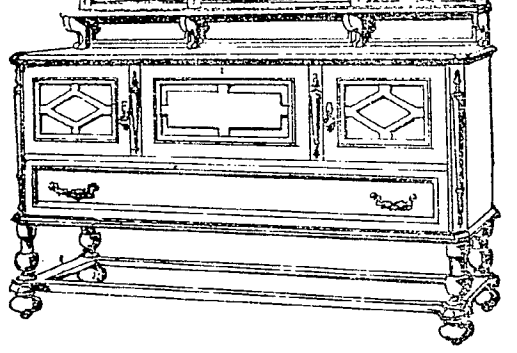

"I'm sorry I thought your rubber plant was of little use," said Uncle Wiggily to Nurse Jane that night when he was safely home. "It saved my life. Now I know that things can be beautiful and useful at the same time."

And I guess you children know that, too. So if the chocolate cake doesn't turn into a pumpkin pie and hide in the sugar bowl, where the cream puff can't find it, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the cornrobs.

SCHOONER RIDES ICE.

SEATTLE, July 24.—After a winter spent in the ice of the Kuskokwim river, in Alaska, the power schooner Bender Brothers has arrived in Seattle. The boat was frozen in last October while discharging freight. Several of the men on board drove dog teams across country to Seward and came out to Seattle. All returned to the ship last spring. They found her high and dry on shore and she had to be dug out of the sand before she could be floated.

Women to Hear of "Try Oakland First"

Members of the Women's Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce will meet tonight to organize the women's committee of one hundred to air the "Try Oakland First" week committee. The new committee, to be headed by Miss Bessie Wood, will visit all improvement and mothers' clubs and all other women's organizations to urge co-operation.

John W. Phillips, head of the general staff of "Try Oakland First" week, will speak tonight when the committee is formed, and several other members of the staff will assist in the work of organizing.

Knife to Be Aimed at Proposed Budget

The Oakland budget will be the center tonight of what is expected to be a lively meeting of the Ways and Means Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, when the committee is to go through the list of the city's official estimates to find possible cuts in the expenditures of various departments.

The cutting will be done largely through suggestions to be made by B. H. Pendleton, chairman of the budget committee and former president of the Oakland City Council, under the old charter, and President J. H. King of the chamber.

The meeting will be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. The results of the budget conference will be made public and transmitted to the city council before the tax levy is officially fixed.

"WHAT ROTARY IS"

The Convention of the International Association of Rotary Clubs, at Cincinnati, July 16-20, with its attendant expenditure of more than $500,000 for transportation, hotel bills and entertainment, has aroused a great deal of general public interest. Rotary is less than ten years old, and, as an international organization, it lifted its head among the great American organizations only a couple of years ago. The Cincinnati Convention Entertainment Committee has arranged to entertain seven thousand people at the 1916 convention, and as this number is more than three times as great as the attendance last year, there must be a reason. Cincinnati's central location will have much to do with the increase in attendance, but there is an inner meaning, which has been obtained by R. E. Logsdon, special correspondent of The TRIBUNE, in an interview with Ralph A. Tingle, president of the Cincinnati Rotary Club.

"Rotary," says Mr. Tingle, "is an ever-widening circle of influence for good. As a stone dropped into a placid pool causes the waves to ripple over its surface, so Rotary, launched some ten years ago into the great sea of humanity, has created great waves of fellowship, which have rolled on and on, carrying thousands of men to achievement and success. The Rotary code of ethics says: 'My business standards shall have in them a note of sympathy for our common humanity. My business dealings, ambitions and relations shall always cause me to take into consideration my highest duty as a member of society. In every position in business life, in every responsibility that comes before me, my chief thought shall be to fill that responsibility and discharge that duty, so when I have ended each of them I shall have lifted the level of human ideals and achievements a little higher than I found them.'"

Rotarians the world over are proud to subscribe to such sentiments as these and are proud to let the world know that they are lending their time and efforts toward the betterment of their fellows—not their Rotarian fellows alone, but their fellowmen, whoever and whatever they may be.

A Rotarian believes himself to be not more obligated to a brother Rotarian than he is to every other man in human society, because the genius of Rotary lies not in its competition, but in its co-operation, and Rotarians assert that human rights are not confined to Rotary Clubs, but are as deep and broad as the race itself.

There are no secrets in Rotary, no obligations other than to attend meetings with a certain degree of regularity, for it is through this "get together" spirit that Rotary hopes to give man a better understanding of each other.

Some have the idea that Rotary is organized for the purpose of promoting the business interests of its members through trade. This is incorrect, except insofar as the acquaintances acquired and friendships made through frequent meetings of the same group of men may result in business relations between them.

Rotary is unique in its organization in, that only one firm in a given list may be represented in a local club, and not to exceed two members from the same firm. This plan is followed, not for selfish reasons, but rather because it has been thought that the men thus brought together under the banner of service can, because of the compactness of the organization, the oneness of purpose, better present the ideals and work out the ideas for which Rotary stands.

The Rotary idea of fellowship and helpfulness is spreading—men are coming to see and understand that the success they attain, the happiness they enjoy, are they make along Life's way, and Rotary largely dependent upon the friendships has done and is doing its part in building up the brotherhood of man through service.

For, after all, the big idea of Rotary is Service. It is helping men to serve themselves, to serve their fellows, to serve the communities in which they live, to serve Him who taught that real service comes through love.

Finally, Rotary teaches that service which gives rather than seeks to receive; that service which bids you:

"Give to the world the best you have
And the best will come back to you."

TIME FOR A DIVISION.

We have always believed, and still believe, that many of the opponents of national preparedness have been moved to their viewpoint by an honest interpretation of opinions, data and theories. We have regretted that they accepted as fact the lying statements of the agitators against the defense programs of the government, but just in so far as we have believed men and women sincere and honest, we have had the greatest respect for their views. We have entertained a consideration for them just as kindly as that accorded to the advocates of adequate preparedness.

There stands forth today, however, a terrible, brutal fact. The hideous murders in San Francisco Saturday afternoon disclosed in all its horrible nakedness the character of some, of many, of the agitators who have created the bogey of "militarism" as a thing to wage their war against. There are among them anarchists, murderers, bomb-throwers, men who take life for hire; champions of murderous violence; vile, sneaking cowards, who sacrifice women and little children.

It is time for those who love order and prefer decency, protection and solidarity in social units to anarchy, but who have unknowingly and with thoughtless alacrity aligned themselves with this criminal breed, to consider their position. It is time for them, if they so wish, to uncover their heads and walk contritely back to the side of social, Christian order and pledge themselves to work industriously to maintain it. It is time for them to realize that the vast majority of American citizens are for preparedness against disruption of social order by foreign powers, propaganda and individuals.

It is time for them to guard against exploitation by the criminal propagandist who is striving to destroy national integrity and national strength.

And it is time for them to realize that mere lip-repudiation of wishing to inspire the murders of last Saturday will not be sufficient to square them with the decent, law-abiding elements of society. They must prove themselves by their future conduct. The thoughtlessly harmful must separate themselves from the vicious by nature and profession.

A FEW ERRORS.

If the manager of the campaign of a presidential candidate is not permitted to figure the "dope" as far ahead of the election as he wishes, then there is no fun in being a manager. So Mr. Vance McCormick, campaign manager for Mr. Wilson, has begun to amuse himself in the innocent little pastime of juggling with pencil and paper. The simpleness of Mr. McCormick's innocence is established by the results of his first attempt to toddle alone through the maze of possibilities of election figures.

As is natural in all primary efforts, Mr. McCormick picks up the most prominent and imposing objects first. He fondles lovingly the Progressive vote polled by Colonel Roosevelt in 1912—4,300,000—truly a number to conjure with if nothing depends on the conjuring. With mathematical precision the manager figures that Mr. Wilson should get 25 per cent of this vote, and with this percentage ought to win handsomely. The average required in all the States is 25 per cent. The portion of the 1912 vote needed in the separate States varies; for example, in Massachusetts he must get 45 per cent, in California only 2 per cent, to insure that Mr. Wilson will carry the State.

This method is perfectly satisfactory and convincing to those who are blind and without memory. The only thing the matter with it in the eyes of the normal person is that the Progressive vote of 1912 no longer exists. The imposing 4,300,000 is only a fantastic dream, a reminiscence, the dead ashes of hope.

Tabulation of the registration and November elections throughout the country in 1914 shows that the 4,300,000 of two years before had dwindled to 1,900,000. The vote polled by the Republicans showed that the Progressive loss was Republican gain; instead of the Democrats gaining in strength, they lost. The disappearance of the Progressive vote continued throughout 1915 in increasing ratio. Figures of the registration and vote for the 1916 presidential preference primaries have not been assembled, but it is safe to say that they will indicate that not more than 500,000 Progressives were alive and in good health at the time the Chicago conventions opened. The California Progressive vote of 283,000 in 1912 has decreased to about 50,000 in 1916. In New York Colonel Roosevelt is himself authority for the statement that he kept up the fight until seven-eighths of the Progressives deserted him, and then he quit. He kept no account of the evanishment after quitting.

So it follows that Mr. McCormick is making his deductions from a fictitious basis. Two per cent of the California 50,000 of 1916 is widely different from 2 per cent of the 283,000 of 1912. Surely Mr. McCormick does not intend that his sympathizer shall believe a thousand votes added to the present Democratic strength will carry California for Mr. Wilson in November!

Another palpable error in the pre-election "dope" is that of crediting Mr. Wilson with the strength he polled in 1912. In all the elections since then, making due allowance for lack of interest in local campaigns, the Democratic strength was notably below that of four years ago. Mr. McCormick makes no allowance for depreciation.

THE HOOSIER POET.

With the death of James Whitcomb Riley one of the best-loved Americans has passed. While a few may have equaled him, none has surpassed Riley in rich contribution to American letters that is typically, essentially, vitally American. He won a place in the literary world in a way that was different from that of most men.

Most writers who attained an enduring place in the literature of peoples owed their success to brilliant conception or finish and individuality of style; more often a combination of both. James Whitcomb Riley was the spokesman of simplicity. He heard and read the secrets of the heart of nature and humanity and interpreted their message with a fidelity that was nearly always whimiscal.

Most extraordinary thing, he spoke with most effectiveness in the dialect of the people of one interior State—of Indiana. Such provincialism would have kept submerged in mediocrity any man of the last century except Riley. But the genius of the "Hoosier poet" touched even a "squeegicum squee" with its divine light and made us love it. When he spoke it was the voice of the universal soul. All of earth's humanity was familiar with it and they will long treasure it.

The news from Poland tells us, among other distressing things, that practically every child under seven years of age has died of starvation. We cannot vouch for the absolute authenticity of this statement, because it is manifestly impossible to know about every Polish child under seven, but certainly distress is so great that it is impossible to approve of the action of the combatant nations in forbidding Americans from extending relief. It seems that enmities give an entirely different aspect to benevolence. If charity is designed to aid the unfortunate and suffering on one side it is humanity; if on the other side it is violation of neutrality.

The Dutch shipping council has held a post mortem on the torpedoed freightship Eemdijk and decided that it met disaster from unknown causes. Evidently the Eemdijk committed suicide, inasmuch as the war in Europe has been acquitted of any connection with her loss.

A FIGHT FOR THE SENATE.

(From the Philadelphia Inquirer.)

If President Wilson is to be re-elected in November he must win over to his side the bulk of the Progressive vote, something which would seem to be almost impossible. Not only that, but he must make inroads upon the regular Republican vote.

There are always changes in a presidential election, but to produce violent changes requires issues which will sweep thousands of citizens off their political feet. The success of Wilson in 1912 was due to the serious break in the ranks of the Republican party. Has his administration been such as to commend itself to a majority of the people in the great Northern and Western States? We do not think so. Leaving aside both the Mexican and European questions, the policy of protection is at stake, and no thinking Republican who has been an advocate of protection can possibly be coaxed over to the side of near-free trade.

But if the country is to have a return to Republican policies, more is needed than the election of Hughes.

There must be a Republican Congress.

There seems to be little doubt of the ability of the Republican party to capture the House. The danger point is the Senate. The present Democratic majority in the Senate is 16. To produce a clear Republican majority, the Republicans must not only hold what they already have, but defeat nine Democrats. The winning of eight seats would yield a majority with the casting vote of the Vice-President, who is useful only in case of a tie in the Senate.

Heretofore both parties have had committees looking after the campaigns of Representatives. This year each is to have a special campaign organization which is to devote itself to the senatorial seats. The contest that is to be waged will not only be fought out over the presidency, therefore, but will be carried into the senatorial situation. The Democrats must fight to retain control of the Senate, the Republicans to win control. And at the least, the latter must win eight seats. How is this to be done?

In Maine they expect to elect a successor to Senator Johnson; in New Jersey, a successor to Senator Martine; in New York, one to Senator O'Gorman; in West Virginia, one to Senator Chilton; in Ohio they hope to defeat Senator Pomerene, and in Indiana their eyes are on two seats, both of which are to be filled in November.

Here are seven, and all of these States ought to go Republican. But they do not end here. They believe that they can get rid of Senator Hitchcock in Nebraska, of Pittman in Nevada and of Myers in Montana, and they intend to make a strong fight to get Missouri away from Senator Reed.

It is seen, therefore, that it is quite within the range of possibilities, not to say probabilities, to overturn completely the present Democratic administration.

The very important agricultural and political news arrives from Sacramento that an inspector of seed potatoes has been appointed. Not all the good jobs await incumbents as long as the lieutenant-governorship did, it will thus be seen.

Somewhat veiled news from Holtville via the Tribune: "George W. Fuess reports that the stolen cushion has been returned to its former resting place at the piano in the Arcade Airdome. The 'stool mystery' has not as yet been unraveled, but it is expected to break soon."

Financial regulations are rather binding down in Mexico. There is no eagerness among tradesmen to accept Carranza scrip, so his general, Herrera, has issued an order that anyone refusing to take it at 20 cents on the dollar "will be executed by a firing squad." That is one way to increase the circulation.

This is said by the Woodland Democrat in a tone that suggests that nothing remains for argument; though the editor is in San Francisco every day, holding down his Federal job and ought to know just how things are: "Continued and unprecedented prosperity has nailed the coffin lid tight on calamity as a Republican issue this year."

* * *

The Bakersfield Californian is of opinion that the answer of John F. Neylan, chairman of the State Board of Control, that the cost of government is higher in California than in any other state, will not bear analysis. The answer is this: "Ninety per cent of state revenues are derived from the corporations of the state and the individual taxpayer does not pay one cent in state taxes except in the matter of interest on highway bonds." The Californian then indulges in a long analysis which is altogether superfluous.

It seems there are others who are sore anent the appointment of Stephens to the lieutenant-governorship. This is from the Riverside Press: "Riverside friends and admirers of Corporation Commissioner H. L. Carnahan are naturally disappointed that the lieutenant-governor appointment did not go to him. But for strong pressure for a man from Los Angeles he would in all probability have been named. He has made such a fine record in his present position that the governor recognized that it would be exceedingly difficult to find a man to fill his place." The last sentence will, of course, be recognized as a balm.

"THE PEN IS MIGHTIER THAN THE SWORD"

—BROOKLYN DAILY EAGLE.

THE UNITED CHURCH OF CANADA

Hereafter in Canada there will be no Methodist Church, no Presbyterian Church, no Congregational Church. Those three have merged their membership, property and all their interests and will become "The United Church of Canada." This new church will be the largest and most influential Protestant denomination in that country, with ten thousand church buildings, six hundred thousand actual members and a constituency of more than one-fourth the entire population of Canada.

For seventeen years negotiations have been going on for a union of the Protestant denominations of Canada. The Baptists, with a large membership there, flatly declined to merge, but out of the movement grew a union of the two bodies of Baptists, known as the "Free Will" and "Calvanistic," which had kept up separate denominations. The Church of England, which also has a large membership, is yet considering the question of union with the new church, but is not likely to agree to it.

Many of the Presbyterians in Canada are descended from the Scotch "Covenanters," and at first clung tenaciously to the old Calvanistic doctrines and refused to even consider going with the Methodists. A fundamental doctrine of Scotch Presbyterianism was that even before God laid the foundations of the universe he knew and "ordained" all that was to come to pass in all the future, even down to the smallest detail, such as the falling of a sparrow to the ground. All that ever happened was "predestined," "fore-ordained" to happen, and this included the destiny of every human soul. Long ages before a soul was born into the world it had been all settled what was to become of it, whether it would go to hell or be among those "elected" for heaven. Therefore there was no freedom of the human will to choose salvation.

In this respect Scotch Presbyterianism was like the "Kismet" or fatalistic doctrine of Mohammedanism, "What is to be will be," so why struggle against it?

Old fashioned Presbyterianism in Canada was directly opposed to the Arminianism of the followers of Wesley, the doctrine that man's will is free, that his moral responsibility demands that freedom, that it is up to every human soul to choose salvation or damnation, and that each human soul is alone responsible.

Presbyterians at first frowned upon Methodist revivals. What was the use of beating the bushes for souls when no soul was free to choose, but must abide by the decrees of fate?

Some years ago cholera broke out in Constantinople. The Turks, with their doctrine of fatalism, did nothing to stop it. A keen foreign physician got an audience with the Sultan and asked that a rigid quarantine be established about infected houses. The Sultan shrugged his shoulders. "What's the use? If cholera is fated to come it will come."

"Yes, your majesty, but it has been fated that cholera does not spread where there is a strict quarantine," said the foreigner, and the city got the quarantine and thousands of lives were saved.

So the Presbyterians of Canada saw with their own eyes that it was predestined, or "fated," that many souls should be saved in Methodist revivals. They saw thousands exercise their will and choose. They saw the new birth come to men and women, as it came to Paul on the Damascus road. And so in towns and cities Presbyterians began gradually to join with Methodists and other churches in union revival services such as have just been held in Kansas City in the Billy Sunday Tabernacle.

Evangelism did for the union of those churches what no amount of argument could have done. Modern evangelism brought about a reconciliation of two contradictory and seemingly irreconcilable religious doctrines, and three great churches unite upon one common ground and aim. By working together as one great denomination they can do vastly more good than by working separately; and for the furtherance of that one aim all theological hair splitting, all differences are set aside and a united church is going ahead to preach the Gospel in terms that the Twentieth Century can understand.—Kansas City Star.

THE JESTER.

What It Said All Right.

As an example of the ability of the juvenile scholar to evolve unexpected meaning, a correspondent of the Spectator relates that the following question was put to a history class:

"What misfortune then happened to Bishop Odo?"

The reply came quite readily: "He went blind."

An explanation was demanded, and the genius brought up the textbook.

"There, sir?" triumphantly, "the book says so." The sentence indicated read: "Odo was deprived of his see."

Neglectful.

One evening an angry complainant appeared in Cupples' barn. "Your bull chased me across that field this morning."

"Did he? Well, I'm sorry. Hurt ye much?"

"See here. I've come to tell you that you ought to take that bull out of the field."

"It's my field, likewise my bull."

"I guess you don't know who I am?"

"Well, no; dunno's I do."

"I am the mayor of Scarboro and president of the Scarboro & Taitville Railroad."

"Be ye?" asked Jim, respectfully. "Well, why didn't ye tell that to the bull?"—Youth's Companion.

All the Beloved There.

"So you went to church last Sunday?" asked the doubtful one. "Then, to prove it, what was the text?"

"The text was, 'He giveth his beloved sleep.'"

"You're right. How many of the congregation were there?"

"All the beloved, it seemed to me."—Puck.

Able Defense.

A section foreman on a southern railway heard the following conversation between two of his dusky laborers:

"Jim, you bettah come here an' he'p me. I's takin' up fer you."

"How's dat?"

"W'y, dis here niggah say you ain't fit fer de dawgs, an' Ah tole him yes you is!"—Grit.

MOURNING FOR HER DOG.

Mrs. Vernon Castle, according to reliable reports, is going into mourning for her dog. Is going to wear mourning. Was ever anything so sad? (The dog is dead.)

We profoundly sympathize with Mrs. Castle in her bereavement. Our tears flow with hers. By no word of ours would we add to the burden of a great grief. Let us rather point out the silver lining to the cloud of woe. Let us find consolation in the fact that civilization has relieved mourning of some of its rigors. It used to involve throwing the bereaved into the roaring pyre with the deceased object of her affections. In parts of Brazil today it includes fasting, gashing and mutilating one's self, and long prayers and strange rituals, outcries and hell-roarings; and the Mohammedans to this day go into a frenzy of mourning, destroy their clothes, smash the furniture, blacken the walls and blacken their faces, and behave almost indecently. There are savages at the present time in this country who go out and get drunk. We know of an Arkansas farmer in the days before prohibition who stayed drunk for two weeks on account of the death of his hound dog. All that Mrs. Castle will do will be to put a beconing little dark border on her dimity, her kerchiefs and her visiting cards.

Some people will scoff and pooh-pooh a lady's mourning for a dog. But there are lots of them wearing widow's weeds for canine brutes, and they have a constitutional right to do it. It is always a sad spectacle to see—a woman mourning a dog. On the other hand it is sometimes a relief to know that a dog is dead. —St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

ADVERTISING IN CHINA.

In addition to the newspaper advertising the Chinese are reported to be making much use of billboards and posters, the posters being issued in two sizes, the larger size 2½x3½ feet. These posters are profusely illustrated and highly colored. Certain colors cannot be used because of superstitions among the people. Poster advertising is said to be one of the most effective methods of advertising in China.—Christian Herald.

CLEARER STYLE.

The latest note to Austria shows literary improvement. The President is now able to describe a hostile act as a direct insult to the flag without putting it into language which only a Boston school boy could translate.—Baltimore American.

"RARE" METALS MAY SOON BECOME CHEAP.

Among the so-called "rarer" metals the most interesting are those whose compounds are abundant but whose cost of obtaining from these compounds is very high. In other words cheap methods have not yet been worked out for extracting the metals from these abundant compounds. In an article by Dr. J. W. Richards in Metallurgical and Chemical Engineering a discussion is given of the possibilities of some of these rarer metals, among which are beryllium, which is found as a compound in the gem, emerald, but more abundantly as a mineral called beryl. Magnesium is another metal which has lately been made on a fair sized scale in this country but not especially cheaply. Others are calcium, strontium, barium, boron, chromium, titanium and zirconium.

Aluminum in 1886 sold for $10 per pound. Today it sells for 60 cents, but normally is much lower, due to cheap methods of extraction by electricity at Niagara Falls.

The silicon industry furnishes another example in point. Silica is the most abundant and cheapest material in nature, yet silicon was selling in 1900 as a chemical curiosity at over $100 an ounce. At present 10 cents per pound is a good price for silicon, due also to the use of electricity in an electric furnace. It is possible that the coming generation of chemists will find cheap methods of producing some of the present "rarer" metals.

CLAIMS BELLED BUZZARD.

The belled buzzard, which has turned up this year near Jonesboro, is the personal property and pet of Colonel Jeems N. Sharp of Bates county, but seems to have wandered far from home. For a long time the belled buzzard made its home on the farm of Colonel Sharp near Passaic and made frequent visits to the colonel's barnyard and fraternized with the other fowls, becoming so tame that it would eat out of his hand. It would disappear at intervals and be gone for several weeks, always returning, however, after these trips and appear to be glad to get back among its friends. The Colonel was able to note the fact that the small bell was fastened around the buzzard's neck by what appeared to be a strong copper wire, which was worn to the brightness of gold by the constant friction of the bird's feathers. Colonel Sharp has been looking for the return of the buzzard for some time.—Cass County, Mo., Leader.

THREAT TO HANG GIRL'S ASSAILANT

Man Accused by Oakland Child Taken to Jail for Safety

Coyote Farmers Organize Lynching Party; Seek Prisoner

SAN JOSE, July 24.—Alarmed by preparations which were being made by the ranchers of the Coyote valley for breaking into the flimsy lock-up at Coyote and lynching Antone Romano, suspected of kidnaping and assaulting Alva Berry, the 12-year-old Oakland girl, early Sunday morning, Sheriff A. B. Langford today removed the prisoner to this city and placed him in the county jail. Additional guards have been placed about the prisoner to prevent any attempts upon his life by infuriated men who have sworn vengeance for the crime.

Word came to the sheriff last night that the farmers in the neighborhood of the Peppin ranch, where the crime was committed, were organizing for a lynching party. Masks were being prepared, it was said, and an attack was to be made upon the cell where the man, who had been identified by the girl as her assailant, was being confined. Wishing to forestall any such attempt, he hurriedly removed Romano to this city under heavy guard in an automobile.

The crime occurred at the ranch of E. P. Peppin, the child's grandfather, near Coyote, early yesterday morning. The girl's assailant entered the house by cutting a screen-door, bound and gagged the girl, who was attired in her night clothes, and carried her half a mile from the house, where she was attacked. She managed to crawl back to her grandfather's home and summon the family. A posse was at once organized to scour the neighboring country.

Romana, who was fishing in a creek, was promptly taken into custody. Circumstantial evidence pointed to him. The man who had cut the screen wounded himself, for there was blood on the screen. Romana's wrist was cut. The girl, on seeing him, identified him as her assailant.

He was taken to San Jose under guard to prevent lynching by the ranchers.

The victim of the assault is the daughter of Mrs. R. A. Austin, of this city. She left Oakland three weeks ago to pay a visit to her grandfather on his ranch. Romana, who is 30 years old, was employed on the Peck ranch near the Peppin place. Sheriff A. B. Langford of Santa Clara county is conducting the investigation.

Police to Investigate Automobile Smash

The police are investigating the collision at Thirteenth avenue and East Fourteenth street of two automobiles, driven by Leon Laflech, 3834 Wisconsin street, and Miss Florence McDonald, 605 Merrimac street. According to the report of witnesses. Both machines were west-bound on Fourteenth street, when Laflech drove into the rear of Miss McDonald's car. Little damage was sustained by the machines.

At first Laflech refused to give his true name, according to the police, but later gave the necessary information in a reluctant manner. Pat Farrell and James Healy, firemen, were witnesses to the accident.

UHL TRIAL GOES OVER.

The trial of Adolph Uhl, Oakland capitalist, accused of running down and killing Miss Bess Smith some months ago, was put over until tomorrow when it came up in the superior court today before Judge Trabucco. Tomorrow a jury will be chosen. Uhl was held to answer in the police court, where it was contended that he was driving at a rate of speed too fast for safety.

First Virginias, Horseless, in Wait at Border Hoping for Delayed Supplies.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., July 24.—Militia from President Wilson's own home town was no more ready to go into Mexico than any other state militia along the border.

Colonel William J. Perry of the First Virginias, whose home is in Staunton, spoke smilingly today in his tent of what he hoped would be sent him in the way of supplies. He has a machine gun company that is already to go into Mexico except that it has no machine guns.

He has twenty-five transport wagons ready. The harness is in excellent shape but he has no horses. Fewer than half his officers have mounts. The band which comes from the President's town has plenty of horns and drums, but the incinerator tins, which are used in destroying garbage, haven't arrived.

Unafraid, Party Will Brave Mountains and Desert

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—"If only women would walk more and rough it more, there would be fewer patients for the doctors. I was told that I was too sickly to rough it, but I roughed it anyhow and have been greatly benefited by the course I have adopted," was what Mrs. Bell Elliott Palmer of 807 Trolleyway, Venice, said when she spoke about a hike she and her two daughters are to take.

On September 1 Mrs. Palmer and her daughters, Betty, 14, and Bell, 12, will leave Venice to hike to Chicago.

"We expect to average twenty miles a day and will sleep outdoors only when the weather is such that we cannot do so," said Mrs. Palmer. "We will arrange our itinerary so that it will be possible for us to make our purchases of food in town on our way. When we cannot do this we will live on chocolate and crackers. I have learned that one can subsist a long while on this food.

"On all of our trips the girls wear overall suits and when I get out of civilization I wear men's trousers, much to the disgust of my husband. He is in Chicago. On the trip we will have the desert to cross and that will take three days. I can protect myself against tramps, rattlesnakes and other dangers one is liable to encounter.

"I expect that we will encounter plenty of rain, but we will be dressed for it. We will take suits along that will be simply trousers of waterproof material and large hoods and capes attached that will completely envelop us from head to foot. My husband has tried to persuade us that we should not take the hike, but we know that it will be both enjoyable and beneficial to us.

"It is three years since we came to California and since being here we have taken many long hikes. One was to San Diego and now we are getting ready to take one sixty miles to Camp Rincon and will start this week."

COMPROMISES CASE.

D. H. Wallace, suing the Southern Pacific for $50,000 damages for the death of his wife, Annie B. Wallace, who was killed by a train on June 30, 1915, today compromised the case in the superior court. The case was settled by the railroad for $750.

O., A. & E. MAN TO TAKE W. P. POSITION

J. H. Leary Resigns Post to Affiliate With New Management of Railroad.

J. H. Leary, superintendent of transportation for the Oakland, Antioch & Eastern Railway, has resigned his position with that company, to accept the position of assistant superintendent of transportation for the Western Pacific Railroad, according to announcement made today. The change will take effect on August 1.

Leary has held his present position with the Oakland, Antioch & Eastern since the road began operations about three and a half years ago. He organized the transportation department at that time and has managed it continually ever since. Before undertaking the task of placing the transportation facilities of a new road in successful competition with established rivals, he was superintendent of the Central California Traction Company, the line running between Sacramento and Stockton. Before that time, he was train despatcher for the Southern Pacific Company for several years.

In accepting the new position, Leary will remain in Oakland where he has resided since boyhood. His headquarters will be established in this city, while his duties will cover the superintendence of transportation between Oakland and Oroville.

The appointment of Leary to the position is a part of the general plan of reorganization being put into effect by Charles M. Levey, president of the new Western Pacific Railroad which purchased the Western Pacific Railway at public auction in Oakland on June 28 for $18,000,000 from the receivers.

TO ARRAIGN BELKNAP.

Harry Belknap, who is accused of stealing clothing from the room of Harry Martin, a railroad adjuster, living at the Santa Fe Hotel, will come up for preliminary examination next Friday. Arraignment on another charge of burglary will be made August 7 should the present charge fail.

DEATH CAR IS SOUGHT BY SHERIFF

Auto That Crushed Infirmary Inmate Being Traced

Supervisors Vote to Put Signs on Boulevard Near Buildings

While the supervisors made plans today to place warning signs along the boulevard opposite the County Infirmary, warning automobilists to slow down, in an effort to guard the lives of aged inmates of the hospital, the sheriff's office today threw out a dragnet for the automobilists who Saturday night ran down aged John Shoemaker, an infirmary inmate, dragged him, dying, to the edge of the boulevard, a stone's throw from the infirmary gates, and abandoned him there to die.

That the victim of the crash was living when dragged to the side of the road and abandoned is indicated from the testimony of William Zambresky, a San Leandro newspaperman. Zambresky declares that he passed the spot at about midnight, and heard what he thought was a groan at the roadside. He says he could see nothing, and fearing it to be the ruse of a holdup man did not stop. This testimony not only tends to prove that Shoemaker was living when abandoned, but that the mishap occurred before midnight.

Dr. C. A. Wills declares that the old man's skull was fractured, his chest caved in, and that he was badly mangled. A smear of blood on the road tells the story—how the speeding automobile dragged the old man's body about seven feet, and how the occupant of the car alighted, dragged the still living form to the side of the road, and then, in the very shadow of the hospital, where aid could have been given in a possible effort to save the victim's life, sped away in the darkness.

SEVERAL CLEWS.

There are several clews in the hands of Deputy Sheriffs Joe Soares and Bert Brown, detailed by Sheriff Barnet to the task of running down the automobilist, who will be vigorously prosecuted.

Shoemaker, who was 73 years old, was returning to the infirmary after spending an evening with friends. He had been with a party of friends to see the Preparedness Parade, and returned to their home near the infirmary. He was walking to the institution when the machine ended his life.

The automobile, which from the fact that it dragged the old man a considerable distance, must have been traveling at a high rate of speed, was going toward Oakland. It was a large car, judging from its tracks. A search is being made of all garages in Oakland and vicinity in an effort to locate the machine, which must have marks of the tragedy.

Shoemaker had been an inmate of the infirmary for some years. He was a cobbler, and plied his trade at the hospital. He was a native of New Jersey. Efforts are being made to locate his relatives.

ACCIDENTS ARE MANY.

Joseph Hervieu, Oakland saloon man, his wife and two daughters are recovering from painful cuts and bruises and shock today as the result of a mishap yesterday near Pleasanton, when their automobile overturned on the Hill road. They were taken to their home, 3715 West street, by passing autoists.

Edwin Graff, an Oakland contractor, is suffering from broken ribs and possible internal injuries as the result of an accident at Penngrove, near Petaluma, when the axle of his machine broke and the car went over a thirty-foot embankment. Graff's father, who was with him, was slightly injured.

Henry Vollers, a wholesale milliner of San Francisco, is in a serious condition as the result of a collision in which his motorcycle struck an automobile driven by G. H. Borland, on East Fourteenth street. He is expected to recover. He was treated at the Emergency Hospital and later moved across the bay.

Earl Donohoe, aged 19, was painfully injured on the Corbett road when his automobile struck a delivery wagon and turned over. He was hurried to San Francisco for treatment. Thomas Scott, a tailor of San Francisco, was injured near Colma when his motorcycle hit an automobile owned by William Marks of Lemon Cove.

Louis Van Ribeal, a grocer, 470 Laidley street, San Francisco, is suffering from painful injuries, the result of an accident in which his automobile, skidding, struck an embankment and somersaulted. George Garland and Edward and Joseph King, who were with him, were unhurt.

RACER JUMPS; TWO DIE.

PORTLAND, July 24.—Ulysses Aubrey, aged 22, a racing driver, and Frank Lane, mechanician, are dead as the result of an accident during the Australian Pursuit races at the speedway here yesterday, when their machine jumped the track, plunging through a fence. Five thousand people saw the accident.

TRAIN HITS AUTO.

LINDSAY, July 24.—William Jones, an electrician, aged 21, is dead, and Miss Esther Robbins, his fiancee, is seriously and perhaps fatally injured as the result of an accident yesterday when an automobile in which they were riding was struck by a Southern Pacific train at the Hermosa street crossing. Mrs. Seymour Nutt, who was driving the machine, was also injured. The view of the crossing was obstructed by orange packing sheds.

Escape of Villa Told by Nurse

Bandit Leader in Carriage Directed Forces

EL PASO, Tex., July 24.—Only by the merest chance did Francisco Villa escape capture when his column was repulsed by de facto troops in its attack upon Parral two weeks ago, according to a private letter received here today from an American in the town.

"Villa personally directed the band that attacked the city," the letter said. "He directed the operations from a carriage about a mile behind the lines. In this carriage were two women and a man. When the bandits were pushed back by the government troops they fled past the carriage, stopping only to provide the chieftain with a horse on which he made his escape. The women fled into the brush and also escaped. A moment or so later the carriage was seized by Carranzista soldiers, and the man, who proved to be a Swiss nurse, was captured. In the carriage were Villa's crutches and several rolls of bandages. The nurse said that Villa's wounds necessitate an immediate operation and complete rest for some weeks."

Traffic Squad Active With Careless Drivers

The traffic squad is arresting violators of the vehicle ordinance every day, sections 13 and 16 especially coming in for more than their share of attention. Frank Stiller, a chauffeur, and Henry Beaumiller, a merchant, were taken into custody for violation of section 13, which relates to automobiles traveling without lights. Stiller was arrested at Fifty-first and Broadway, while Beaumiller was arrested at 1321 Magnolia.

Francis M. Force, an auto repairer, was arrested at Seventh and West streets for keeping the muffler on his machine open. The enforcement of the closed muffler law is to be carried on with force, according to the police, who claim that autoists have been lax in their obedience to this section of the state vehicle act. It is also likely that motorists who insist on passing the city hall with mufflers wide open will be haled before the police judges for sentence. Judge Mortimer Smith grew wrathy in his court the while a pernicious driver drowned out court proceedings with an open muffler. His honor asked that attention of the police be called to the disregard for the law.

MEXICANS COMPLAIN OF GUARD

Carranza General Says Militiamen "Shot Up" Juarez Homes

"Unprovoked Violation of Rights," Alleged in Formal Protest

EL PASO, July 24.—General Francisco Gonzales, commandant at Juarez, formally protested today to General George Bell Jr., commanding the American forces here against the conduct of outpost guards of the Ninth Massachusetts infantry, who he said, crossed into Mexico territory yesterday morning "in violation of Mexican rights" and last night shot up "without provocation a number of homes of Mexicans south of the border."

The protest was filed through Andres Garcia, the Mexican consul, who also suggested to General Bell that regular troops used to border conditions replace guardsmen who in the main are new to soldiery and to the country at the point where the shooting occurred. This, he said, would give the people on the Mexican side a feeling of security.

The place of the shooting last night is on the Rio Grande a few miles below El Paso, at a point known as the "Island." It is no longer an island, however, but a piece of Mexico north of the river. The outposts claim that they were shot at first. But the Mexicans living opposite reported to General Gonzales that not a shot was fired from the Mexican side before the Americans began an unprovoked attack against civilians, including women and children. In his protest to General Bell, General Gonzales affirmed that no Mexican soldiers are stationed in the neighborhood of the island and that he had no information of any outlaws or smugglers being in that region. General Gonzales said that the judge of letters of the Juarez court has been assigned to make a thorough investigation of the shooting and the reported crossing of American troops.

On the report that an aeroplane believed to belong to the American punitive expedition, had been seen near La Mancha south of Torreon, General Jacinto Trevino from Chihuahua telegraphed orders to his garrisons in that region to bring it down "by any possible manner" and to capture the aviator, according to El Democrat of Chihuahua, under the date of last Saturday, copies of which arrived here today. The aeroplane was seen July 20, the paper said, and added that it appeared to be making reconnaissances.

"This the Mexican authorities can in no wise permit," it commented.

HOW THE BEST TITLES WILL WIN THE $1250 CASH GAME

An Explanation of the Way the Judges Will Name the Winning Answers

Do you know that The TRIBUNE is going to give $1250 cash to those most successful in fitting titles to pictures?

Probably you do. The thirty-five pictures will be published in the paper, one each day, and next Sunday picture No. 1 will appear. Participants will select, from the list of titles published in the paper below the pictures, the ones that fit the pictures, and those submitting the titles that fit the pictures BEST will get the $1250. First prize is $500.

But, you may ask, how will the BEST titles be designated, and who will name them?

First of all, the Picture Game Editor wants to impress upon you that these BEST titles will not be selected in advance, but that they will be designated impartially after all the sets of answers have been submitted, and designated by a committee of judges, whose integrity, ability, keen, discriminating judgment and special fitness for the task will make their decisions incontestable. The judges will all be eminent men.

In drawing the pictures the list of titles is consulted (this list will be published in full in the paper, at the rate of about seventy-five titles per day) and each picture is drawn to represent some title in the list. But that title doesn't stand as the "correct" title, or anything of that kind. The identity of the title is kept a secret, of course, but the point is that this title has no standing, and never will have any, as a winning title, or a best title, or anything else. It will take its chances with all other titles in the list submitted for that picture by participants and the judges will not know what title the picture originally was drawn to represent.

When all sets are in, The TRIBUNE will check them over and list the different titles submitted by all participants for each picture. This list will then be placed before the judges, and they will meet in continuous conferences until they have designated what is the BEST title for each picture. Or it may be that for some picture they may designate two titles (or possibly more) as being best for it—deciding that no choice could be made between them. The judges will consider all the different titles submitted for the pictures, and they will not know, or care, what titles the pictures originally were drawn to represent.

So look through the published lists of titles for the titles that fit the pictures BEST, and those submitting the largest number of BEST titles for the pictures will get the $1250 cash. There is no luck or chance in this game, you see. It will be decided by common sense alone, and every person playing will have, because of the titles offered freely to all, an equal opportunity to win one of the prizes. YOU can win—get picture No. 1 Sunday without fail. It's YOUR GREAT OPPORTUNITY to acquire a big cash capital, by amusing yourself at home playing a TUNITY game.

Plan Helps Men to Dress Better

That their plan of selling clothes meets with approval is evidenced by the hundreds who each month take advantage of the liberal credit terms offered by the Peerless Tailors at 537 Twelfth street, between Washington and Clay. Their method is simply this: They will sell any suit in their stock or make a suit to order from the hundreds of patterns displayed, on a very small payment down and the balance on terms of only $1 a week.

Suits may be had for as low as $15. Women's suits are made to order on the same liberal terms.

The Peerless Tailors also operate a store at 39 Fifth street, San Francisco.—Advertisement.

The Reason for Double Vision Glasses

Optical science has made many forward strides during the past twenty-five years, but no achievement has been so wonderful as the perfecting of the newly patented "Caltex Onepiece" Bifocals. These remarkable lenses are ground from a single piece of perfect optical glass particularly selected for "Caltex Onepiece" Bifocals. Reading and distance corrections are combined in one lens, making it unnecessary to wear two pairs of glasses. Think of the time saved—the convenience and comfort of wearing "Caltex Onepiece" glasses. These are the most perfect double vision lenses made in the world. Substitute are being offered, so remember the name and insist upon "Caltex." Made at the three establishments of the California Optical Co., 1221 Broadway, Oakland; 181 Post St. and 2508 Mission St., San Francisco.—Advertisement.

ANGELS SOAR TO FIRST PLACE WITH SPLIT SUNDAY GAME

Beer Beats Southrons in Morning Game, But Oaks Lose in Afternoon.

LOS ANGELES, July 24. — Los Angeles resumed its place at the head of the percentage column after being forced back to second place Saturday by Vernon by breaking even in the double-header here yesterday with Oakland. Oakland won the morning contest, 7 to 1, and the Angels the afternoon, 6 to 2.

The Oaks hit both Scoggins and Kahler hard in the forenoon game at Vernon, while Beer allowed the Angels but four scattered hits. In the second game Los Angeles had a 3 to 0 lead when the eighth inning opened, when they hit Burns for three more tallies. Oakland made their two runs in this inning by a double by Kenworthy. Reading the Green

Both Salt Lake and Portland put up Garrison finishes, but the Beavers had the hardest punch and won.

After Bunny Brief of Utah had tied the score with a homer in the eighth, Speas of the Ducks poked out a twin-sacker in the ninth that made the count 9 to 8. There it stayed.

San Francisco shoved Vernon out of first place by beating the Bengals twice. Erickson held the Tigers to three safeties in the ante-meridian.

Heavers of both factions were roughly handled in the second set-to, but San Francisco clustered its whacks in the seventh and sent across the winning tally. Score 6 to 5.

Oakland broke even with Los Angeles. Beer had the Seraphs helpless all morning.

Burns in the afternoon yielded three runs in the eighth, giving Los Angeles a six-ace lead. Kenworthy made the Oaks' only scores with a double that tallied two.

Yesterday's big league hero was Mordecai Brown. The three-fingered wizard of yesteryear "came back" and to the cheers of 20,000 Chicago bugs, beat the Giants. The miner didn't do anything startling, but the very fact that he trimmed the Giants made him one of the world's great men with the Cub fans.

The Browns whipped Cleveland when they jammed over three runs in the tenth inning. Each side played errorless ball.

Rousch, who went to the Reds almost unnoticed in the Mathewson-Herzog deal, got two triples and a single in four times up, but his teammates failed to deliver and lost to the Phillies, 8 to 1.

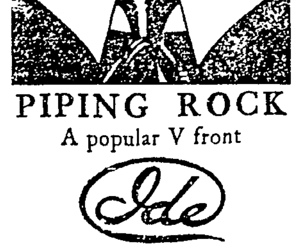

Thirty-five hits were made off the nine pitchers used in the White Sox-Detroit game.

INJURY HELPS "JIMMY" ARCHER.

Though "Jimmy" Archer has been put out with a crippled hand, he says the blow he got has effected a cure. For years he has had a stiff finger on his throwing hand. Now he finds he can bend it, and he hopes to be better than ever when his injury is healed.

BYFORD AND LOCKHORN WIN.

KANSAS CITY, July 23.—Heath Byford, Chicago, and Clifford J. Lockhorn, Kansas City, won the double title of the Great Plains tennis tournament today by defeating Jerry and James Weber of Chicago, 6-4, 6-5, 6-3, 7-5.

SEALS GET BACK INTO GOOD GRACE WITH DOUBLE WIN

Tumble Tigers Out of First Place and Gain on Both Leaders.

By winning both games from Vernon, the Seals yesterday redeemed themselves in the eyes of their supporters and crawled within striking distance of the leaders. In the morning game in this city, Erickson held the Southerners to three scattered hits and blanked them, 4-0. In the afternoon free-for-all, the Seals just did manage to nose out the enemy, 6-5, though they got six more safe hits than their opponents. As usual, both Wolverton and Patterson were compelled to use nearly their entire staff of twirlers. Baum, Steen and "Curly" Brown worked for the home club, while Patterson employed Quin, Fromme, Hess and Mitchell.

With the score tied up in the seventh, Downs made the circuit with the winning run on a single and two successive hits by Schaller and Jones. In the ninth, Brown gave his supporters heart failure by walking Callahan and Whaling with two out. Manager Patterson undertook to be the hero at this juncture by pinch-hitting for Mitchell, with the result that he grounded to Autrey for the closing out. The score:

PITCHERS HOLDING LEAGUE LEADERS AT TOP OF HEAP

Vernon and Los Angeles Twirlers Are Going Like Wildfire.

Besides hogging the won and lost column, the South is also taking the limelight in the pitching records. Vernon and Los Angeles pitchers are going like wildfire, with Decannier of the Tigers leading with 9 won and 3 lost, and Ryan of Los Angeles a good second. Ryan, however is the hardest worked of the two, having won 15 and lost 6. Noyes of Portland, Fittery of Salt Lake and Martin of Oakland are the only outsiders that deserve places among the leaders. Besides Martin, Crandall is the only Oak with more than a fifty-fifty pitching record. Crandall has won 5 and lost 3. Prough comes next among locals with 10 won and 12 lost.

NESS HERO OF WILD CONTEST WINS FOR SOX WITH FIVE HITS

JACK NESS, FORMER OAK, WHO STARRED IN CHICAGO'S VICTORY YESTERDAY BY GETTING TWO SINGLES, TWO DOUBLES AND A TRIPLE IN SIX TIMES AT BAT.

DETROIT, July 24.—Chicago defeated Detroit 12 to 9 today in the wildest, wierdest game played here in a decade. Chicago made twenty hits and used five twirlers. Ness was the star slugger with two singles, two doubles and a triple in six times at bat.

The teams arriving from the East this afternoon reached the ball park one hour late and then battled for two hours and forty-seven minutes under a broiling sun. Close decisions were numerous. Manager Jennings was put off the field for disputing a decision and at the close of the game Umpire Nallin narrowly escaped being mobbed. With two out in the ninth and two men on base, Bush sent up a high foul. Schalk crashed against the stand, caught the ball, doubled up and then regained his footing. Umpire Nallin allow the put-out and thousands of persons swarmed on the diamond. Nallin was escorted to the club house by Detroit and Chicago players.

Cobb was not able to play his regular position. A torn finger, sustained in Boston, was responsible.

The White Sox scored their winning runs in the eighth inning on successive hits by Collins, Jackson, Ness and Felsch.

THE SPORTING MIRROR

Pertinent Comment and Gossip

Gilmour Dobie, of the University of Washington football team, is the first of the coaches to open the new season with a "hard luck" story which become so plentiful as the season progresses and which nowadays always are taken with liberal applications of salt. Dobie is radiating gloom, and the source is the Mexican situation, President Wilson, Carranza and Villa, all of which he feels are conspiring to break his wonderful record of nine seasons of unbroken victory on the gridiron.

With the call of the National Guard for border duty, four of seven of last season's veterans joined the colors as well as three of his best second string men on whom he counted to fill up the gaps made by graduation. These men are Murphy, Grimm, McKechnie, Legg, Waring, Hardie and Boyle.

"I am not certain what proportions of our opponents' teams have gone out with the guard," said the coach, "and the situation may be better in September. However we are confronted with a difficult schedule at the best, and in the present circumstances I have no high hopes."

Rival coaches smile knowingly. Similar wails have been emitted by Dobie during the past nine years, during which time his teams have yet to feel the sting of defeat.

In the other hand, preliminary reports from the University of Oregon, at Eugene, and the University of Southern California are more outimistic. According to A. R. Tiffany, graduate manager for Oregon, only one of last year's regulars, lost through graduation, will be missing in this year's lineup. With the exception of "Big Jim" Cessman, the line will be intact from end to end. Coach Besdek has several second string men who already have won their block letters, ready to step into any breaches that may occur.

Pro-season training camps have been put under the ban by conference rules and the Oregon squad therefore will not get into its playing togs before September 11, the opening day of college. The first game is scheduled with Willamette, at Eugene, on October 7.

Graduate Manager Warren Bovard of the University of Southern California is completing his playing schedule which he expects to announce shortly. With Fred Kelly, Howard Drew, Jerry Craig and Phil Murray, the southerners believe that they will have the fastest backfield on the Pacific Coast, if not in the country. Every man is capable of 10:2 or better in the hundred yards.

Followers of track athletics at the University of California were jubilant at the news that Frank Sloman, the San Francisco Polytechnic high school boy champion athlete, had changed his mind about entering the University of Pennsylvania and has applied for admission to the state institution at Berkeley.

Sloman is the holder of the scholastic record of the United States for the quarter-mile run and he is looked upon by many experts as a formidable contender for the world's honor in the event which now is held by Ted Meredith, the greatest track athlete ever turned out by the University of Pennsylvania.

Sloman became nationally known last year at the exposition championships. Trained by Frank Foster of the Olympic Club and running under its colors, Sloman stepped down a quarter mile straightaway in 48 1-5 seconds, a mark which bettered by three-fifths of a second that set by Meredith during his last year at school.

While Sloman will be barred from varsity competition for a year by the Freshman eligibility rule, under the guidance of Coach Walter Christie of the University of California, the San Francisco boy will be carefully groomed and developed. He will be eligible, however, to compete in all freshman meets. Sloman will take a course of study in journalism.

Dr. D. C. Hall, head of the physical education department of the University of Washington, is quoted as saying that "unless a person can swim, he should never go canoeing." He then gives some important "safety first" suggestions in case of accident, which are particularly timely in view of the present vacation season. They are as follows:

"The accidents occur usually in one of two ways, either by changing places in the canoe, or while getting into or out of the canoe. The craft often is capsized by taking the waves in the wrong way. The right way is to cut across them diagonally. If whitecaps are visible, do not attempt the open water, but stay close to shore.

"When the canoe is overturned, the persons in it should seize the canoe immediately and hang on with arms hooked across it. Even for expert swimmers, this is the best way, especially where the water is cold. No attempt should be made to change places in a canoe until the canoe is beached."

The University of Washington has a definite set of regulations governing canoeing.

Numerous long distance swimmers already have signified their intention of entering the third annual Marathon swim, which will be held by the Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club over a three-mile course on the Willamette river at Portland, Ore., in August. The flooded condition of the river has delayed the setting of a definite date for the event, but it is practically certain that it will be held on either August 12 or August 19.

The Marathon each year attracts hundreds of swimmers, both men and women, prizes being given to the winners of each sex. The winner of the previous races was Norman Ross of San Francisco, where he is swimming under Olympic Club colors.

National Egg Contest Sets New June Record

The fifth national egg-laying contest at Mountain Grove, Mo., composed of 104 pens of five hens each, laid 8748 eggs during June, which was an average of 17 eggs plus per hen. This is the highest record made in any of the contests for this month. The average number of eggs laid by hens in the five contests for June are as follows: First, 15 eggs per hen; second, 16 eggs; third, 16 eggs; fourth, 12 eggs, and fifth, 17 eggs.

Of the seven pens occupying the five highest places for June, there was a difference of only five eggs, showing that the race was very close.

Pens occupying the five highest places for June are as follows:

Pen 25, single-comb White Leghorns, Washington, 119 eggs; pen 73, White Plymouth Rocks, North Dakota, 118; pen 18, single-comb White Leghorns, Kentucky, 117 (tie); pen 27, single-comb White Leghorns, Missouri, 117 (tie); pen 69, Barred Rocks, Missouri, 115 (tie); pen 102, Oregons, Oregon, 115 (tie); pen 13, single-comb White Leghorns, Illinois, 114.

Of the seven hens occupying the five highest places for eight months, three are Rocks, three are Leghorns and one is a Red. They are as follows:

Hen 4, pen 75, White Rock, Washington, 191 eggs; hen 6, pen 75, White Rock, Washington, 189; hen 3, pen 25, single-comb White Leghorn, Washington, 186; hen 5, pen 6, single-comb White Leghorn, New Jersey, 180 (tie); hen 1, pen 69, Barred Rock, Missouri, 180 (tie); hen 2, pen 25, single-comb White Leghorn, Washington, 177; hen 5, pen 59, Rhode Island Reds, Missouri, 176.

Pen 69, Barred Plymouth Rocks, have produced 16 eggs per hen in eight months.

TRAINING OF FIGHTERS BECOMING A LOST ART

Financiers Are More in Demand Now Than the Trained Conditioners

To one who has made a life-time study of the boxing game and many other branches of American sport, it seems that the modern system of handling athletes deserves much adverse criticism. Trainers of the present day too often handicap, rather than assist their athletes in rounding into shape for competent struggle in various fields. Of course there are a few exceptions. In the first place there are many mistakes made in regarding the so-called conditioners "trainers."

To state the plain fact, there are many trainers who are no more qualified to act in that capacity than is a bat boy fit to handle a major league team. There was never a greater mistake made than calling men trainers who are merely rubbers.

In the days of Parker, Corbett, McGovern, Sullivan and many others, there were fighters rather than financiers. And then, as now, a high class trainer was able to place a price on his services as he was regarded in the same light as a trainer of a turf favorite who gets the derby candidates in shape. But when a man wanted a rubber, all he needed to do was to raise his voice and it required the reserve force of coppers to keep the army back.

TEMPERAMENT OF MAN IMPORTANT

The trainer should know his man as well as he does himself. He must know all about his eating, temperature, sleeping and all the little upsets that overtake an athlete while in training. These facts must be as plain to him as the printed page of a book.

Many trainers of today are taken from menial positions of a boxing camp. Some are ex-cooks, waiters, errand boys and general roustabouts. More often they are just plain rubbers, who are strong in the shoulders and have two movements of the elbow to every one of the head.

Weight making is a bugaboo to these present trainers. We will say, for instance, that a boy has to make a certain notch that requires him to lose many night's sleep. This means the trainer must stay up and awake while the boy is reducing. How will these so-called trainers get their men to weight without doing anything antagonistic to the athlete? Instead of aiding nature, they take a rap at Dame Nature's solar plexus.

There are many times when Kid So-and-So weighs 142 and 150 pounds when he is supposed to be a member of the 133-pound crew.

Why, if the present fighter had to make that weight he would yell his head off. Look at Young Corbett and Jack McAuliffe, two champions coming down to 126 pounds and 133 pounds from around 160 and 170 pounds. One a featherweight champion and the other a retired lightweight champion.

Look over men like Charles McKeever, Owen Ziegler, Kid Parker and many others of the real fighters of olden times. They would take off 15 or 20 pounds for a fight with ease and be strong when the end of the battle rolled round. The reason why the men could do this in the old days was because they had real trainers, men of ability, instead of cooks and rubbers.

OLD-TIME TRAINER BIG HELP.

In the days of old the trainer was a big help to the fighter in the corner. He knew the boxing game, he knew attack and defense and he knew his man's shortcomings as well as his ability. He made a close study of the style of man opposed to his charge and his advice was well worth heeding.

Handling a man in a corner today is almost a lost art. There is seldom any system nowadays in the corner. There is generally a bunch of hollering men who act like a lot of wolves mad with hunger. How many men would know how to stop a cut over the eye from bleeding without the use of strong and dangerous medicines that might blind a fighter or lose a title?

Many times there are about a half dozen so-called seconds in a fighter's corner, one giving him a bottle, another a piece of orange, still another giving his legs a massage in an unnatural position, and all this is supposed to happen in one minute's rest. For this kind of a minute of rest it is 60 seconds of real abuse.

Only boxers of class are given recognition by the boxing clubs. Consequently a boxer at all times tries for improvement. The same should go with trainers and to make them prove their fitness and develop a class of handlers worthy of the name.

OAKS SIGN HARWOOD.

Depending upon the turn of affairs in regard to the disposition of Elliott to some Eastern club, Catcher Harwood has been engaged by the Oaks. Harwood was with the Seals early in the season, and has since been in the Trolley League. "Rowdy" called him in from Sacramento yesterday for a conference, and in case the acting Oak manager decides to go East, he will leave Harwood with the locals as second string catcher.

VIM WINS CRUISER TITLE OF BAY

The Vim, C. L. Mathewson's cruiser, captured the championship of San Francisco bay yesterday in the Pacific Power Boat Association's races at the foot of Nineteenth avenue. The Vim took first place in the cruiser competition with 28 points against 28 for the Hoot Mon.

A large crowd viewed the race, and were given a special treat when Carlton Miller's hydroplane the Del H., put on speed of over 30 miles per hour over the course.

The cruiser race was decided in three heats on the point system. In the second heat nine boats crossed the line within a minute, and in the third heat five finished within ten seconds.

The first heat was run on a time allowance, and performances were accepted as basis for the succeeding heats. The time prize was won by Frank B. Adams' Lenore, which had an aggregate of 7 hour and 25 minutes and 20 seconds, with Frank Garden's Prowler II second with 1:34:35.

The boats were awarded places on points as follows: 1 Vim, 29; 2 Hoot Mon, 28; 3 Kestral, 25; and Lorelei, 25; 5 Leonore, 24; 6 Bernedette, 24; 7 Native II, 21; 8 Myrno, 16; 9 Prowler II, 15; 10 Moana, 14; 11 Jeanne II, 13.

HINTS FOR AUTO OWNERS

Motoring Department, The TRIBUNE—Will you please inform me if the carburetor adjustment is affected by different altitudes? I am told that a motorist going from the coast to the Sierras found it necessary to readjust the carburetor considerably to meet the conditions brought about by the change of altitude. What would cause such conditions?
W. K.

The atmospheric pressure is less at high altitudes than at low; therefore, the suction of the motor would be weakened at high altitudes, changing the balance between the primary air current and the auxiliary air current. The tension on the auxiliary air valve spring would have to be changed a little to meet the new conditions. A carburetor with a water jacket would need less adjustment than one without, and one without an auxiliary air inlet would probably need no readjustment at all.

IT'S THE FAD TO "ROLL YOUR OWN" CIGARETTES!

Smart Smokers Everywhere Are Rolling "Bull" Durham Into Fresh, Fragrant Cigarettes—Most Enjoyable of Smokes

Fashion for smokers decrees that if you would be smart and up-to-date you must supply yourself with "the makings" and "roll your own" cigarettes.

"The makings" consist of "Bull" Durham tobacco and a book of "papers". When you have poured a little "Bull" Durham into a "paper" and shaped it to your liking, you are ready to enjoy the cigarette that connoisseurs say is the most enjoyable smoke in the world — fresh, fragrant, mild and sweet.

It's an easy matter to learn to "roll your own" with "Bull" Durham. There's a knack to it — that's all. Any man can master the art after a few trials. And to make it easier, the manufacturers of "Bull" Durham, Durham N. C., will mail free to any address in the United States on request an illustrated booklet showing the correct way to roll your cigarettes.

Del Howard Arranging With Chicago Cubs for Elliott's Transfer

Another Time-Honored Institution, the Pop-Bottle, Is to Be Banished From Field

PERCY AND FERDIE---The Headwaiter Had Great Expectations, But---!! - By H. A. MacGILL

LAST OF PLAYING PILOTS GOES FROM COAST LEAGUE

Elliott's Passing Another Illustration That Two Jobs Are Too Much for One Man

With the passing of "Childe" Harold Elliott as manager of the Oaks, the last of the playing managers will have departed from the Pacific Coast League arena. Conditions are against the chance of success when any player tried to hold down the job of leader as well.

History will, however, show several instances that prove the combination is not impossible. Back in 1911 and 1912, H. Sterling Wolverton performed this difficult stunt daily and as the pilot of the Oakland club, too. If we remember correctly, one Frank Dillon led the baseball outfit commonly known as the Angels to two pennants and held down first base and batted close to .300 at the same time. Walter McCredie, too, managed the Portland Beavers and played in the right field garden not so many years ago. We can point to a few in the big leagues, too. There was Frank Chance, who first-based for the Cubs; Fred Clarke, Pirates; Joe Tinker, Chifeds, and Muggsy McGraw, of the old Baltimore Orioles, who got away with the dual responsibility without winding up in a nut ranch. But getting down to cruel facts, we can pick out a lot more who did not succeed in this double shift job.

However, McGraw, Chance, Wolverton, et al. who did succeed, were men of iron mold to start with and were fortunate in having gathered about them men of superior merit and fighting qualities.

NO MORE PEPPER CAN.

Then, too, there formerly existed an esprit de corps which is sadly wanting now. In the old days players supported their leaders and stood for "calls" from him that would make them rear up and quit their clubs today. In these times the playing manager who undertakes to reprove his men for errors is apt to have a list of averages showing his own performances and mistakes thrust under his nose.

The bench manager is subject to no such handicap and rules his men in much the same manner as a factory superintendent does his employes. If the men don't deliver the high average of performance he desires, they go; nor can they come back with the retort that he is benching a better man to make a place for himself, a little saying which was voiced not so long ago.

The only playing manager possible is one whose box score is perfect. Naturally, he doesn't exist.

Being a playing manager has several other disadvantages. If you don't believe so, ask H. Elliott yourself. Rowdy, when Happy Hogan was letting him act as the first string receiver for the Vernon club, played like a Jimmy Archer-Bresnahan-Schalk style combined. He batted like a phiend, tagged the globule to all corners of the different fields around the circuit and in general was the best backstopping person in 91 Baum's class AA league.

But times have changed. Elliott, a manager for half of last season, didn't catch as brilliant a brand of ball as he did when only a player. There was something else on his brain and it goes without saying that it impaired his work behind the log. That was evidenced this year, too, though in reality, Elliott, under the circumstances which governed the occasion, caught a real plucky game of ball for the lowly Oaks.

Just the other day, one Bucko Herzog left a town in Ohio named Cincinnati for Gotham. With him went just another proof that playing real baseball and managing a club is impossible. Bucko is now going to draw his bi-monthly pay check from J. J. McGraw via Owner Hempstead of the Giants. Just watch how speedily his batting average and fielding average will climb.

Yep, player-managers seem a thing of the past. Not only does this feature militate against the active leader, but the responsibility of simultaneously holding down a man's job as player, and a superman's job as boss of a weak pennant prospect is too much for one nervous system in these trying times of big investments and impatient capitalists.

Duffy Lewis the hitting pride of Alameda and of Boston town as well, bewails the fact that Tristram Speaker, now of Cleveland, has left the Red Sox. In a letter to Jake Croter, popular local baseball umpire and enthusiast, Lewis states that "if we had Tris with us now we would have a percentage of nearly .750." "I know for a certainty, continued Duffy, "that so far this season eight games have been lost to us, simply because Speaker was not with us. Of course, this Walker is playing a nice game of ball, but if Speaker was in his place throughout the season grind we would have a big lead. Add eight victories to our number and subtract that many defeats and you will see how high we would stand."

Lewis also states that the pitchers alone are keeping the club up in the race. Leonard, Foster, Shore and the rest are going great guns. The Sox have as good a chance for the pennant as the Yanks or Cleveland, says Lewis and will win it even without Speaker. "We have the pitchers and that counts largely in the closing months of the season."

Down in Nashville, Tennessee, not so many years ago, Rowdy Elliott was a catcher. In those days Harold's front moniker, which appertains to anything but being a gentleman, surely fitted him. He was a "rowdy" ball player from his toes up and he let nothing get by him in that Southern league.

Also, Elliott, then, was far from being a teetotaler. Probabilities are that if a prohibition sign was hung up anywhere in Nashville, Rowdy would have knocked it into smithereens with his bat.

So it was not a bit surprising to the local management when they received a telegram from President Weeghman of the Chicago Cubs with the following words: "We don't want Elliott if he is the same Elliott who was with Nashville." However, he's the same, yet very different. Rowdy hasn't touched a drop of anything for almost a year. He is a far better catcher than he was when with Nashville and we will write out a ticket any time to wager that he is as good as two-thirds of the catchers in the majors.

The Oaks won their fourth series of the season by trouncing the Angels last week. Apparently the boys are playing for their jobs, realizing that Del Howard is even now scanning the box scores closely and figuring on the changes he believes necessary. Howard to arrive in Oakland Thursday in time to see the game here, and he will probably take control of the club a week from today.

Harold Elliott is due to be seen in a Chicago Cub uniform. A telegram from Del Howard announced that the latter was negotiating with the Cubs for the transfer of the former Oakland boss, and this is taken to mean that Rowdy told Howard he would prefer to go to the majors rather than remain with the Oaks, a decision for which we can hardly blame him.

This is Pioneers' Day at Salt Lake, and the Beavers and Bees remain over for a double-header.

HAWAIIAN SWIMMERS BETTER 3 MARKS

HONOLULU, T. H., July 24. — Honolulu swimmers today have three new world's records to their credit, according to officials who timed an exhibition meet in the Young Men's Christian Association tank here Saturday night. Duke Kahanamoku made the first of the new marks when he negotiated the 100-yard dash in a 20-yard tank in 53 3-5 seconds, shattering his old record of 54 2-5. Another of the new records was made in the 500-yard relay event when a team comprised of Kahanamoku, George Cunha, C. Lane, H. Kruger and J. Kelli covered the distance in 4:43 3-5. The first four names also hung up a new time when they made the 400-yard relay in 3:14 4-5.

Both the relay records broken were held by the Illinois Athletic Club, whose teams made the marks of 5:09 3-5 in the 500-yard event and 3:45 3-5 in the shorter distance.

ORTEGA-JONES BOUT LOOKS GREAT TO FANS

Slam-Bang Mixers Ready to Fight for Bout With Ritchie

Battling Ortega and Frankie Jones, slam-bang mixers, are both getting down to hard work in preparation for their bout at the West Oakland Club Wednesday night. With the opportunity of going East to make a bid for higher honors in front of each lad, both Ortega and Jones are going to fight their hardest Wednesday night and they are leaving nothing undone in their training work. Ortega worked out at the West Oakland Club yesterday.

In his last bout, that with Rufus Williams, whom he stowed away in less than three rounds, the Mexican pummeler was a bit fat, due mainly to the fact that he had not engaged in a real bout in two months. Against Williams, Ortega weighed nearly 155 pounds, but he will weigh at about 148 when the bell sounds to send him and Jones on in their tilt. Ortega boxed several rounds with his sparring partners yesterday, besides punching the bag and shadow boxing.

Training is one of the Battler's main points. Through this alone he has achieved such success with the stuffed gloves. As you all know, Ortega, from the first round to the last, fights like a Twentieth Century Limited train travels—faster, faster and faster as the bout progresses. It is his condition and wonderful amount of stamina and reserve power that allows Ortega to do this.

In his past bouts, Ortega has invariably allowed his opponents to outbox him in the first round. In the second round he commences feeling out his antagonist, measuring him with his favorite blows and trying to gain advantage of his opponent's openings. Towards the end of the second round, however, the Battler seems to be getting started and when he comes up for the third, every fan in the house edges forward in his seat and sticks out his neck as far as he can so to get a better glimpse of the flying Mexican.

If his opponent survives the third round, there is usually plenty of excitement when the final session comes around. Here the Battler is fighting at his best. He hooks, jabs, swings, jolts and does everything to his opponent that is legitimate under the Marquis of Queensberry rules. There is no let up to his punches, his swings are forceful and carry a dreadful kick with them, and the faster he dances around his opponent, the more punches he throws. Saying it slightly, Battling Ortega is a veritable cyclone for action. If a moniker ever did fit a pugilists's style of milling, "battling" fits Ortega.

If Ortega gets by Jones as he did in his last fight, a big match will await him. It will be with Willie Ritchie, ex-lightweight champion of the world and now a full-fledged welterweight. Ortega has offered to make 145 pounds at 6 o'clock for Willie and if the latter cares to stop a few of the Battler's punches, he can sign to meet Ortega at any time.

Jones is eager for a crack at Ritchie, too. Frankie fought Bob McAllister to a draw and he thinks that he can easily hold his own with Ritchie.

Billy Alveris' victory over Jimmy Ford last Friday night will probably end the long fued which the North Beach idol and Alveris have engaged in. Ford and Alveris have fought no less than eight times. Three times they have faced the music on this side of the bay. The first bout between the pair was at the Wheelmen club over a year ago. This tilt was won by Alveris. The bout was a lively one all the way and they were soon rematched. This started a long list of draw battles and six times in succession they engaged in draw mixups.

Friday night, the pair meet again, Alveris beating Ford from bell to bell. However, Referee Billy Snailham, favoring the home talent, which is not unusual on the other side of the bay, forgot himself and called the bout a draw again. Probabilities are that he was thinking of the seven other draw bouts that they have fought.

Alveris meets Harry Pelsinger from San Francisco, Wednesday night. Pelsinger, too, has had a hard time with this Ford person. In their first go, Pelsinger and Ford engaged in as exciting a mixup as any staged across the bay. Pelsinger had a good shade, but Jim Griffin gave Ford the verdict. This brought a noisy protest from the fans and they were rematched, Pelsinger proving his superiority by taking the decision.

HIGGINBOTHAM WINS HIS FIRST GAME

The many friend of Irve Higginbotham will be glad to know that the former Beaver and Oak veteran got away to a good start in the Western league.

Pitching in the first game of a double-header for Des Moines against Wichita last Sunday afternoon, Hig won his game, 3 to 2.

The game was played at Des Moines and Irve held his opponents to five hits. Three of these were bunched, which produced both of Wichita's runs.

Opposed to Higginbotham on the mound was "Izzy" Kauffman, who is a former Northwestern league star. He was touched up for 11 safe hits, but kept the majority of them well scattered.

Higginbotham ought to be able to be one of the leading flingers in Class A society. While he was undoubtedly slipping, which caused his release by Oakland, after the purchase from Portland, Higginbotham is still capable of getting by against the class of batters the Western league contains.

BOWEL COMPLAINTS IN INDIA.

In a lecture at one of the Des Moines, Iowa, churches a missionary from India told of going into the interior of India, where he was taken sick; that he had a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with him and believed that it saved his life. This remedy is used successfully in India both as a preventive and cure for cholera. You may know from this that it can be depended upon for the milder forms of bowel complaint that occur in this country. For sale by Osgood Bros. Drug Stores.—Advertisement.

ORTEGA OFFERED GO WITH FERNS

Tommy Simpson, manager of Battling Ortega, the fighting Mexican, who tackles Frankie Jones at West Oakland Wednesday night, received a telegram last night from a Kansas City boxing club promoter which contained the following words:

"Have date for Ortega. Can get Wildcat Ferns for him on August 30, Wednesday night. Two round-trip tickets. Will sign with you for two matches. Wire Ortega's lowest weight."

Simpson is holding the answer until Wednesday night, when his battler meets Jones. "I am surely going East with Ortega," stated Tommy, and that August date looks good to me. I have been promised matches by Denver, Salt Lake and Ogden promoters. If Ortega gets by Ferns at first, which I am sure he will, we will be assured of plenty of matches."

Ferns is a veteran welter, and is one of the leading biffers of the Middle West. Mike Gibbons is the only man who ever knocked him out. He turned the trick in New Orleans in 1913. Ferns is a legitimate welterweight.

PORTLAND TENNIS PLAY TO START TODAY

PORTLAND, Ore., July 24. — Tennis players from Washington, Oregon and California were matched to play in the opening rounds here today of the annual Oregon state tennis championship. Finals will not be reached until the end of the week.

The tournament will develop a new champion in the men's singles as H. Van Dyke Johns, of San Francisco, the present title holder, will not be here to defend his title. In the women's singles several good players are entered and some close contests are looked for in the semi-finals. The winner of the semi-finals will meet Miss Livingston, of Seattle, the present champion.

Although the National Lawn Tennis Association awarded the tournament as it has for some years past, to the Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club, the club out of courtesy to the Waverly Country Club is allowing the games to be played on the latter's courts.

FRANCES COWELLS AND GOODMAN ENTER

That swimming fans will be treated to a high class brand of swimming at the Piedmont Athletic club's meet on August 19 was assured today when Sandy Goodman, the Pacific Association champion over the 50 yards and Miss Frances, the coast 50 yard woman swimming champion, sent in their entries. These two should furnish rare competition for the local aquatic stars, and fine sport for the spectators.

The Olympic club will enter a team in the meet, a very gracious deed in view of the fact that they will swim against the locals at San Diego in September for the coast championship.

George Lineer, president of the new Surf Beach club, will send a full team from Alameda to enter the meet, and a water polo team for the evening's entertainment.

POP BOTTLE BLOW MAY KILL UMPIRE

TOLEDO, O., July 24. — Umpire Johnson was seriously hurt yesterday at the Toledo-St. Paul baseball game by being struck on the head by a pop bottle. He is unconscious at Robinson Hospital.

Several suspects were arrested. A shower of bottles came from the stand when Johnson called a Toledo player out on strikes.

LIGHTSHIP YACHT RACE OFF.

On account of lack of entries for the lightship race, which was to be held yesterday under the auspices of the San Francisco Yacht Club, the event was called off. Only one yacht, C. E. Miller's Alert, was ready for the ocean trip, and as her owner wasn't on board, the regatta committee disqualified the boat.

HOCKEY OFFICIALS SELECTED.

The Caledonian club and the Canadian club hockey team managers selected a referee last night for their Ice Palace clash tomorrow evening. T. H. Judge of the Olympic club will act. Fred Van Sicklen and W. Tevis will be judges of play, with Edward H. Sinclair and Joseph S. Lewis umpires.

POP BOTTLES TO BE BANISHED

TOLEDO, July 24.—The assault on Umpire George Johnston at the local American Association park yesterday will result in the elimination of the pop bottle, according to plans underway by Manager Bresnahan and other stockholders of the club, it was announced last night. A paper substitute will be used, it was said.

Johnston was knocked unconscious by one of fifty or more bottles thrown from the stands when the spectators were dissatisfied with a decision which meant defeat for the home club. The arbitor left the hospital this morning with several stitches in the back of his head where the missile found its mark.

TWIN PEAKS PARLOR VICTORS.

Twin Peaks Parlor, N. S. G. W., defeated the Niantic Parlor, N. S. G. W., yesterday at the Fourth and Bluxome grounds, 7 to 2. The batteries were: Thenero and Anderson; H. Steffens and J. Steffens.

FAST HOCKEY GAME IS BOOKED AT TECHAU TOMORROW

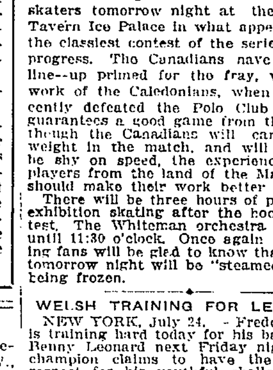

The Caledonian Club hockey team will be matched against the Canadian Club skaters tomorrow night at the Techau Tavern Ice Palace in what appears to be the classiest contest of the series now in progress. The Canadians have a star line-up primed for the fray, while the work of the Caledonians, when they recently defeated the Polo Club players, guarantees a good game from them. Although the Canadians will carry more weight in the match, and will probably be shy on speed, the experience of the players from the land of the Maple Leaf should make their work better balanced.

There will be three hours of public and exhibition skating after the hockey contest. The Whiteman orchestra will play until 11:30 o'clock. Once again the skating fans will be glad to know that the ice tomorrow night will be "steamed" before being frozen.

WELSH TRAINING FOR LEONARD.

NEW YORK, July 24. - Freddie Welsh is training hard today for his battle with Benny Leonard next Friday night. The champion claims to have the greatest respect for his youthful challenger and is down at Douglaston, L. I., making up for the brief spell in training he took after his bout with Charley White was called off.

SUPERVISORS TO AID STREET PAVING

Opinion Given Board That Funds of County Can Pay for San Pablo Job.

Assistance to the families of Alameda county soldiers who are on duty on the Mexican border has been proffered by the State Board of Control in a communication to the Board of Supervisors received today.

While the communication states that there is no fund from which direct aid may be given, the services of the Children's Bureau, which is under the supervision of Miss Amy D. Steinhart, special agent, may be used for the investigation of cases and in establishing depots and an organization through which supplies may be distributed.

Information is asked as to what steps have been taken in Alameda county toward financing relief, it being pointed out that of the 767 married men on duty with the California National Guard, 99 of the number are from Alameda county.

The matter has been referred to the district attorney for an opinion as to what relief may be offered by the county board, and financed with county funds.

HEARING ON BRIDGE PROJECT.

Lieutenant Colonel Thomas H. Rees of the United States Army Engineering Corps today notified the supervisors that two public meetings will be held before the board of officers of the engineering department of the army on the subject of the proposed new bridge over the estuary between Oakland and Alameda.

The first hearing will be held in the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce on August 15 at 10 o'clock in the morning and on August 16 the hearing will be in the Hotel Oakland. All persons interested in the proposition are invited to either or both of the hearings, when suggestions, written and oral, will be noted by the army board. Besides Colonel Rees, the army board is composed of Lieutenant Colonel Charles L. Potter and Major George B. Pillsbury.

COUNTY MAY PAVE SAN PABLO.

An opinion from the district attorney's office, through Deputy T. P. Wittschen, was rendered to the board today, stating that the county may pay for a portion or all of the cost of improving San Pablo avenue north from the Oakland line through Berkeley and Albany to the Contra Costa county line, if so desired.

The opinion has relieved the situation raised by contentions of members of the board as to the legalities of the proposal which has been made by Supervisor Foss in behalf of Berkeley.

As the matter now stands, the Albany trustees are ready to call a bond election to provide funds for defraying that town's portion of the expense if the supervisors will resolve to pay for an eighteen-foot strip of the highway providing that the bond election carries.

WOULD SELL SCHOOL BONDS.

The San Leandro Board of Trustees has asked that the supervisors advertise for bids on $25,000 worth of school bonds remaining unsold, in order that the proceeds can be utilized for the completion of buildings now under construction and for their furnishing.

WOULD FENCE IN INMATES.

Supervisor Charles Heyer, chairman of the infirmary committee brought up the proposition of constructing a high board fence around the infirmary so that more stringent regulations may be enforced preventing the leave-taking of patients who neglect to apply for permission to leave the premises and who return in an intoxicated condition.

"So long as some of these patients are given leaves of absence just so long will they return to the infirmary intoxicated and cause trouble," said Supervisor Heyer. "I would suggest that when patients leave without permission and get drunk that they be refused admission, and also that they be allowed to leave less frequently. We should take some stringent action until such time as we can construct a high board fence around the institution."

Dr. Wills said that patients who were able to get about are given leave of absence once a week if they desire to leave the infirmary grounds. He would be in accord, he said, with any action taken by the board barring drunken patients from the infirmary.

Boy of 10. Saved, Too Scared to Give Name

Somewhere on Seventh avenue a ten-year-old boy is thanking Providence that Harry Locke of 1227 Twenty-third avenue saw him fall into Lake Merritt this morning. Nameless he remains to Locke and P. T. Sullivan, who pulled him from the water as he was sinking for the second time, but his gratitude is none the less real.

Locke was passing along the boulevard when he saw the lad slip and fall into the lake at First avenue. He called to Sullivan, who is a member of the park department and was at work close by. The two men rushed to the spot and managed to pull the boy out just as he was going under again after having shouted for help. Shivering and frightened, the youngster refused to give his name, but ran quickly for his home, which he said was on Seventh avenue.

Dies in Vain Effort to Save His Friend

MODESTO, July 24.—An effort by Matt Marco, 23, to aid Manuel Souza, 14, who was stricken by cramps while swimming yesterday afternoon in a slough of the San Joaquin river west of Modesto, resulted in the drowning of both. The young men were members of a picnic party, none of whom were able to give assistance. While the slough was dragged until late last night and again today, the bodies have not been recovered. Souza's drowning is the second tragedy in the family within the last year, his father having suffered a broken neck in a fall from a wagon last November.

STEAM SCHOONER SHNA YAK, WHICH HAS GONE ASHORE OFF POINT SUR.

Billings, who is managing owner of her, left today for the scene of the wreck. Billings is also in the insurance business, and will see to the floating of the vessel. Shna Yak left San Pedro for this port in ballast where she was to get fuel and provisions and proceed north for another cargo of lumber. She carries 950,000 feet of lumber, and was a frequent visitor in Oakland harbor. She was built nine years ago at Winslow, Washington, and is fitted with a 600 horse power engine. It is expected that a tug will be sent from here to give what assistance is needed and will probably tow her to Oakland, where she will drydock for repairs.

BIG CLAIMS INVOLVED IN SUIT.

Shipowners' and Merchants' Tugboat company has asked in a Federal court petition that its liability for damages against the tugs Dauntless and Hercules be limited to $115,000. The Hammond Lumber company preferred a claim of $111,000 against the tug company, and it is said other claims would total more than $115,000. The tug put to sea with a raft of logs for the Hammond company and it was lost during a fog on Peacock spit. The tug company denies liability for the loss of the raft, but wishes to protect itself in case claims against the company should prevail.

Tonight at 7 o'clock, the fall term of the Public Navigation School starts at their headquarters, 113 Market street, San Francisco. The captain and crew of the steamer Queen, will also be called upon to tell what they know of the case, as they were there when the accident happened.

LICENSES SUSPENDED BY AUTHORITIES.

Lawrence Crawley, first officer, and James B. Richardson, assistant engineer of the steamer Whatcom, had their licenses suspended for 15 days each by the United States inspectors of hulls and boilers, Captains Whitney and Lord, for coming in contact with the Matson steamer Hyades. The Whatcom was trying to come into the same pier. There was a confusion of signals and neither officer used the proper caution.

DEFENDER TO UNLOAD AND GO ON DOCK.

The four masted schooner Defender, which arrived at Oakland harbor, on July 17 from Papeete with a cargo of 434 tons of copra, has finished unloading and towed to the Pacific shipyard to have a new mizzen mast installed. She has been chartered to load merchandise for Manila and will commence loading as soon as her repairs are made. She will also go on the drydock to be cleaned and painted. Captain Erickson will go out as master.

SIX STEAMERS ARE DUE HERE.

Six foreign steamers are on the way from the Atlantic coast, via Panama canal, bound for the Orient, and other far east ports, and will call here for fuel, which will be supplied by the Western Fuel company of Oakland. The Norwegian steamer Thor is due in the morning from Nanaimo, B. C., with 7500 tons of coal, and will discharge at the bunkers, foot of Market street, Oakland.

GEORGIANA GOES OUT FOR CARGO.

In tow of the tug Hercules, the four masted barkentine Georgiana left this port yesterday for Astoria, where she will load 1,175,000 feet of lumber for Sydney, Australia. She arrived here from Apia, two weeks ago, with 1139 tons of copra, being the largest cargo of that product ever brought here by one single vessel.

EFFORT TO END LIFE CAUSES TRAGEDY

Mrs. Agnes Gunn Plunges Before Alameda Train, But Will Recover.

ALAMEDA, July 24.—Throwing herself in front of a Southern Pacific electric train at Central avenue and Fernside boulevard this morning, in an attempt at suicide, Mrs. Agnes Gunn of 119 Sunnyside avenue, Piedmont, was dragged 600 feet by the momentum of the car and had her right leg severed between the knee and the ankle. She was rushed to the Emergency Hospital and attended by Dr. C. R. Crittenden, who at first pronounced her injuries to be fatal. She will probably recover, however, provided that the shock and loss of blood were not too great. She is now in the Alameda Sanitarium.

Mrs. Gunn is 37 years of age and the wife of Arthur C. Gunn, a painter in the employ of the Southern Pacific. She came here yesterday from San Jose, where she had been visiting relations, and was spending a few days at the Alfred Prior home, 3388 Briggs avenue. She has been in poor health for several months and apparently became discouraged over her condition.

"I am going to kill myself because of poor health." This brief message, scribbled on a sheet of paper, was found in her room at the Prior home. Until this was discovered it was believed that Mrs. Gunn had been accidentally struck by the train.

Motorman John Macauley and Conductor Thomas Hunt were in charge of the train.

The girl is about 5 feet 2 inches in height, weighing 138 pounds, has black hair and brown eyes. At the time she left home she was wearing a blue serge suit, blue and white striped waist and a blue and white check hat. She also wore eyeglasses.

JAPANESE WOMAN SPEAKS.

Miss Michi Kawai, national secretary of the Young Women's Christian Association of Japan, will speak at a meeting of the Ru Ai Kai tomorrow at 2:30 p. m., at the Clift Hotel, San Francisco. Miss Kawai was born in Japan with centuries of Japanese tradition back of her. In later years she was placed in an American Mission school which unquestionably influenced all her later life. She was graduated from Bryn Mawr College in 1906.

MEETING IN AUDITORIUM.

J. H. Grande, candidate for city commissioner in the recall campaign against Dr. F. F. Jackson, Commissioner of Public Health and Safety, has leased the municipal auditorium for the evening of July 26 for the purpose of holding a political meeting. The present political situation and the needed reforms will be discussed by the candidate and other speakers.

RELEASED ON BAIL.

George A. Arthur, a solicitor, is out of the city prison today on $500 bail, following a failure to provide charge which was placed against him last December by his wife. Arthur claims that he has been away from Oakland since the latter part of 1915, and that for a long interval he was sick in a Chicago hospital. It is likely that the matter will be adjusted out of court.

IRREGULAR MARKET IN SECURITY LIST

Activity in United States Steel Leading Feature of Trading

NEW YORK, July 24.—Profit-taking and distributive selling influences by the recent professional recovery imparted a good deal of irregularity to the security list in the early trading today. The uncertainty of the movement was the more disappointing to the element committed to the constructive side of the account in view of the generally favorable character of the news over the Sunday intermission and the widespread belief in a highly satisfactory quarterly report by the United States Steel Corporation tomorrow. According to the current rumor, the leading steel producer will show the largest earnings in its history and although there is no certainty about the matter, the possibility of an extra dividend by way of compensation for payments omitted last year is entertained in some well informed circles.

Activity in United States Steel overshadowed all else in the market at the outset, and under the influence of strength of the market leader, practically everything moved to a higher level. But before the expiration of the first half hour heavy professional selling checked the improvement. United Industrial Alcohol broke sharply and extended its loss to seven points or so later on.

Dealings fell away materially after the first hour and the market thereafter displayed little or no animation. Thereafter the market was largely one of special movements in special issues and it spoke of the meagerness of public participation.

Conditions were little changed in the late trading and the market lost none of its professional character. Prices moved narrowly when at all, but dealings were confined to relatively few issues.

LONDON, July 24.—Canadian Pacific developed strength in the American section of the Stock Market today, but the rest of the list closed quiet after little trading.

Movements of representative American securities on the London Stock Exchange today included the following price changes: Declines, Atchison, 5-8; Erie, 1-4; Southern Pacific, 1-4; Union Pacific, 1-2; United States Steel, 1-8. Advances, Missouri, Kansas & Texas, 1¾; Canadian Pacific, 2.

The pace of the first half hour was too rapid, realizing sales soon caught a shrinkage of values. Industrial Alcohol declined more than eight points on rumors of a hitch in foreign contracts under negotiations.

United States Steel showed more resistance than other leaders, although yielding more than half of its advance.

War Issues succumbed to pressure and motors reacted with Mexican Petroleum.

Bonds were irregular with considerable activity in Anglo-French and the new French issues.

Alcohol extended its loss to more than 10 points in the early afternoon. Steel and other leaders hardened on comparatively light inquiries.

PROFESSIONAL COMMENT.

E. H. Hutton & Co.—There is plenty of bull ammunition this week. The Steel meeting with the probability of record-breaking earnings and the possibility of an extra dividend enormous gold imports. Everything indicates a peaceful solution of the railroad wage question.

New York Financial News Bureau—A continuation of the bull trading market with specialties as features, is suggested by late events. An outstanding element is the apparent scarcity of offerings in the industrial list exposed through bidding by the short interest and indicating that the oversold condition remains. The railway list is reported held back by liquidation of holdings acquired in payment for munitions.

COOLER WEATHER MAKES WHEAT SAG

Moderate General Upturn Followed by General Decline in All Grains.

CHICAGO, July 24.—Cooler weather that tended to allay fears regarding black rust gave an advantage today to the bears in wheat. The opening, which ranged from ⅛c off to ¼c advance, with September at $1.18½@1.19¼ and December at $1.21½@1.22⅛, was followed by a moderate general upturn, and then a sag all around to below Saturday's finish.

Hot dry weather in the corn belt brought about a rise in the price of corn. The market, however, reacted with wheat and turned weak. After an opening, which was ½@1⅛c higher, nearly all of the gains disappeared and in some cases were replaced with a net loss.

Oats had no independent action.

Higher prices on hogs lifted provisions.

Subsequently, hedging sales against rural shipments of new winter wheat formed a handicap on the bulls, but bad crop reports from the northwest, together with a liberal decrease in the United States visible supply, total, resulted in a sharp rally. The close was strong, 2⅞@3⅛c net higher, with September at $1.22¾ and December $1.25.

Enlarged receipts of corn here led afterward to a setback in the July option, but other deliveries hardened to a material extent. The close was unsettled at a range varying from ⅛c decline to a rise of ⅞c.

EXPERT OPINION.

Ware & Leland—We believe that the situation contains many elements of strength in wheat and favor purchases on any setback. Believe purchases of corn are warranted on normal reactions.

S. B. Chapin & Co.—We are of the opinion that conditions warrant still higher prices in wheat. Oat market responds easily to buying, especially as foreign requirements are expected to be unusually heavy.

Finley, Barrell & Co.—We look for this advance to continue and favor purchases on all soft spots. Look for sharply higher corn prices and are friendly to long side of September oats.

Lamson Bros.—Under ordinary conditions the present advance would discount a lot of damage, but the situation appears so acute that it is highly probable higher prices will be registered. The Kansas state corn crop report is extremely bullish and indicates that the new crop delivery will advance still further.

FRUIT CANNERS PLEASED.

Fruit canners in California are reported to be well pleased with the fact that housewives are evidently canning less fruit this year, largely because of the high cost of sugar. They believe it will mean a marked increase in the demand for canned fruits through the retail grocer. One big northern canner in an interview last week said:

"When winter comes and the fresh fruit is gone, the average household is not going to stop at higher prices to appease the appetite for fruit. As a result the coming season will see by far the greatest consumption of commercially canned fruit in the history of the country. Eastern jobbers are realizing this situation, and there has been an unprecedented sale of futures. Most canners naturally bought sugar before it reached the top, and they have this advantage over the housewife who as a rule has had to buy her sugar at the top market which has prevailed so far since fresh fruits were available."—New York Journal of Commerce.

CALIFORNIA CROPS.

Car lot shipments from California this season to date of July 18, as reported to the Department of Agriculture include the following from California: Cantaloupes, 4614; peaches, 392; new potatoes, 1098; tomatoes, 211; watermelons, 435 (the latter probably incomplete).

Truck crops for canning figures as given by the U. S. Bureau of Crop Estimates place the condition of these in California at the following percentages: Snap beans, 98; corn, 90; cucumbers, 80; peas, 30; strawberries, 60; tomatoes, 81.

RAILROAD EARNINGS HIGH.

Railroads throughout the United States and Canada earned during the first week of July, as shown by the returns of 32 roads, an aggregate of $13,948,995, as compared with $11,191,094 for the same period a year ago. This registers a net increase of $2,757,901, or 24.65 per cent. The final summary of the earnings of 37 roads for the fourth week in June shows the total of $19,756,119, against $15,600,468, an increase of $4,155,651, or 26.64 per cent.

CONDITIONS GOOD IN OIL INDUSTRY

Consumption Largely in Excess of Production on Pacific Coast.

At present conditions in the California oil fields are stronger than in any other field in the country. Consumption is largely in excess of production on the Pacific Coast, and notwithstanding the recent advance of 5 cents a barrel in the price of crude oil, further advance is looked for before output will overtake demand.

Prices of crude range from 63 to 72 cents a barrel at the wells. Some of the more optimistic producers are talking of $1 oil within a reasonable time.

There also has been a large increase in refinery capacity and operations in California. The Standard Oil, Shell and Associated Oil remain the biggest companies as a result of large additions to plant in the last few months.

The Standard has added considerably to its refineries at Port Richmond and El Segundo. At the last named place a new lubricating plant was started early this year. The Associated Oil Company has increased the capacity of its refinery at Avon. The Union Oil Company, one of the large companies of California, has enlarged its lubricating plant at Oleum.

As a result of the general improvement in crude and refined prices, oil companies generally are showing much better earnings than has been the case for several years past.

The report of the Union Oil Company for the six months ended June 30, last, indicates the extent of the prosperity which the leading companies are sharing in. It shows profits earned from all operations, after deducting general expenses, taxes and interest charges, were approximately $4,350,000, an increase of $3,174,000 over the corresponding period of last year, and equivalent to 25 per cent a year on the issued capital stock. Net profit after making provision for depreciation, was approximately $3,150,000, an increase of $1,980,000 over the same period of 1915, and equal to 18½ per cent a year. For the full year of 1915 the company earned 8.27 per cent after depreciation.

Production of the Union and controlled companies for the last half year was 3,314,000 net barrels, an increase of 559,000 over the first six months of 1915. Sales for the half year approximate $13,159,000, compared with $8,862,000 for the corresponding period of last year. Capital expenditures for the six months ended June 30, last, were $1,470,000. Current assets on June 30, last, were $12,950,000 and are over 8 to 1 of current liabilities. Cash balances were $1,850,000. Excess of current assets over current liabilities was $11,450,000. Current liabilities were $1,500,000.

PACIFIC PACKERS TO ESCAPE PROBE

When it was announced in these columns early in June, that certain large jobbing interests of this market were urging the Federal authorities to investigate the California and Hawaii packers under the Sherman law as conspirators, says the New York Journal of Commerce, their Eastern representatives were disposed to ridicule the whole idea as a "pipe dream." But according to the Washington letter of the American Food Journal—and its correspondents are generally understood in trade circles to be very close to official sources of information—the matter was formally presented and received official attention. The correspondent, however, expresses the opinion that no official action will be taken owing to the lack of legal evidence to support the charges. To quote from the letter:

"Attorney General Gregory, early in June, was invited to bring anti-trust suits against Hawaiian canners of pineapples and packers of tuna fish and Columbia river salmon. The suggestion that he should do so came from jobbers in New York city who think that because the packers mentioned quoted identical prices a short time ago the horns of the Sherman and Clayton laws might well be invoked against the canners and packers.

"Thus far nothing has come to the Department of Justice upon which the Attorney General could act. It is possible that something may come, but so far as can be learned there is no evidence of anxiety on the part of the Attorney General to go after the scalps of any of those engaged in supplying wholesale grocers with the canned articles before mentioned. On the contrary, there are many reasons for believing that he would like it just as well if the grocery jobbers allowed him to spend a peaceful and restful summer.

"It has been pointed out, unofficially, that the mere fact that canners quote identical prices is not sufficient to subject them to the penalties of the law. The fact that such identical prices were quoted would be only one of several facts to be proved before anything could be done to the canners."

Two Boys Injured in Niles Canyon

NILES, July 24. — Frank Nichols, a 14-year-old motorcyclist, son of Edward Nichols, 762 Treat avenue, San Francisco, is suffering from painful injuries as the result of being thrown over the handle bars of his machine in Niles canyon. A companion, whose name was not learned, who was seated on the rear seat of the motorcycle, incurred cuts and bruises.

Nichols was riding at a fairly rapid pace yesterday when he ran into a heap of gravel. His machine skidded and upset and he turned a somersault over the handle bars. The other boy was also thrown off the machine. Nichols, who was the worst hurt, was taken in a passing automobile to the office of Dr. T. F. Taylor here. His injuries include a fractured knee cap. After receiving treatment he was able to go home.

Officials Learn Advertising Pays

MINNEAPOLIS, July 24.—Officials of the Ninth District Federal Reserve Bank here today announced that they have learned it pays to advertise. Placing bonds of the United States in the hands of individual investors in denominations as low as $100 has been accomplished through newspaper advertising.

"Such a step is in keeping with the best counsel of European nations," Chairman John H. Rich of the federal reserve bank said today. "The people must be led to think that this is their government, and that they have an interest in it. Their holding government bonds will help them. They will realize they have loaned a friend some money and have his note."

STOCK & BOND EXCHANGE

Associated Oil gained five-eighths to 67¾ on the Stock and Bond Exchange this morning. The market in stocks was somewhat irregular and not at all brisk. Gains were made of a quarter each by Union and Onomea among the sugars, while Hawaiian Commercial and Sugar lost a quarter to 52¾. Northern California Power was off a quarter and Pacific Gas and Electric preferred up a quarter. No sales of Alaska Packers were made.

The bond market was quiet but strong with L. A. Pacific 5s and Southern Pacific first refunding 4s each an eighth higher.

OIL & MINING STOCKS

A narrow and limited market opened the week on the San Francisco Stock Exchange. There were few sales and little demand for any sort of mining issues. The little trading done was chiefly at lower prices. The Comstocks were weak, Ophir losing two points and Union one. Dealings in the Goldfields were confined to the minor issues at nominal prices, with sales of Red Lion a point lower at 24. The Tonopahs were quiet and weak, West End selling two points off. The Arizonas and other lists were entirely neglected.

An assessment of five cents a share has been made in Consolidated Virginia of the Comstock group.

Honey Good Crop, Says Government

The yields of honey to July 1 average 26 pounds per colony, against 21.6 at this date last year, according to the government crop report. This increase results from the fine white clover now in the North Central States and in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Kentucky and Tennessee. Yields have been light in New England and New York because of the lateness of the season, with almost constant rains, which conditions have also prevented a heavier outturn to date in the North Central States. Yields in the Southern States have, on the whole, averaged not far from those of last year, although poorer in Virginia and North Carolina, and better in Louisiana and Arkansas. In Texas, notwithstanding severe droughts in heavy producing territory, the average to date for the state as a whole is almost double that of last year at this time. In Arizona yields have been less than half those of last year to date, and in California also somewhat below. A fair early crop was realized in Southern California before the dry weather took effect, though both orange and sage are short. Elsewhere in the mountain states yields have been light to date.

The condition of colonies on July 1 is reported at 93, highest in the North Central and South Central states, being low in New England because the cold, wet season has prevented the bees from working, and in most of the West because of freezes and droughts limiting supplies.

Condition of honey plants on July 1 is reported at 93.3 per cent of a normal at this date. The condition of white clover is exceptionally promising throughout practically its entire range. Condition is therefore unusually high in the North Central States, ranging from 100 to 125 per cent of normal.

Officials Will Aid in Reorganization

United Railroads officials will work in harmony with the committee of San Francisco bankers selected to help reorganize the system, according to President Jesse W. Lilienthal, who, in a statement today, says:

The reorganization committee, consisting of William H. Crocker, Herbert Fleishhacker, I. W. Hellman Jr., J. D. McKee and Frank B. Anderson, will make a thorough investigation and report on the affairs of the United Railroads. It is probable they will make recommendations regarding a plan for reorganization, and I shall be glad to carry out any suggestions from this committee of conservative financiers.

In the reorganization control of the corporation will be placed in the hands of those primarily interested in the bonds of underlying securities of the company. Thus the United will pass into the control of California men. Eastern stockholders are said to have surrendered to the reorganization committee.

LOCAL PRODUCE

While quotations remained about the same, the cantaloupe market was weak this morning and demand very light. Arrivals were not up to the market in quality, most of them being green and undesirable.

Lemons again advanced as predicted last week. The new prices are a full dollar higher than the advanced prices of last week. Heavy demand is reported from New York and other eastern centers and probabilities are that they will not be cheaper if they do not make further gains. The absence of the Sicily lemons from the New York market, coupled with the hot weather, explains the high prices.

Strawberries were in light demand and prices around $5 for very fancy stock. Raspberries were high, bringing $7.50 a chest but were not sold readily, the quality being poor with many of the berries mouldy. Buyers seemed to be turning to blackberries, which sold freely today at around $3 a chest.

Seedless grapes are plentiful at $1.25 to $1.35 a box.

Peaches of the better varieties were more plentiful today than they have been yet. Two cars arrived and others came in from river points. They sold around $1 for large lugs and 50 to 75 cents for Los Angeles lugs.

Plums are in good supply with Hungarians and gross prunes selling at 90 cents to $1 a crate and $1 to $1.25 a lug box. Kelsey Japans brought 90 cents to $1.

Summer squash is plentiful and cheap at 50 to 60 cents a lug box.

'OAKLAND FIRST' EXCITES INTEREST

Committees Named for Big Exhibition Here in September.

Much interest is being manifested in the joint "Try Oakland First" exhibition and industrial display of the United Commercial Travelers, Oakland Council No. 394, and the Manufacturers' Bureau of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce to be held in the municipal auditorium during the week commencing September 23 and concluding September 30.

Committees have been appointed by both organizations for the purpose of co-operating to the end that the event may be one of historic success. J. J. Mullarky of the travelers' organization and George A. Marwedell of the Manufacturers' Bureau head the committees which have the general exhibit arrangements in charge. Miss Bessie Wood is at the head of the women's branch, which will plan to have the interests of women represented during the week.

The general committee is headed by B. F. Welch, and Meyer F. Lewis is in charge of the finance committee. There is a committee of twenty-five who will form an advisory board made up of the two organizations. George W. Fitch will be general director of the exposition.

The object of the exposition is to give the people of Alameda county an opportunity to witness displays and demonstrations which are interesting from a local point of view, showing the commercial and industrial development of the bay region. There are to be several lectures and programs during the week.

The proceeds will be used for the purpose of swelling the building fund of the United Commercial Travelers' local, which organization is planning to erect a handsome home. The local executives believe this home will become a Mecca for traveling men of the Pacific Coast.

Picnic Crowds Invade Pinehurst and Canyon

The Order of the Companions of the Forest, A. O. F., held the largest picnic of the season at Pinehurst yesterday. Two special electric trains of the Oakland-Antioch were needed to take two thousand members and their friends to the picnic grounds; the regular trains during the day were loaded with later visitors to the grounds.

The committee: M. Boehm, president; Mrs. K. Kravehyk, vice-president; Miss Ella Wunderhill, secretary; Mrs. L. McLerman, treasurer, and Mrs. J. Porter, sergeant-at-arms. The chair lady of the trombola was Miss Ray Levy.

The Foresters of America, Court U. S. A. No. 38, left Oakland yesterday on a chartered train of the Oakland and Antioch to attend their annual picnic at Pinehurst in Redwood Canyon. There were three hundred in the party.

The picnic was in charge of a committe composed of J. Van Mourick, chairman; A. Fox, D. Levin, M. Lewis and F. Zelich.

Power Boat Makes 42 Miles an Hour

Tuned up to a speed of forty-two miles an hour and with no rival with which to try conclusions was the disappointing situation in which the fast motor cruiser Della L. was placed in the picturesque regatta held by the Oakland Yacht Club. It was the fourth annual regatta of the California section of the American Power Boat Association and was held on the Oakland estuary yesterday. Yachting enthusiasts from both sides of the bay attended. Only one race was run out of the three scheduled.

The scheduled race between the high-powered boats did not take place. The Della H. was the only one to appear. It gave an exhibition race, making forty-two miles an hour. On account of the abandonment of two of the races the arrangements committee of the Oakland Yacht Club had more prizes for distribution than there were competitors. Every boat in the cruiser class was awarded a prize in appreciation of its participation.

UGH! A DOSE OF NASTY CALOMEL

It Salivates! It Makes You Sick and You May Lose a Day's Work.

You're bilious, sluggish, constipated and believe you need vile, dangerous calomel to start your liver and clean your bowels.

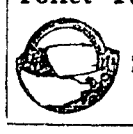

Here's my guarantee! Ask your druggist for a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone and take a spoonful tonight. If it doesn't start your liver and straighten you right up better than calomel and without griping or making you sick I want you to go back to the store and get your money.

Take calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak and sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of harmless, vegetable Dodson's Liver Tone tonight and wake up feeling great. It's perfectly harmless, so give it to your children any time. It can't salivate, so let them eat anything afterwards.—Advertisement.

War and the garment makers' strike have exposed wierd facts.

One is that but few inspired creators of the Mode are born, nourished and retained under the Star-Spangled Banner. The other that the most spiritual soul may flame into rebellion while turning out other people's fascinations—such as crepe de chine lingerie.

To make some hyena's exterior alluring might make even you, you know, one of the furious few.

At any rate, many a shopper, hunting through the jungle of the department stores for the sublimated advance mode, has been desperately discouraged by some of the unimaginative, the staid, sad, monotonous sartorial harbingers of autumn that have been sent on by the few designers and garment makers left in activity in the East.

She need not sorrow unduly—because there are a few satisfying clothes left in the world—and the rest are coming a little later. Her principal need is to encourage American design- and a little joie de vie in American winter garb.

In spite of all the hordes who turned out to be sufficiently foreign to feel called to the trenches instead of feeling a brotherly desire to assist in clothing us; in spite of the others who turned, like the worm, there are still signs of new activity noticeable in the shops.

A stirring toward a changing season, the openings of plays, higher necks, fuller sleeves, grape harvests dinner parties, heavy literature, legislation, a need of new vine leaves for the hair, makes it imperative for the alert hunter of adornment to be watchfully seeking.

Therefore this mention of things advertised in The TRIBUNE:

Like spun glass, or the wings of dragon flies is a new fabric identified as "Metalline" that is intended for foundations for evening gowns. Of greenish old gold, of silver, splendid emerald or of sapphire, of tamer pink or blues, this stuff at Kahn's glimmers through overskirts of chiffon or net like irridescent metal.

Otherwise there is little new in either fabrics or trimming as yet. No new patterns are being invented abroad, and old ones, including the old-fashioned applique, are being revived in new color schemes. But the first fur bandings of the season show a certain novelty, for they are very wide, indeed, either for chiffon frocks or velvet coats. Already at this shop mentioned are eight inch border of black French Coney—and of white—ready to edge the bottoms of swirling coats. For this is to be—like last season, only more so—a wild fur season. Though furs have gone up 20 per cent.

But the summer fur is high in favor, and to be at all ultra a fair one must exhibit mufflers of it above her high-topped boots or somewhere or other!

If sweaters were flamboyant this spring there remains simply nothing to remark about the abandoned gaiety of the latest arrivals.

Since there was little left to be said in pure sweeps of a single color, they have decorated many of the new ones with rainbow stripes, great bands of contrasting color, or with interwoven threads that give a rainbow effect.

Rather mild rainbow stripes running horizontally around the lower border and forming above the collar were used to emphasize the soft orange of one of Taft & Pennoyer's angora sweaters. Another odd creation blended fuzzy ribs of blue and flesh pink, while still more extraordinary was a similar one of orange and tomato shades that suggested a Mexican dish of the most temperamental character. Much milder—yet still more unusual—was one of gray interwoven with pink into a tweed plaid effect and concluded with a wide plain gray belt, a gray collar and cuffs, as well as many shining convex gray buttons.

One refined, imported Angora model was of a pure American Beauty rose shade, while a Kelly green affair showed that stripes were not entirely taboo by the half-inch green and white striped decorations on it. Reversible Italian silk sweaters of considerable expensiveness are another development—coming, for instance, all peacock blue on one side and all Kelly green on the other, so that when one side fades it is simply turned inside out.

But whether they are of angora or of knitted wool, they all display collars that may be fastened high about the throat, and they have buttons to match the front bands of the sweater.

Joyously welcomed to the salon of any persistent hostess would be a "muffin" stand, such as Jackson's exhibits. These affairs are usually of three rounded triangular little shelves held in by three curving bands of wood and carried about by a wooden ring-like handle at the top, just as one carries a parasol.

Such stands are not only convenient but might show a proper encouraging appreciation of the nourishment one gets at tea at some particular house. If presented to a bride, it would indicate that she was supposed to entertain extravagantly.

Another agreeable trifle of furniture is an English mahogany table not more than a foot and a half wide—the width of a chair seat, and perhaps a yard long—with rounded corners. Such a table placed between chairs and exactly beside them, so that cups and plates and other tea things may go there without disaster, would make any drawing room popular. It does away so nobly with the cup-in-the-lap act.

Boys in knickerbockers are now provided at Money-Back Smith's with "pinch-back" suits. There is no reason why they should suffer the tortures of those whose tender years are too plainly revealed by their blouse-like attire.

These "pinch-back" creations are fashioned with coats of a sport type, patch-pocketed, belted with belts in three sections, and pleated in back. Also they are evolved of tweeds and homespuns in browns and grays, and completed with knickerbockers.

Because the whole of creation out of the trenches demanded white silk and cotton to wear inside of limitless white boots, white hose almost vanished off the face of the earth. It remains still difficult to find what a desperate wearer of hose desires, but there are a few places where white ones may be found, among them Marymont & Upright's.

At this shop there are white cotton stockings of various grades and kinds, from lisle to fibre silk and from cotton to pure silk. Also, there are white Italian silk attractions—in demand particularly in the short-skirted era that is today. A special kind of hosiery is evolved with no seams whatever, whether it is entirely of silk, or of silk just above the boot, and, despite its lack of seam, is no more expensive than any other kinds, and much more guaranteed.

The seeker for taupe, champagne, bronze, gold and several other elusive shades can discover them here, too.

Seems rather premature to order Christmas cards now instead of the day after the 25th of December, when the lost souls know they are lost. But since the stationery department of Morton & Sons is being closed out, various provident persons are indulging in cards now at a dramatic reduction and having them engraved to keep in cold storage until the fatal holiday approaches.

Papers and correspondence cards are all cut on ample lines, with envelopes of spacious length or else quite square, if they are at all smart. Gay linings, of course. Among the foreign papers at this shop is an oddly woven mauve with an envelope lined with lavender metallic brocaded paper. A small white note paper's envelopes conceal orange and silver lining, while an American paper of dead white has a patent-leather-like lining of sharp, shiny black and white stripes. Another kind has envelope lining of the narrowest purple and white stripes. The principal thing is gaiety.

Hoops, consisting of 4-inch featherbone circles set below the hips, where they will make a most panniarded effect against the figure, were the odd feature of a blue taffeta afternoon frock at Manheim & Mazor's. Where the stiff circles were attached to the silk the fabric was shirred into the fullest of gathers, to add amplitude to the entire skirt when it unfolded.

Another navy blue taffeta at the same shop had a bodice not quite like an Eton jacket and yet not a surplice, though it was not far from either. At the back hung a huge but diaphanous sailor collar of Georgette crepe to match the narrow trifles of cuffs. The collar, in every case, is most important, but not always found where it's wanted; isn't it so?

Tinsel thread embroidery decorates many of the new serge frocks coming out of the East, and saves them from too sombre an air.

On a black serge and satin model at the Toggery embroidery of this type in silver leaves ran around the top of the deep serge skirt border where it joined the satin. On the blouse it connected the serge yoke with the satin lower part, and down on the flat sash it formed the link between the serge hem and the satin bands. But for this trimming, perhaps 4 inches wide, utter simplicity—concluded with a collar and little cuffs of the inevitable white Georgette crepe.

For the enterprising motorist as many twos-in-one have been invented as for the apartment dweller.

The latest is a bag that becomes a cap after a feminine rider strikes the open road and falls into the mood to store her hat away somewhere in the car other than on her head. Either one carries in it socks to be knit for soldiers, or in case the owner is still braver a luncheon packed in multitudinous layers of immaculate and sanitary wrappings. It's a little reversion to the bandana handkerchief utilized by primitive souls unharried by too much knowledge, as either a suitcase, a collar or a hat, according to the time of day.

These cap-bags are either of dark taffeta or of gayer corduroy in gored sections topped with a band that turns up into a little brim. A button at the center finished this creation at Capwell's.

White kid bags for all white apparel, and little sport bags of striped silk, fitted within with mirrors and coin purses and without with tassels are other adjuncts for the summer toilette. Among the dark leather purses the number of small flat affairs with a strap to slip the fingers through is noticeable. Perhaps the ease with which one can cling to one's carfare and dance at the same time—or skate—is responsible for the revival of these conveniences.

But the most conspicuous novelty that grows in favor is the week-end bag of collapsible ends and of much delightful flatness.

A patent leather slightly corrugated all over and free from tendencies to crack has been seized upon for many of the newest ones.

* * *

Innumerable buttons run up and down every conceivable spot on many of the new frocks. Red silk thread fastened on quantities of black buttons on one of the Eastern Outfitting Company's late arrivals matched the red of red-and-blue embroidered designs on the front and back of the broad belt holding in its severely-straight pleats.

Another little dress of military preciseness was peppered down the front with dozens of gray-smoked pearl buttons, as close together as they could possibly be, almost as large as fifty-cent pieces, and caught down by loops of blue serge. Similar, but smaller buttons outlined the sides of two-belt sections that gave the blouse a bolero effect. Otherwise the only relief was provided by the white silk lining of a collar that could be fastened to the chin and then turned over smartly.

* * *

Any kind of a bargain in agreeably-colored things worsted—and necessary is regarded as a sublime opportunity at this tryingly-expensive period of the world's history.

Most of the wool is going into soldier's trench attire.

Nevertheless, Breuner's have declared a reduction of a most visible kind of Wilton rugs of the kind that harmonize with walls and furniture particularly well. These worsted Wiltons are never exactly given away, so the fair buyer who despairs of finding a desirable rug within reach of immodestly inadequate finances should be feverishly interested.

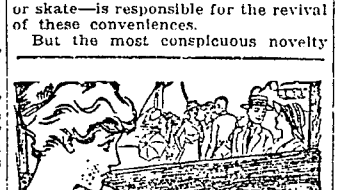

* * *

The severity of the autumn modes was illustrated in one of Cosgrave's new models of navy blue serge. It had the long straight coat with little flare and no interruption excepting a narrow belt stitched with many rows of stitching around it. Black silk military braid finished all the edges and many more rows of stitching ran down the seams, and on the strap that belted in the gathers at the back of the skirt. A black velvet collar of the two-in-one order, rolled up about the neck.

The dark, sweeping velvet collar is a distinct feature of the new jackets and coats—but one to be regarded long and suspiciously by fair ones past the lithe impertinence of youth!

Does a pimply, unattractive skin shut you out from the full enjoyment of the summer's pleasures? Then think of this:

To use Resinol Soap means that each time you cleanse your face you give it a "beauty treatment" with the soothing, healing Resinol medication. If aided, in severe cases, by a little Resinol Ointment, this usually leaves the complexion naturally clear and fresh. JEWISH RELIEF FUND INCREASED

Large Sum Realized at Picnic, Which Is Attended by 1000.

Plans are being made today to send a considerable sum to Europe, to aid in the relief work of the National Jewish Relief Committee, as the result of the successful benefit picnic, held at Stege yesterday, when more than 1000 people gathered at East Shore Park for the novel entertainment.

Athletic games, dancing and special numbers of all kinds were on the program of the day. Guests from all parts of the bay region were in attendance.

The picnic had been planned for some time as a benefit for the national committee's work, and realized a considerable sum, according to the committees in charge. The National Jewish Relief Committee is in charge of the relief work among the Jewish people throughout the war zone. It has achieved signal success in relieving conditions in Poland and in other countries where distress has been serious among non-combatants.

The affair yesterday was in the hands of a general committee appointed by various Jewish organizations interested in the work, and this committee worked under the supervision of the general organization. The committee included the following:

H. Koblick, chairman; N. Mishkovsky, M. Roseman, M. Blackfield, M. West, J. Greenberg, M. Rafael, J. Waxman, A. Marcus, M. Meyerson, H. Levy, Miss Sarah Lubarsky, Mrs. Eva Fruitman, Mrs. S. Paley, Mrs. L. Blum, Mrs. P. Futerman and others.

"Coats Off" Rules Sacramento Court

SACRAMENTO, July 24.—A decision which sets aside a warm weather precedent was handed down by Superior Judge Charles O. Busick yesterday afternoon, when he ruled that attorneys, clerks, bailiffs, witnesses and spectators may attend court with coats removed.

Judge Busick's court was particularly warm yesterday afternoon. The judge himself was comfortably clad in a "Palm Beach." Others less fortunately attired were sweltering. Judge Busick halted the proceedings in the case he was hearing long enough to state that the dignity of the court would not be offended if coats were removed.

Bridge Breaks; Three Drowned as Result

KINGSTON, Minn., July 24.—Three persons were drowned here when a footbridge over the Crow river, on which twenty members of a picnic party were standing collapsed. A wire cable, which remained fast at one end, enabled many to reach shore, while others were rescued by members of the party who are good swimmers.
